CHURCH ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE FEDERATED CHURCHES J. M. Johnson, Pastor

"Keeping Fit For The sake of Others" is the title of the lesson given us for study this week; and the text is in Dan. 1:8-20. This is a wonderful lesson; but it takes clean minded, clean lived men and women to teach it. Go some where to Bible school.

Our young people are to have a lesson; from Matt. 6:15-13, "Jesus Teaching Us To Pray" is the title. 6:30 is the time, and all are asked to be on time. Good leaders, and a place for all.

Mr. Randall and Mr. Ray of the American Sunday school Union will have the morning hour. A gospel message will be given, and the rural work of the A. S. S. U. will be presented. Good music will help you to worship. In the evening service the pastor will preach another sermon in the series of fall opening messages. The subject will be: God's Demands in Leadership Character. Invite your friends and come to these evening services.

FEDERATED CHURCH NOTES

More than sixty men and boys met in the Brotherhood meeting on Tuesday evening and enjoyed the splendid program. After a good song service and prayer the chairman of the program committee introduced Mr. Ike Dunford, the evening, who told of his experiences in dealing with delinquent boys and criminals, and pointed out many of the devices of wicked men and women to lead astray the youth of our land. Mr. Dunford is a lover of youth, and a man skilled in handling hard cases. Many confessions have been made to him. He is frank in his presentation, clear, and at once gets the confidence of his hearers. His address will help our lads to steer clear of some of these pitfalls. He says that the average pool hall is the worst of places to breed crime. Also, that New Life Wine tonic, sold by druggists, is the worst foe to prohibition. He makes clear the fact that he wants to win back the fellow that has gone out of the way. We wish him the very best possible in his place and work.

Other such meetings will be held during the winter, with able men to tell our boys what certain practices lead to, and to tell them how to escape such evils. The good Citizenship Committee have a wonderful field of opportunity, and it is hoped they will cultivate it more and more. Mr. John Casad, the president of the Men's Brotherhood presided at the meeting, and asked for full cooperation with the department having charge of the evening program.
