THE man who is always starting something needs to be swift and sudden in his sidestepping abilities.

The man who is always getting into trouble usually is found depending on his wife to get him out.

Christmas comes and Christmas goes, but the bills for the same are always with us.

It is hard to make some people believe that they are smart, but it is often necessary.

Nothing looks quite so comforting as a full coal bin on the 1st of January—unless it is a full pocketbook and a fat bank account.

You can drive a boy to water, but you can't coax him to take a bath. Other means are necessary.

The man who can always tell you all about it doesn't.

All this time the north pole never dreamed it was lost.

Being busy is the privilege of some men and the principle of others.

Occasionally the one most in need of a chaperon is the chaperon.

Now and then a pig will get thin and stay in poor condition simply because of poor teeth. We have seen hogs of this type being fed on ear corn that picked up right away when the same amount of corn or less was fed in the shape of meal.

It is usually greedy folk—those who want to get something for nothing—that most often fall prey to multitudinous skin games. That is, they get plucked by a class of sharks who are busy at the same game as they are, the only difference being that the sharks succeed and wax fat on it.

The fear that is sometimes felt by the one just installing a silo that ensilage not used within a year may spoil does not seem to be justified in view of the experience of the Wisconsin station, where ensilage has been kept in excellent shape under proper conditions for a period of five or six years.

Time was when it was thought out of the question to separate little chicks any distance from a clucking old hen. Today literally tens of thousands of downy little fellows but a few days old are shipped by express from many big poultry centers and given the kindly and louseless housing of a brooder on arriving at their destination.

Thanks to recent alertness and activity on the part of the postal authorities, a whole lot of grafters who have been using the mails to misrepresent and defraud have been run to earth and in many cases have not only had to pay heavy fines, but many of them are now doing time in federal prisons. Let the good work go on, for there are still others who should be chased into the open.

MARIAR.
My Mariar ain't no dudline
Rugged up in a low cut gown,
With glass diamonds on her fingers,
Like them ladies wear in town.
She don't hug no poodle neither
Nor wear rats in her brown hair,
An' fur op'ras an' fur flirts in'
You kin bet she doesn't care.
She don't sport no stylish hat, str.
Big as that barn over there,
She don't need no paint an' powder
To make her sweet face look fair.
For her eyes are blue as heaven
An' her cheeks a beauty rose,
An' she's graceful without fixin's
An' them fashion furbelows,
An' her hands as soft as mother's,
An' her cookin' the best yet.
When her children hug around her
It's a picture, you kin bet.
Wish I was jist half so good, sir,
Peter quick would say: "Come in!
Take a front seat with the angels
That have never done a sin."

KURIGE FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q.—What effect has age on molting?
What is a normal molting period?

A.—The older a hen the later and longer her molt. About two months.

Q.—Why do poultrymen use trap nests?
From what I read it is simply to catch 200 egg hens to advertise for trade.

A.—Sensible fanciers use traps to catch the drones for the cook pot and to get the egg records of hens so they may breed from the best layers and thus build a laying strain.

Q.—What is pip, and what is its cure?

A.—Pip is simply the drying or hardening of the upper surface of the tongue and is generally caused by air passing through the mouth instead of the nostrils. See that the nostrils and cleft of mouth are clear, so fowl may breathe naturally, and apply glycerin to the scale on tongue.

Q.—My young stock have sore eyes. They have free range in field and orchard and show no cold, but in the morning their eyes are shut. Are they stung, or what is it?

A.—Chickens on range often get corn in the milk and sweet apples. The sticky juice from these often stains their heads and pester their eyes shut. This is likely the cause of the trouble. Wash the head and eyes in clear water and all will be O. K.

Q.—How many breeds do you keep at Riverside? I have been reading your descriptions of the various breeds, and you seem to be acquainted with all of them. If so, how do you keep them from getting mixed?

A.—We do not keep more than one variety at a time, but have bred many breeds in our lifetime. There are very few fanciers who run a rooster menagerie today, as such a chicken conglomeration does not pay.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

If your hens don't lay winter eggs, don't swear, don't get pessimistic. Study their actions. If they loaf in a corner they are cold or lazy—overfat. Handle your hens. Look through their feathers for lice; look into their throats for canker; examine their buff for indications of indigestion. Yes; if you don't know a hen from the mall to finale you're sure to fail.

There are many degrees of meanness, but there are few meaner than the advertiser who ships a beginner worn-out stock for a fancy price. The victim breeds from this stock and at the end of the first or second season discovers that the offspring is worthless, his time and money are lost and he must start again. Life is too short, judgment too sure and eternity too long for dishonesty.

A Sharon (Pa.) party who stole a two pound spring chicken was allowed by the justice to settle the case, and it cost him just $45. Rather high at $22.50 per pound.

Salt does not poison fowls if introduced gradually until their system assimilates sufficient to become accustomed to it before the maximum amount is fed. A half gallon of mash is the right quantity.

Hats off to New York! Last year she ate 33,000 miles of eggs and 60,000 miles of bread. This means 1,410,000,000 eggs that cost $29,300,000 and 615,500,000 loaves of bread that cost $30,000,000. Eggs for nog aren't counted.

Hats off to the lady with the hobble skirt! It's common that a woman can't hit a hen with a stone, and now that she is hobbled so she can't chase Biddy you may turn your scratchers loose on her flower beds without apprehension.

A rich Pennsylvania recently sold his cigar factory and went into the poultry business. When he found 700 dead chicks in his brooders one morning he began to see that it takes more than huddle to get there.

For, whether plow or saw or hen Or pulpit, printing press or pen, You've got to have their know how when You think to make success of them.

His aurora borealis busted. Whose? Oh, that hot air bubble of the fellow who bought a secret to make a fortune from a few hens on a city lot, and "there are others."

Old Fan's manger is not the proper place for hens to roost. Over the hogs' trough, on the buggy seat, the grindstone or in the corner, these are not Biddy's bed, except where John Bug-house is on the job.

Mildly as she kisses the tip of her kid glove to her lover does not know that it is larded with a rotten egg. Yes, "Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise."

Germany has the only biweekly poultry journal, the Gefuegel-Welt. She is pushing poultry also and stands third among the nations in this product, her yield being 270,000 tons.
