Ruth Sweet returned from Central Point Sunday where she had been the guest of relatives for a week.
Howard Rodgers and family and Frank Rodgers and family visited at the C. O. Rodgers home Sunday.
Henry Morgan came over from Trail to attend the dance Saturday night and was pleasantly detained until Sunday afternoon.
The sheet and pillowcase dance given at the Florence Walker home Saturday night was liberally patronized and pronounced a splendid success by all present.
We understand that E. D. Wilhite who has been absent from home for several weeks visiting relatives and friends in different parts of the west is expected home today.
Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Rodgers are rejoicing over the arrival at their home of a fine present from the stork. It's a fine eight pound girl born Tuesday January 27. Mother and babe doing nicely.
Keep in mind that the state supreme court has pronounced the last election law unconstitutional and you cannot vote at the spring primaries unless registered again. Call on L. M. Sweet and he'll help you out.
We are informed by wireless that our friend J. S. McCreight has traded his automobile for a flying machine. We'd advise a motor boat attachment for safety in case he'd happen to alight on the Narregan hill.
Don't be fooled, good friend, the man who'd have you make a false registration of party affiliation so as to vote for him in the primaries wouldn't hesitate to stand you on your head until your pockets froze wrong side out. Register honestly and vote likewise.

Sister, why not Fern Hobbs for Governor? What nobler tribute could be paid to the cause of equal suffrage than the election of one of her character and ability; and then she knows the duties of the office to perfection and isn't afraid to discharge them fearlessly and impartially. Yes, and she isn't afraid of a pledge to law enforcement and destruction of vice. Now is the opportunity time, come and join the band.
It is reported that the case of the Drybrook Italian against Tom W. Godfrey for larceny of a hog will be carried to the circuit court because of failure of the latter to settle as agreed in justice Cooper's court at Moonville. We doubt the expediency of allowing anyone to settle a case of this magnitude after being brought before the court, for if innocent the full exoneration of the law should be sought, and if guilty the full penalty of the law should be administered. Crime is controlled by enforcement of the laws, not by their barter. Let the law be invoked without fear or favor and with absolute impartiality to all.

Wedding bells rang at the home of Frank Deford Sunday when his daughter Miss Fay was joined in wedlock by Rev. A. C. Howlett to Mr. Otto Tresham of Sams Valley. Miss Fay was well known and quite a favorite in our community and all join in wishing her much happiness with the man of her choice.

Portland has an unemployed problem. It does not amount to an emergency and it is not so acute as in most other cities throughout the country. Solution is, however, rendered more difficult by the closing of the city rockpile. No adequate plan has been made by any agency to handle the situation. There are, according to estimates, 4000 to 6000 men there who have no work.
Instructions to institute criminal prosecutions against all the commission merchants doing business in this state without complying with the law enacted by the last legislature regulating their business have been sent out by the state railroad commission to 10 district attorneys in the state in the counties of Multnomah, Marion, Clatsop, Josephine, Clatsop, Wasco, Linn, Baker, Jackson and Lane. Only one association or firm in the state has complied with the law.
A cow testing association has been organized in the Lewis and Clark district of Clatsop county, another is ready for organization at Scappoose and the work of organizing the dairy industry of Oregon is well under way.
Ralph F. Beard, instructor in agricultural chemistry, and John E. Larsen, agronomist, have been appointed to positions on the Oregon agricultural college faculty, and will take up their duties the beginning of the second semester.

Most Profitable Age and Types of Beef Cattle
Successful livestock growers as well as dealers in livestock and meats, must know the market demands and then grow animals that will meet them. This is the cardinal principle of the industry as announced by Mr. Forstel, expert buyer for the Union Meat Company, in his livestock demonstration before the Oregon Agricultural College Short Course Students. Farmers that raise livestock for beef and pork, often aim at the production of animals as big and as fat as they can be made. When those farmers take the stock to the markets they are disappointed and often any because it brings less per pound than the smaller animals. Beef animals are sold with the highest margin of profit at from one to two years of age. A grower recently sold a yearling steer in the city market for $85 at the same that another grower sold a two-year old for $117. There is no profit at all in carrying beef animals after they are two or three years old.
It was further pointed out that types should be developed that carry high

