The Primary Election

The primary election is past and is now history. There were several surprises sprung, among which was the nomination of Geo. Joseph as the Republican nominee. Joseph was looked upon by many as an also ran but his fast furious campaign seemed to sweep the people off their feet and especially in Multnomah county where governors are made, in Oregon.

In the nomination of Joseph we find the people of the state of Oregon giving the organization machines the go-by. There are several excuses given for the nomination of Joseph, chiefly among these being that the people are tiring of the hold the power companies are getting on the state's natural resources and that they want municipal operation of the hydro - electric operations. Another is that the period of unrest produces a heavy vote for a radical candidate as a natural sequence. Others claim that it a vote of sympathy, an outcome of the recent disbarment trials.

There is talk of an independent candidate to run against Joseph in the Fall elections and State Treasurer Kay is again being groomed. The action of the people in the primary is to be over-ruled by the organization members who want a more stand pat sort of candidate.

At any rate we would suggest that the powers that be in Oregon politics take cognizance of the hand writing on the wall and govern themselves accordingly.

We Americans are wont to stand aghast at some of the harrowing ordeals chronicled in the daily press concerning events in several foreign nations but we seem to take as a matter of fact the events which are more gruesome that transpire in this country. They are all the worse because we consider ourselves the last word in modern civilization. Take for instance the lynchings which have recently taken place in Texas. Mobs of people, there set themselves above the organization of the law and not only committed murder themselves but arson and several other equally as serious crimes. And yet we claim to live in a civilized country.

Household Hints

CROQUETTES

Croquettes may often be used for utilizing left-overs. Moreover, they add an interesting and unusual note to a meal, and are particularly appetizing to many persons. In summer, especially, they are a light and attractive dish.

Chicken Croquettes

Mix a cup and a half of chopped left-over chicken with a half cup of white sauce made from four tablespoons of butter, one half cup of flour, one cup of milk seasoned with salt and pepper. Add the yolk of one egg, a little celery salt and a half teaspoon of lemon juice. Chill and then form into flat croquettes. Roll in egg white and fine crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Salmon Croquettes

Pick over contents of can of salmon until you have two cups of flaked meat. Add one half cup of thick white sauce, one half cup of flour and one cup of milk. Add one teaspoon of lemon juice with salt and pepper to taste. Cool and shape then egg and crumb and fry.

Potato Croquettes

Mix two cups of mashed potatoes with two tablespoons of butter, one teaspoon of salt and a little pepper, celery salt, a few drops of onion juice and chopped parsley if convenient. Beat well and add two egg yolks. Form into croquettes, dip in flour, egg white and crumbs and fry in deep hot fat.

Bread Croquettes

Pour a cup of scalded milk over eight or nine slices of stale bread, add two tablespoons sugar, a pinch of salt. Let stand till bread has taken up milk. Mix and press out excess milk. Form into balls, roll into slightly beaten egg white and fine crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Egg Croquettes

This calls for six hard boiled eggs.

They should be cooled and chopped. Now cook two tablespoon of butter and one tablespoon of minced onion in a frying pan until slightly browned. Then add six level tablespoon of flour and about three-quarters of a cup of stock. Let this boil, and then add a tablespoon of pounded sardines and the eggs. Cool and shape like eggs. Egg and crumb and fry in deep fat.

One Consolation

A new type of saxophone has been invented in Australia. A glance at an atlas affords one a certain amount of comfort.—Humorist.

The King's Canary

John Masefield, former sailor, New York bar-boy and world-famous poet, appointed Poet Laureate of England, the post Tennyson once held.

New Supreme Judge

Owen J. Roberts, famous Philadelphia Lawyer, named by President Hoover for the Supreme Court Bench. Like Chief Justice Hughes, Mr. Roberts is of Welsh descent.

Few Old Maids Red Haired

Red hair is the best of old-maid insurance, says Copper's Magazine. A German scientist who has specialized in these matters finds red-haired girls rarely fail to get a husband. He discovers also that the majority of young women who do not marry are blondes. That dark-haired members of both sexes marry early and oftener than those with light hair.

