Etiquette of The Flag

If you are not up in the flag etiquette, here are the rules:

Raise the flag at sunrise or after, never before.

When draping the flag against the side of a room or building, place the blue field always to the north or east.

Bunting should be draped or hung with the red at the top, followed by the white and the blue in accordance with the heraldic colors of the flag.

It is a mark of disrespect to allow the flag fly throughout the night.

A flag flown upside down is a signal of distress.

When the flag is formally raised all present during the ceremony should stand at attention with hand raised to the forehead ready for the salute.

The correct salute to the flag, as required by the regulations of the U. S. army is: Standing at attention raise the right hand to the forehead over the right eye, palm downward, fingers extended and close together, arm at an angle of 45 degrees. Move hand outward about a foot, with a quick motion, then drop to the side.

When the colors are passing on parade, or in review, the spectator should stand, if a man, and if walking, halt; if sitting, rise, stand at attention and uncover.

Whenever possible, the flag should be flown from a staff or mast, but should not be fastened to the side of a building, platform or scaffolding.

When the flag is used out of doors it should always be allowed to fly in the breeze. When clusterings and drapings of colors are desired, bunting or cloth should be used, but never the flag.

For indoor decorations, the flag can only be used as a drapery, it cannot be used to cover a bench or table, desk or box, and where anything can be set or placed upon the flag.

For indoor decorations, the flag may be caught up in many artistic fashions, and used with bunting, garlands, plants and flowers, but should never be placed below a person sitting.

The flag must not be marred by advertisements, nor desecrated on the stage.

When the "Star Spangled Banner" is played, all present should rise and stand at attention until the ending. The playing of it as a part of a medley should be prohibited and it should not be played as an exit march.

The flag salute adopted by the N. S. D. A. R. our military schools, the Boy Scouts and other organizations, and which should be taught in all of our public schools is: "I pledge allegiance to the republic for which it stands: one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice to all."

TO TEACHERS AND SCHOOL MEMBERS,

SOUTHEASTERN JACKSON COUNTY
A local institute will be held at the Neil Creek School House on Saturday, April 21. Upon the program at the Institute we have some excellent speakers; men and women, who are recognized leaders in the educational field today. I trust, therefore, that you will make it a point to be there yourself, and will ask that you extend an invitation to every school patron in your community to attend.

We want you to come prepared to give as well as receive. In the afternoon we have arranged for a short period at which the instructors or some other competent person will answer questions pertaining to school work. Possibly you have plans in discipline or class management that you will like to have discussed. If so please write them out quite fully and send them to me at once so that the one designated to answer them will have ample time to prepare an intelligent answer. These questions will be regarded as confidential—you and I will be the only ones knowing the source of the question. I am enclosing a stamped envelope for your use in returning your questions, and will ask that you return them just as soon as possible. Some of the problems will call for discussions in which we desire you to take part. In this way you will not only gain confidence in yourself but may be able to get helpful suggestions from your fellow teachers or board members that will be of considerable value to you and your community.

The program enclosed, which is subject to adjustments, will give an idea of the idea of the meeting. I am sure you will agree with me that it ought to be well worth while. Your attendance will make it a success.

Sincerely yours,
G. W. AGER,
County School Superintendent

The Rough Riders Charge

Half a mile, half a mile

Half a mile onward,

All to San Juan heights

Ran the rough riders.

"Forward, the Rough Riders!

Charge for the trenches! he said

And up San Juan heights

Ran the rough riders.

"Forward, the Rough Riders!"

Was there a man bewildered?

Not tho' riders knew

Some one had blunder'd:

There's not to make reply,

There's not to reason why,

There's but to do and die:

So to San Juan heights

Charged the rough riders.

Trenches to right of them,

Trenches to left of them,

Trenches in front of them,

Volley'd and thunder'd;

Fired at by rifle and cannon as well,

Boldly they charged and straight,

Into the jaws of Death,

Into the mouth of Hell,

Ran the Rough Riders.

Flashed all their rifles bare,

Flashed as they sway'd in air

Shooting the riflemen there,

Charging a position, while

All the world shudder'd;

Plunged in the rifle smoke,

Right tho' the lines they broke;

American and Spaniard

Reel'd from the bayonet thrust

Shatter'd and thunder'd

Then they planted our banner there, but

Not - not the Rough Riders.

Trenches to right of them,

Trenches to left of them,

Trenches no more in front of them,

No more to Volley and Thunder

While Men and Officers cheer'd,

They that had fought so well

Came through the jaws of Death,

Back from the mouth of Hell,

All that was left of them,

Left of the Rough Riders.

When can their Glory fade!

Oh the wild charge they made!

All the world wonder'd.

Honor the charge they made!

Honor the Rough Riders,

The Noble Rough Riders!

With apologies to Colonel Roosevelt and the author of the poem entitled "The Charge of the Light Brigade" I submit these lines. You know that it is hard to resist when tempted so please do not condemn me, Colonel Roosevelt.

Leslie F. Clute,

IF'S

If we were all good no one would be bad.

If birds were dragons we'd soon burn up.

If horses were lions we'd have a big menagerie.

If we were ALL mules we'd be quite stubborn.

If barbers were buaes they'd be quite thick.

Never to imagine

Always try to know

And if ynu can't do that,

Try good sense to show.
