Something unusual soon. It is coming in about two weeks. Have you heard what is coming? It will be here before you know it.

Fred Warner was down from Trail Wednesday.

Lloyd March of Tolo was in town on business Tuesday.

W. H. Morgan of Tolo was trading in town Tuesday.

F. Roe of Sams Valley was in town while Monday on his way to Jacksonville. Mr. Roe is a deputy assessor of this county.

Mrs. Middlebush, a prominent merchant of Trail, was in town Wednesday on business.

J. V. Calvert, who has been interested in the realty business in Grants Pass was visiting in our city Wednesday.

H. W. Copinger and family, who recently arrived in Central Point from Montana, purchased a house and lot of D. E. Beno last week and have moved into their new home.

Ben Eddington was down from Sams Valley Monday. Ben formerly worked in the Cranfill-Robnett store here and this is the first time that he has been in town since he quit the store.

Chas. A. Mead of Grants Pass was in Central Point a few days this week visiting with his daughter, Mrs. D. H. Dyer. Mr. Mead and his daughter had not seen each other for more than eight years.

Dr. Mulkey returned Wednesday from a business trip in the Willamette valley. The doctor says he visited many places on his trip and can not see that business is any better there than in our valley. In spite of the fact that he was moving every minute, he says he enjoyed a very pleasant trip.

Ervin Renollet and Ren Raimy are going into the well digging business, as will be noticed by their card in this issue, and anyone desiring to have a well dug or their present well cleaned will find these gentlemen at their service. Every well should be cleaned after the early spring rains are over to assure pure, healthful water.

It will be good, too.

What is it? Wait and see.

NOT every well dressed man is Shayne - Brun tailored, but those who wear

Schoenbrun Soy "Shayne-Brun" Tailoring

are certain to be well dressed. There's a grace, a tailorish finish about the clothes that shows at a glance the quality in the fabrics, the quality of the hand-tailored workmanship, the style. And with every garment goes this permanent guarantee: "We Are Not Satisfied Unless You Are."

Ladies Aid Meeting

Sad But True

Harrison went a fishing,
And Hull went along,
Both got their feet wet,
But no fish got on.

They returned for supper,
With heads hanging low,
Each told his little story,
No one believed them though.

They said they'd go again,
When they were feeling better
And hoped they would at least
Not get very much wetter,
Hall.

Ben Eddington was in the city last Monday for the first time since last November. Ben started toward Hornbrook from here. He probably went as far as Medford.

William Mead, an employee of the Herald office, accidentally chopped his left hand Tuesday evening. Dr. Lydia S. Dow, who dressed the injury, found it necessary to take five stitches.

Mrs. Anna Thompson left Tuesday morning for Klamath Falls where she will meet her brother, B. S. Grigsby, and attend to some business matters. Mrs. Thomas says she may not return for some time.

Watt Beebe is in receipt of 150 little chicks from the O. A. C. They are thoroughbred Plymouth Rocks. Mr. Beebe has ordered 250 White Leghorn chicks and expects to go into the chicken business in the right manner.

Mrs. A. M. Thomas left for Butte, Montana, the past week where she goes to settle the estate of Mrs. Clara Egan, recently deceased. Mrs. Clara Egan formerly lived at Eagle where she was well known. At that time her name was Mrs. Masters.

A. J. Potts was in from the ranch this week and states that he had started a crew of 14 men at plowing just before the rain of Tuesday night which necessitated his laying them all off. The rain was much heavier a few miles east of the city than it was here.

The following Central Point Schriners and their wives attended the party given by Hilah Temple in Ashland last Thursday evening. They report a very enjoyable time. W. C. Loeber, Wayne Loeber, R. H. Paxson, I. C. Robnett, Drs. Dow, W. H. Norcross.

Montie Brigg, ex-shoe dealer of Ashland, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office and the Hall Printing Company office last Monday. Mr. Brigg was talking over publicity matters in connection with the Ashland Rogue River Round-Up Celebration.

Ben Sheldon, who represented Jackson County at the recent legislature, has accepted the position of manager of the Grants Pass Chamber of Commerce, formerly the Commercial Club of that city. Mr. Sheldon has reported for duty and with his wide knowledge of Southern Oregon and his ability will be a most valuable man for the Grants Pass organization.

H. W. Adrian, who has made this territory for several years in behalf of his own company, the Adrian Neckwear Co., of Portland, was a pleasant caller at Hall's Tuesday of this week. Mr. Adrian manufactures a fine line of neckwear which is carried by our local merchants and the same being "Made in Oregon" we would suggest that you at least ask your merchant to show you the line.

Jackson Sundown, the Nez Perce Indian who holds the world's championship as a broncho buster, says he has about decided not to participate in any more broncho busting contests—that he is still in the knee joints and is becoming rheumatic. Although Sundown will be 51 years of age in April, he won at the Pendleton Round Up and other frontier celebrations. Noted sculptors and artists, who have come from all parts of the United States to use Sundown for a model, have pronounced him physically perfect, so it is a sad—Atne-

COMIC OPERA GEMS.

Quotations From Gilbert's Works That Will Live Long.

Not the comedians of Sheridan nor even the tragedians of Shakespeare are more easily first in their respective classes than are the Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas in theirs. In all human probability they never will be equalled, and the best of them have something of that quality "not for a day, but for all time," which was against obsolescence and leads to their constant revival even as "Hamlet" and "Macbeth," "The Hivals" and "The School For Scandal" and Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" are constantly revived.

Even should the stage in time to come know them no more they would not be dead, for, besides adding immeasurably to the innocent gaiety of the English speaking nations and to their treasury of enduring songs, the operas have enriched the stock of household sayings.

From "Pinafore" we have "What? Never!" and the response "Hardly ever," "his sisters, his cousins and his aunts," "in spite of all temptations to belong to other nations," "You're exceedingly polite, and I think it only right to return the compliment," "O joy, O rapture unforeseen!" "Never mind the why and wherefore" and "Though I'm anything but clever, I could talk like that forever."

From "Princess Ida" come "Man is Nature's sole mistake" and "such a disagreeable man!"

From "The Pirates of Penzance" we have learned that "take one consideration with another," "a policeman's lot is not a happy one."

From "Iolanthe" come "Said I to myself, said I," "did nothing in particular and did it very well" and that perfect specimen of the inverted truism:

Hearts just as pure and fair
May beat in Balgrave square
As in the lowly air
Of Seven Dials.

To "Patience" are due "a most intense young man," "ultra poetical, super-aesthetical," and "there will be too much of me."

But perhaps the best known of all Gilbertisms and the one that comes oftenest to the lips is that refrain in "The Mikado" that almost sums up the whole science of an enlightened penology, "Let the punishment fit the crime." A wiser jest was never penned. From "The Mikado" also comes "He's got 'em on the list, they'll none of 'em be missed," "Here's a pretty state of things!," "Here's a pretty how-de-do!" "the flowers that bloom in the spring," "something lingering, with boiling oil to it," "three little maids from school," "a source of innocent merriment," and "He's going to marry Yum-Yum."
