SCHOOL WILL OPEN MONDAY EVERYTHING IN READINESS

School bells will again be ringing Monday morning, after having been quiet for the past three months.

The children for the most part will be glad to get back to school. Mr. Marsh, the janitor has both the grade building and high school in splendid shape for the opening. A new fire escape has been constructed at the grade building which will prove a great advantage in clearing the building in case of fire over the old method, formerly used. The teachers have all been hired and are in the city ready to assume the duties which they will be called upon to fulfill and will be at their post of duty Monday morning to welcome back the students.

Barn Fire Quenched

A fire was discovered in the barn at the Love home near this city, Friday afternoon and a call was in to the local department for help. The fire truck was immediately dispatched and was able to save most of the contents and the building itself. The rapid work of the department is to be commended.

OREGON STATE FAIR SCHEDULED FOR WEEK SEPTEMBER 23 - 28

Salem, Ore.—The wealth of the agricultural and industrial products of the Northwest will be at the Oregon State Fair, September 23 to 28, which promises to be the largest in history, according to Mrs. Ella S. Wilson, secretary.

Rain or shine, much entertainment is promised, as practically all of the exhibits and shows are given under cover. The new $150,000 grandstand and exhibit building, to be dedicated the first night of the fair, is attracting much attention as one of the finest structures in the state.

Races, both harness and running, with entries from nearly all the Western states and from Canada, will be held daily on the Lone Oak race track, well-known for its thrilling contests. The Governor's Derby, on Wednesday, September 25, "Salem Day" will climax the races, when a silver loving cup will be awarded the winner.

A horse show of metropolitan proportion will be held nightly in the big stadium under the management of A. P. Flemming, well-known in the horse-show world. He is the manager of the International Livestock, the Seattle, the Palo Alto, and many other shows. Horses from stables representing the finest in the country will be put through their paces on the tan bark arena.

Boys and girls from 4-H clubs in every county of the state will send exhibits to the fair, and many of them will be present as guests of the fair board. Nearly $5,000 in scholarships and premiums and many special prizes will be offered them.

Premiums and purses amounting to $80,000 will be awarded the exhibits and the races, and competition in every department promises to be stiff.

Coloring of Ducks

In many species of wild ducks the males are large and strikingly colored. Their mates, upon whose shoulders fall the family cares, are smaller and dressed in somber garb, says Nature Magazine. The dull concealing colors of the female serve to protect both her and her eggs from the prying eyes of enemies.

ENTERTAIN FORMER PUPILS MELON PARTY LAST FRIDAY

Mrs. J. Sanford Richardson played hostess to many of her former students, Friday afternoon at her home at Beall Lane. The little people enjoyed a very happy afternoon, the hours speeding entirely too fast. Stories, singing, games, and some lively prize winning contests afforded much amusement. The following little folks were invited: Maxine Ayers, Gerald Brown, Bessie Burns, Geraldine Ayers, Keith Copinger, Margaret Dow, Mario Gione, Jean Hermanson, Vernon Holland, Dean Higginbotham, Geneva Millard, Billie Merritt, Louise, Bowman, Inez Morningstar, Vivienne Ross, Doris Penland, Rosa Woody, Donald Gerber, Jean Eddy and Warren Arnold.

CHURCH ANNOUNCEMENTS

FEDERATED CHURCHES

J. M. Johnson, Pastor.

Nehemiah Rebuilds The Walls of Jerusalem is the title of the lesson for this week. The scripture is found in the fourth chapter of Nehemiah. The invitation is to all to get into a bible class somewhere and enjoy these great lessons.

"What Does Our Church Ask of Us, is the title of the young people's study. The lesson is found in Rom. 12:1-8. A growing interest in the young people's services should stimulate every young person to diligent action. All are welcome. A department for each age division. Mr. John Stille will preach again in our church next Sunday morning; and good special music will aid the worship. In the evening Mr. F. V. Lindblade, who has had years of experience in the pastorate and evangelistic work, will give a message on evangelism. Good song services will feature all these meetings.

The board of trustees and the joint board of church control of the Federated churches are having the furnace of the church remodeled and a ventilating fan installed. The work should be completed this week. Many will be glad to know this needed improvement is being made.
