Willow Springs Inlets

A party of Willow Springs people spent an afternoon at the river fishing recently.

Mrs. Helen Rowe and Miss Neva Samuels were visitors at the Blackford home Sunday.

Mrs. Anderson is enjoying a visit with her sister, Miss Erickson, of Portland, Oregon.

Mr. Thompson of Glen Ridge Orchard was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer last Sunday.

Friday, October 31st, the Parent and Teachers' Club will meet at the home of Mrs. T. C. Law in west Willow Springs.

If every orchardist in this locality would plant his barn, there would be a decided improvement in the appearance of this end of the valley.

One day last week several flocks of ducks passed over Rogue river valley, there must have been some storks among them, as a dear little ten pound girl was left at the home of Hugh Porter and a nine pound husky boy at Roy Davidson's—both paper are as proud as peacocks.

The Grange ghost social was a decided success. The hall decorations were large pumpkins and grotesque shapes, where the ghosts circled around the rooms and made a weird spectacle. The witch was much in evidence with her warnings and all good advice. Luncheon was served late in the evening to about fifty hungry Grangers.

Modoc Orchard

James Dugan is now employed on the Modoc.

Messrs. Garrison and Hale are working on buildings here.

Ben Perry spent Sunday around the Rock at his home place.

Electric lights have been installed in the barn and have proven very efficient.

Elmer Hall and Miss Leah Anderson attended the show in Medford Saturday evening.

Ben Waterman and Miss Ivy McKenny also drove to Medford Saturday.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there has been at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CHURCH QUESTIONS REMAIN UNSETTLED

New York.—The general convention of 1913 of the Protestant Episcopal church passed into history in hopeless deadlock on two important resolutions, with the most far-reaching topic of legislation before it unconsidered by one house because of an error in the other, and with a positive refusal to consider a request of the Women's Christian Temperance union that unfettered grape juice be substituted for wine in the communion service.

On the proposal to establish a separate bishopric for negroes in the south and on the proposed elimination of the words "Jews, Turks, infidels and heretics" the house of bishops and the house of deputies were deadlocked.

On the proposal to require a two-thirds vote to change the name of the church, adopted by the deputies, the bishops refused to act because the resolution was sent to them only the day before adjournment, while it was adopted by the lower house more than two weeks ago.

The original draft of the resolution was mislaid. Pullman College Team Defeated. Portland.—Three thousand football enthusiasts saw the Multnomah club defeat Washington state college on Winged "M" field, 7 to 0.

Oregon Wins, 27-0, Over Idaho. Eugene.—By a score of 27 to 0, Oregon eliminated Idaho from the race for the conference football championship on Kincaid field.

Aggies Unable to Score at Seattle. Seattle.—The University of Washington football team defeated Oregon Agricultural college by a score of 4 to 0 on Denny field here.

"The Tramp" "Raps" the Styles

The following article ament the latest styles in women's clothes has been handed in with the request that we pass it on to our readers for what it is worth and this we do. Not that we are in sympathy with any criticism of the feminine idea of chic garments. It is their style, isn't it? They should by all means do as they like with it. They have a right to. But here's the wail:

The latest fad of the stylish woman is to drive about town in the mornings bareheaded. Some of them use electric auto's, and some ride in a horse-drawn carriage. Your husband's delivery wagon will do just as well.

As you get a bird once are also necessary, adjuncts for this morning ride, and the dog should wear a watch and a mirror suspended from his collar.

The dog should be trained to stand on his hind feet when you want to see the time or powder your nose.

Never leave the car—or delivery wagon—when taking these morning rides, for that is improper. Just sit in there and bow to all the ladies you see and greet to death.

As to your general appearance, when you are all made up and ready for church or a pink tea, the more you make yourself to look like a sharp flint, the more you will be admired.

This means over in Paris they fairly adore the sloppy woman. Her clothes must hang on her as if they were made for some larger woman. Mitts are the rage. Get a skirt that is four sizes too large for you at the top, and pin it up so that it will hang on you without your holding it up with your hands.

Then pin it in around the bottom so that you can't step, and slash it up to the knees with your scissors. Any old skirt will do.

Just remember that you always must look SLUFFY.

Goodness know some of you ought not to find this hard to do.

One of the favorite costumes for social functions is white. You can make this dress out of a bed sheet and a lace curtain. It should be draped close around the neck and all about around the hips. Belt it with grey ribbon and drop the curtain low in the back and pull it up high in the front. This costume will look so sloppy that every woman in your town will rave over it and come right down to the store to buy material for a similar costume.

In making up your face, be sure to put a little black patch on your chin or at the side of your eye. This black patch will sure label you as someone.

I went into a "Paris Shop" in Chicago, recently and said to the matchboard crew who came to wait on me: "I want to buy something for a girl of mine; something that is important in dress but that doesn't cost more than a five spot. I am not up on styles. Tell me what to get."

She—that guy went to talking with his eyes, mouth and hands and shoulders all at once. Here's what he said:

Ladies who dance nowadays, will find the "Tango dress" one of the most practicable costumes for those occasions. The Tango Dress is a cross between the upper half of a fat pair of pants and the upper half of a skirt. Cut your husband's trousers off at the knees and cut your skirt off four inches above the knees. Sew the bottom of the skirt to the top of the trousers, drape a veil around your waist and you will have the newest Tango Dress.

The new hats are small and cost a lot of money if you buy them ready-made. But you'll have no trouble in making your Fall hat yourself. The less you know about millinery, the more stylish you can make it. The most popular hats are of velvet. Just run a draw string around a circular piece of velvet and draw it up to fit your head. Then sew a bunch of chicken or turkey feathers on the side. Another popular style can be made by taking your husband's old eady and cutting off the trim. Then run a crushed piece of velvet around the edge and fasten a small feather-duster on the side, sticking straight up. If you get this idea just right, people will think your husband is running a second hand store, and will go there for bargains.

Your set of furs for 1913-14 is dead easy. The reduction in tariff came too late to be of any consequence to women who wanted real furs, and could not afford them. Real furs are not in it any more, and women who wear them this Winter will look gummy. The new fur fad is to make these sets of cloth, muff and neckpiece, or stole or whatever you choose to call it.

Nothing can be more desirable for this purpose than a pair of your husband's old checked pants. Make a muff out of one part of them and a neckpiece out of the other, and decorate the two articles with a few large buttons clipped from his overcoat. If the trousers used for this purpose are worn threadbare in places, so much the better, as it will give your new fur set that artistic light and dark shadow effect.

Women are going to wear vests this year, not undersweaters outside vests, like men. A box of old rose diamond dye and one of your husband's old fancy vests will do the deed. Cut the back out of the vest, dip it into the dye and wear it as a dicky. That's simple.

And don't forget your wails. Walk so that you will look willowy. Don't stand up straight. Hump over, limber fashion and spring your knees out in front and drag your feet along on your toe as you step. It is also well to lean a little to one side from the waist up, as if you had curvature of the spine.

Of course, you'll need a new cloak, or rather a new wrap when the weather gets cold. Don't worry about this article of apparel on account of the expense. You have the very latest fashionable wrap rig in your home now. It's in the closet where you keep the bed clothes.

Take a dark-flowered bed comfort and wrap yourself in it. Pull it tightly about the feet and let it hang out about the hips. That's all there is to it. The latest Balkan wrap.

I could write all day along this line. As they say on the stage, "I could die doing this"—but I won't.

This ought to be enough to hold you for a while.
