

Where Our Teachers Spend Their Vacations

Miss Wiederrecht, who was principal of the High School last year, went to Seattle to stay with her mother during vacation. She does not teach here next year.

The Misses Bracons, Reed and Albin returned to Portland, where their homes are, to spend their vacations.

Mrs. Walker was engaged as an instructor at the summer school at the Medford Commercial College this season, but it has been reported that she did not fulfill the engagement.

Prof. Davis has gone to California to stay until he can enter the Officers' Training camp the middle of August. He has had considerable military training, having served in the Spanish-American war, and is anxious to get back into the service now that the country is at war with Germany.

Miss Pierce returned to her home near Medford.

Prof. Stanley, the Superintendent of Schools, and Mrs. Ross both live in Central Point. The Professor and his wife plan to make a trip to Spokane this summer, to be gone several weeks. They will travel in their auto and camp out on the trip.

Prof. Smith went to Roseburg, where his father makes his headquarters as traveling financial and booster secretary for the Presbyterian colleges.

Miss Lester, who lives near C. P., went to Salem to visit for a few days, after which she goes to Ohio to visit the balance of the vacation with old friends and relatives.

Miss Kincaid also lives near Central Point and will spend her vacation at home.

Miss Daily went to her home in Medford.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

J. Fred Yates of Corvallis, a prominent lawyer and farmer of Benton county and a cousin to I. C. Robnett of the Cranfill-Robnett store, stopped over awhile one day this week to see Mr. Robnett and Mr. D. C. Grim, who he has known in the past. Although Mr. Robnett had heard much of Mr. Yates, he had not seen his cousin for thirty years, and so did not know him when he first saw him. Mr. Yates was on his way home from California. He paid the officers' school at the Presidio a visit while there. He found Mark Weatherford, the prominent attorney and politician of Albany who ran for Congress on the Democratic Prohibition ticket last fall, doing the most menial work as a common soldier in the ranks. All those preparing themselves for commissions in the army have to do the regular routine work of a common soldier in these training camps, according to Mr. Yates. Lowell Grim is working on one of his ranches near Corvallis.

E. T. Neal, a former resident of this section, paid the Herald a call Tuesday. He was traveling by auto on his way to California from Washington. Mr. Neal, his wife and daughter have been traveling by auto and camping out for three years.

J. K. Moore, a prominent rancher of Sams Valley, was in town Tuesday.

5-cent toilet soaps will soon be off the market on account of advancing prices. Harmony Bath and Goblin still 5 cts. at Paxson's.

Mr. Art Lewis and wife of Medford have been visiting at the home of Bert Peck for the past few days.

Little Miss Blossom

They call me little Miss Mischief. But I'm little Miss Blossom Girl, too, And I just love the month of June With its flowers and birds, don't you?

On the fourth of June, our Flower Day, When we give our posies away, They smile with joy on the sick and sad, Trying their best to make folks glad.

Any farmer desiring to subscribe for the Herald can pay for same with anything in the way of vegetables, eggs or butter that the bachelor editor can use. He will be glad to arrange to take such things. See him before he loses any more fat (!). Call at his residence on the same lot that the printing shop is on.

J. B. Young, of Shedd, Ore., with Mr. Rose stopped over one day this week to see Mr. Robnett, en route to Sacramento by auto. Mr. Young and Mr. Robnett are old friends. They did not stop long, as they seemed to be in a great hurry to cross the State line. It is somewhat strange that these gentlemen did not appear to enjoy the fine climate of the famous Rogue River Valley, for the climate here is far superior to that of the "Webfoot" valley. Yet they said they were anxious "to cross into California," one mumbling something about being thirsty after the long ride. But we have fine water here. They will return by way of Eastern Oregon in about three weeks. One naturally wonders why they should want to go so far around Central Point on the return trip after spending three weeks in the driest (?) State on the coast.

Walter Painter, who has been working in Yreka, Cal., for the past few months, has returned home.

W. E. Price and family and E. R. Gleason and family motored to Applegate and Grants Pass last Sunday.

What would this community be without a news paper?

FOR SALE:- A Thompson one and a fourth inch mountain hack. Paxson's drug store.

The Children's Day program given at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning was fine. Miss Agnes Dunlap worked out an original program that was very especially appreciated because it was original. The other teachers and officers also deserve credit for helping to make the event a success. The church was prettily decorated with flowers and greenery for the occasion and a goodly number attended.

Mr. Strauss and wife of Sams Valley were in the city Friday.

Leave your orders for rubber stamps at the Herald office.

Have you saved any old papers or magazines for the local Red Cross? If not, do so at once.

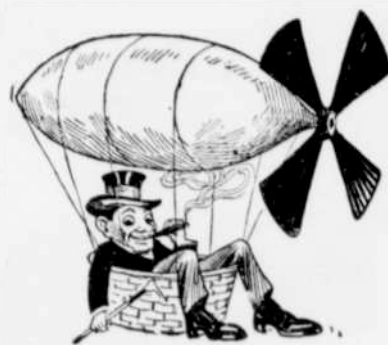

Bert R. Greer, editor of the Ashland Tidings, with two of the Roundup Association men, paid the Herald a call Wednesday morning. They were traveling in the former's car and were on a Roundup poster trip, sticking posters on buildings and posts all along the route.

Ask your dealer for California Washing Powder. It's the washing powder that makes your washing easier and your clothes whiter. Manufactured at 441 B St., Ashland, Ore.

We are glad to note that D. C. Grim, who has been ill for several weeks, was able to get out on the streets again this week. We wish him a speedy recovery, as do his many friends.
