Western Drug Merchant Discusses National Health

MONRAD J. OLSEN

of Des Moines, Ia., said, in an interview today.

"If each person in this country would take an occasional laxative dose, our hospitals would lose thousands upon thousands of patients."

Mr. Olsen further stated that he was familiar with and had sold all the various laxatives, and that in his opinion, Rexall Orderlies is the most pleasant and sure remedy for constipation. We have the exclusive selling rights for this great laxative.

HEAR WITHOUT EARS

Police and Detectives Are Using Lip Reading in Place of the Dictagraph.

Thousands of deaf people are to day throwing away all hearing devices and enjoying all conversation. This method is easily and quickly acquired thru our system. Absolutely the only thing of its kind in the country. Our proposition is entirely original. We guarantee results, it will amaze you. Cost is trifling. See what New International Encyclopaedia says on Lip Reading. Hundreds of people with normal hearing are taking up Lip Reading for the many additional benefits gained. You can understand what the actors are saying in the moving pictures. You can understand what people are saying just as far away as you can see them. The eye understands beyond the range of hearing. Send no money, but mention this paper and state whether or not you are deaf. All particulars will be sent you absolutely free and with no expense to you. Address, School of Lip Language, Kansas City, Missouri.

Dr. S. A. Mulkey returned early Tuesday morning from a business trip up north and reports prospects for a prosperous season encouraging.

A FORGOTTEN GREAT MAN.

General Timothy Ruggles and What He Might Have Been.

How many readers have ever heard the name of General Timothy Ruggles? Probably very few indeed, and yet it was believed in his own day—which was the era of our Revolution—that had General Ruggles remained true to the patriot cause he would have had at least as good a chance as Washington to be chosen the commander of the colonial armies.

He was a natural leader in the civil and military affairs of the colonies. He was president of the stamp act congress, which assembled in New York city in 1765, and at that very time he was chief justice of the court of common pleas of Worcester county, Mass., having been promoted from the bar, where he had one worthy rival, James Otis.

General Ruggles was also the chief military figure of the northern colonies. He served four years in the French and Indian war and rose to the rank of brigadier general. He was a colonel at Crown Point and second in command at the battle of Lake George. He commanded a brigade in Lord Amherst's expedition against Montreal.

He was famous for his daring and skill, especially in the command of Indian troops, and for his ability as a drill master. The very men who fought at Lexington and Bunker Hill had been trained by Ruggles on northern fields.

In the events of that stormy period Ruggles remained a patriot up to the actual scene of the stamp act congress. At the end of the third day's deliberations, when the protest to his majesty George III. had been drawn up, he refused to sign and, laying down his gavel of office, left the hall. That was one of the dramatic events of the period, and for it he was reprimanded by the general court of Massachusetts.

Ruggles was several times mobbed on his way home to Hardwick, Mass., where he had a great estate, but he was not a man to be frightened by demonstrations of that sort. His faithfulness to the crown was soon rewarded with his appointment as a member of the king's mandamus council. When Boston was taken by the colonists in 1776 he decided to leave Massachusetts, and he received a grant of 10,000 acres of the best land in Nova Scotia. He removed to that colony and started a model farm on the site of what is now the town of Wilmot. He lived to the ripe old age of eighty-four.—Youth's Companion.

When Solid Iron Floats.

Experiments have shown that if a ball of solid iron be lowered into a mass of liquid iron by means of a metal fork the ball at first sinks to the bottom with the fork, but that in a few seconds it will leave the prongs and rise to the surface, where it continues to float until it melts. The rising is explained by the expansion of the ball, due to heating, whereby it becomes, bulk for bulk, less dense than the molten metal.

Friendly Criticism.

Pennibs—Two of my latest poems appeared in the last issue of McDuff's Magazine. Inkerton—Yes; I noticed them. Pennibs—Would you mind giving me your opinion of them? Inkerton—Well, to be candid, I thought the one was awfully simple and the other simply awful.—Indianapolis Star.

Method makes men win. Thus is success reduced to the science of correct calculation.

Fortune comes to the gate of a merry home.—Japanese Proverb.