Poultry Observations and Helps

Early chicks for fryers are desirable whether for the market or for your own table. Choice specimens for the fall fairs in order to be well developed and in full plumage ought to be hatched in February. A few hens ought to be setting right now. Incubators should be set up, cleaned, washed thoroughly with a good disinfectant to destroy any germs of white diarrhea which might be present and the heat turned on for a day or two so that there may be no doubts about it being in good working order. It is so much better to be safe than sorry. Be sure and have the incubator thermometer tested. They often change in a season especially if they were not well seasoned when sent from the factory. I have mine tested by Prof. O'Gara at Medford.
Hens will not lay if they have lice. The gray or body lice will be kept off of the hens if a good place is provided for them to have a daily dust bath. Dusting with a good commercial lice powder will help some, but why not have the hens do it themselves? The violent exercise of a dust bath is beneficial too. Always remember that the lying hen is the busy hen. Sifted ashes are a good substitute, if there is no dust at hand, for the hen's bath.
It may be interesting to the readers of the Herald to know that the January record of my thirty Columbian Wyandotte pullets was a little better than the record for December. Seventeen of them laid twenty eggs or better, last month sixteen did the same. Number 3000 laid twenty six, and the same last month, making fifty two eggs in Dec. and Jan. Number 3019 is one egg behind having laid twenty six in Dec. and twenty five in Jan. I would like to have the report of some of the Herald readers who are trap nesting their birds, and the name of the variety. It is only by taking an interest in this subject and killing off the hens that do not lay that we will all increase our egg yield.

U. S. Now Owns 8,000 Islands
The United States now has under its possession exactly 8,000 islands, supporting a population of 10,000,000, or more than the entire United States a century ago, according to a report just received by the National Geographical society. The report shows that their commerce exceeds $300,000,000, or more than that of the United States in any year prior to 1850. American capital invested in them aggregates approximately $400,000,000,000. They ship to the United States $100,000,000,000 of their product every year and take in exchange products of about equal value.

percentages in the choice parts of the carcass. Everybody wants porterhouse steak and prime ribs, and these cuts must bear the loss of the chuck, which is about 42 per cent of the dressed beef. And then people wonder why beef is so high. But growers will profit by knowing the facts, if they choose their beef types accordingly.

That New Shaded Type!

"The American Bulletin" is published by the American Type Founders Company, one of the foremost type makers in this country, and in the latest number we find the following comments on that new type face,

"Cheltenham Bold Shaded"

"The magazine section of the New York Sunday Sun uses Cheltenham Bold Shaded in various sizes for its headings." The general effect is very pleasing, and the Sun is to be congratulated on its wise judgement in selecting so attractive a type face."

"Regarding the Cheltenham Bold Shaded Series the Heilkecker Printing Company, Des Moines, Iowa, says: "It is free from the fault of many shaded letters, i. e. filling up. In our opinion it will wear longer than most similar types if given ordinary intelligent use. We consider it a good addition to a good family."

"Mr. W. J. Hostetler, vice-president of the Christie Lithograph and Printing Co., writes our Minneapolis selling house as follows: "We have your recent favor in which you request us to give you an expression of our opinion about Cheltenham Bold Shaded. For a long time we have been of the opinion that you had exhausted the possibilities of this very useful family. Now you have made another valuable addition to it. The Cheltenham Shaded will prove no less valuable to the printer and no less popular than the other members of the family have proven themselves to be in times past. In cutting this letter, it seems to us that you have paid special attention to the depth of the shading. If this has not been your purpose, we cannot understand why you should have been so particular to make the cutting so deep. On this account, we believe that in this particular letter the printers in general will find they have a friend that can be relied upon for long service. We congratulate you for having brought out an additional member to the popular Cheltenham family, and hope that all printers will appreciate the effort that you have made to give them something very useful as well as ornamental."

The HERALD PRINT SHOP

Has both the "Cheltenham Bold Shaded" and the regular Cheltenham series. As we said before we are always in line for the newest and best in job printing material and equipment.
