Sun-Spots

If you happen to be interested in sun-spots take a look at the sun during the early morning hours—just after the fog begins to fade. Smoked glass is not needed, according to those who have made observations. The weather man says the bigger the spots the colder the weather. One now showing is reported to be 55,000 miles in length—Grants Pass Courier.

In so far as we have had no fog here yet, we have not been able to decide just what time to look for the sun-spots.

ALL ADVERTISING PAYS

All advertising pays. Experience of the business world confirms this verdict. All advertising pays, but some advertisements are much more productive of direct results than others. Just as one man may be a more effective salesman than the average so one well dressed and well prepared advertisement will produce returns far in excess of those generally received from indifferent advertising.

Let those who doubt the efficacy of advertising make a list of the items of every-day use that they purchase. Ninety-nine out of every hundred will be a nationally known item, whose reputation has been established by printers ink.

Advertising pays in two ways. 1st it may bring the buyers directly to the seller in response to the advertiser's message.

2nd, it may create a favorable impression in the subconscious mind that is translated into action when the need for the commodity or service arises.

It is this indirect result that many manufacturers and business leaders find most valuable of all. But of course where the advertiser's message can be made of such interest and so convincing that the buyer immediately rushes to the seller, then indeed a double jog has been accomplished that makes the purchase of printer's ink the greatest of all investments. —Oconto, Wisconsin, Reporter.

Road Hard to Police

The Khyber pass, a narrow defile in northwest India, connecting the Punjab with Afghanistan, is open to traffic only on Tuesdays and Fridays. The amir of Afghanistan undertakes to police the pass for only two days a week to protect travelers from attacks by the lawless Afridi tribes.

CENTRAL POINT WILL SOON HAVE DANCE HALL

Workmen are busy at the present time remodeling the interior of the Hawk building, formerly occupied by Al Hermanson's feed store and the place will be fixed up into a modern dance pavilion. A. W. Walker, of this city and for several years, dance promoter in Southern Oregon, will have charge of the hall. Mr. Walker believes that a hall in Central Point will be quite an asset to the town and that his hall will draw good crowds especially now since the dance halls at Eagle Point, Gold Hill and the Compton Colony are closed.

Begin With Petty Larceny

A survey of the inmates of many penitentiaries made by an official of a juvenile court showed that petty larceny was the outstanding first offense of the prisoners examined.

Confederate Money

The paper on which Confederate currency was printed was not distinctive paper. It was comparatively good quality paper with a grayish tint and was printed on both sides.

To Drill Hole in Rubber

Never try to drill a hole in a hard rubber panel without first providing a starting dent for the drill with a center punch. Without such a punch mark the drill will "walk" all over the panel, no matter how carefully you hold the drill itself.

Ancient Gothic Structure

Southwark cathedral is the oldest Gothic building in London, much of it being 40 years older than Westminster abbey.
