

Ven Ettison Pushes the Button

[Contributed by Prof. Leslie Clute.]

Mine Got, vil you be mine partner
You don't know who I am,
But I am de German Kaiser,
De Emperor Vill-i-am.

You know I vipped dose Belgians,
And mit pullets filled dose Russians full,

And I can vip France and Italy
And plow up Jonny Bull.

For all dose odder nations
I do not give a dam.

If you'll just be my partner
To Vipp dot UNCLE SAM.

You know I got dose submarines
All Europe knows it well,
But Ettison's a patent know
Dot blows them all to hell.

Now Got, if you will do dis
Den you I'll always lofe,
And I vill always Emperor here be

And you will be Emperor above.

But Got if you refuse dis plea
Tomorrow night at eleven
I'll call all my Zeppelins
And declare war against Heaven.

I would't ask this favor, Got,
But I haf plainly seen,
Dot ven Ettison push de button in
I got no more submarine.

Old Papers and Magazines Wanted

The local Red Cross auxiliary has launched a campaign for old papers and magazines. They will ask the school children to co-operate with them also. This work has been undertaken in connection with the Medford chapter, which is trying to secure a car load of old paper. If you will bear this in mind and save your old papers and magazines for the Red Cross auxiliary, you will be helping the good cause along wonderfully. Leave your bundles at Paxson's drug store.

OREGON FARMERS HAVE EVERYTHING TO GAIN

Under the plan submitted in the road bonding bill, the farmer has everything to gain and nothing to lose. According to a compilation by the State Tax Commission, agriculture in Oregon pays on approximately 26 per cent of the total taxable property, timber and lumbering on 19 per cent, city and towns on 41 per cent and public utilities on 14 per cent. Designated as they are to meet the requirements of the state as a whole, these main through arteries will be built from city limits to city limits, the cities alone having authority over city streets. The Highway Commission has announced that, where any of the main roads to be improved pass through the smaller towns and villages and the street is not already improved, the Commission will hard-surface that portion of the road included within the limits of such towns and villages without additional cost to such communities. When improved these main lines will serve not only the agricultural districts through which they pass, but will also serve centers of population—the principal market places. They will be market roads as well as through state roads—not luxuries.

All are agreed that Oregon needs good roads. The only material difference of opinion is as to the method of financing the movement—direct taxation or bonds based on a revenue already provided by law. The fact that taxes are already burdensome is the very best argument for issuing bonds. The combined revenue from an increased auto license and the existing state road tax will pay the interest and retire at maturity the bonds proposed in the good roads bill. The people will vote on this bond bill at the special election June 4th.
