The lecture under the auspices of the school district which was to have been given in the Y. M. C. A. building last Friday evening had to be annulled on account of illness preventing Calvin S. White, the lecturer, being here. Considerable disappointment was felt by our citizens and quite a few from the country who had read the advertisement and had not learned of the annulment came to the city in the evening expecting to hear the lecture.

During the past week five cars of apples have been packed and loaded at the local branch of the Producers Fruit company to be shipped to London, England. The fruit comes from J. W. Merritt and the Snowy Butte Orchards and is exceptionally fine fruit. It is expected that the apples will bring a fancy price as well as pleasing those in England who are fortunate enough to get some of the excellent apples from the central district of the Rogue River Valley fruit lands.

The cabinet officers of the Epworth League recently held a business meeting and decided upon a "nightcap and box social" to be given Tuesday evening, Feb. 4th., at the parsonage. Each lady attending is requested to bring a box of luncheon for two also two nightcaps, one to be worn by herself, and the other to be sold with her box to a gentleman. One price of twenty-five cents will be charged for all boxes. A program of interesting games is being prepared, and all young people are especially invited.

Rather an interesting discussion was held at the Christian church in this city last Wednesday evening between Rev. Love, who has been holding a series of meetings there, and Rev. Boyle pastor of the Christian church in Medford. The question for discussion was whether or not instrumental music was appropriate to services in the churches, Rev. Love having taken the stand that it was out of place and Rev. Boyle undertaking to show that it was not at all out of place. It seems to be the consensus of opinion among those who heard the discussion that Rev. Boyle won his point decisively. A very large crowd was out to hear the argument and considerable interest was manifested in the outcome.

Tom Merriman for the past three years employed in the B. F. Peart blacksmith shop has resigned his position and will go to Medford where he will enter into partnership with his father who has a shop in that city. When he will leave the shop here depends on just how soon Mr. Peart will be able to secure another smith as Tom announces that he will not leave until a man has been secured and his family will remain here until sometime in the spring. Tom has proven a very efficient workman and by his willingness to accommodate as well as by his natural ability to do things he has made friends of the customers all of whom will regret his leaving the shop even while they are glad to see him accept a better position.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

One of the directors recently contributed a telephone, and Ike Williams and Ernest Scott, with characteristic generosity, installed the same, and not only that, but big-hearted "Ike" has donated "free service" which is certainly much appreciated by all concerned—Long life to Ike!

Don't forget the oyster supper Friday evening. A genuine oyster supper with all the fixings and only thirty-five cents, and a good entertainment thrown in—there certainly ought to be a good crowd.

The Y is surely a popular resort these days, for both young and old, and it's no uncommon thing to see four or six of our business men around the shuffleboard any part of the day—o' night.

The management of the Y are endeavoring to give its members and the public, at a minimum charge, good wholesome entertainments, and something that will interest both young and old, and the results so far, have indeed been most gratifying, and we feel as if a word of thanks for the patronage extended and the plaudits so graciously awarded our efforts, is due from us.

The usual custom in cities that are favored with the Y. M. C. A. associations, is to make up by subscriptions whatever they lack from membership fees, which is generally about half the running expenses, and the citizens, proud of the association and the good work it accomplishes, willingly give what is needed year by year.

The same plan was started here, but our city, without a doubt, the smallest of any city where a full equipped association building is doing work, presents many difficulties and objections to such a procedure. With only about twenty merchants, who are called upon to contribute to four churches, and innumerable charitable affairs, not to speak of heavy taxes, and excessive improvement assessments, it is simply impossible for them to do much in the way of contributions, as it was the full realization of this fact that led the management to inaugurate the idea of giving entertainments that would not only please the public, but bring about closer social relations, as well as to help out on the running expenses of the association. That the public has appreciated our efforts is most gratifying to all concerned, and we shall use every effort in our power to make every entertainment we give enjoyable to all and worth fully the price of admission.

We expect a crowd at the oyster supper Friday evening and advise all that can come early to do so, for it will take a long time to eat all the good things that will be on the tables that night.