Copper Monument

Weighting almost five hundred pounds, a mammoth piece of lake copper was recently unearthed on a farm in Houghton county, Michigan. It was undoubtedly a monument erected to the memory of some noted chief who reigned over his tribe many years before the first white man spied out the wonders of the peninsula country.—Copper and Brass Bulletin.

How to Raise Poultry

NEED TAPEWORMS TAKE THE MEASURE OF YOUR FLOCK?

The Evil Reputation of These Elongated Pests Will Be Well Demonstrated if They are Allowed to Get a Good Start in the Poultry Flock.

Tapeworms are probably among the worst offenders of the thirty-six or more species or variety of worms that find parking space in a fowl's intestines. They may cause serious loss in any flock once they get started, so it is well to know what are the signs of their presence and what are the best measure for getting rid of them.

Tapeworms are very common in poultry and some varieties do not seem to cause any particular trouble. There are at least two kinds, however, that will cause plenty of trouble if allowed to gain headway. These worms are small, seldom being over five inches long. They bury their heads in the walls of the fowl's intestines, but apparently only to anchor themselves. The greatest damage they do is deprive the bird of its natural nourishment by absorbing all or most of it themselves. The chickens eat as much as they ever did, or more, but it does little good. A careful observer will see that his fowls are gradually losing weight and get pale from no apparent cause.

The only sure way to detect tapeworms is to kill one or more of the fowls most seriously affected and conduct a post-mortem examination, or "post" any that die. Cut open the ones selected for examination and slit the intestines from end to end. If the intestines are held under water it will be easier to detect the worms if any are present. Tapeworms are easily recognized, being flat, made up of jointed segments. They are white or gray in color. There may also be round worms present. Round worms are a serious enough problem to be featured in an independent article which I have written for separate publication.

Tapeworms must have an intermediate host, or they cannot spread to other fowls. Tapeworm eggs will not hatch in the intestines of chickens. The eggs of tapeworms are passed with the dropping of infected chickens and may be eaten by flies or earth worms. They hatch inside the fly or earth worm, and then chickens eat them and the worms will develop and grow in the chicken. Flies are the most common hosts. If, therefore, fowls are confined to yards which are kept free of droppings and decayed matter, there will be less trouble from tapeworms. If all such materials are removed some distance from the poultry runs, flies will be attracted elsewhere.

Kamala is known to be the most effective remedy against tapeworms in poultry, and is recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. It is best given in the form of individual dose pills—one gram being a dose for an adult chicken. This medicine is very convenient as no fasting is necessary before giving it. Caution should be used however, as some cases of poisoning have resulted from giving Kamala. The usual practice is to try it on a few of the less valuable birds about 48 hours before the rest of the flock. If the test fowls show favorable results, the rest may be treated with reasonable assurance of safety.

In the case of tapeworm infection, as with most other poultry diseases, sanitary measures are of prime importance. Clean up runs and houses, and keep them clean and well disinfected with a good dip and disinfectant. Remove all droppings or other fly attracting material every morning and remove it to a safe distance. Cover all runs with a heavy coating of hydrated lime, which should be plowed or spaded under often, and a quick growing grain planted.

The Tale the Census Tells

NATION FIGHTING THE AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT MENACE

Several state have embarked on intensive campaigns to lower the annual toll of deaths and injuries caused by automobiles.

During 1930, Maryland has suspended the licenses of 994 drivers, revoked 761 and refused license applications from 1,262 for such offenses as drunken driving, failing to stop after accidents and driving at extremely high speeds.

The New York safety responsibility law not only suspends or revokes the licenses of reckless or incompetent drivers, but provides that before they can be relicensed they must provide proof of their ability to satisfy damages that may accrue from future accidents, either by cash deposit, bond or insurance policy.

Connecticut has adopted a plan by which drivers who have accident must pay higher rates for insurance than careful drivers.

The trend throughout the entire nation is toward modernized, strictly enforced traffic codes, law makin examination of potential drivers necessary and severe punishments when motorists are inexcusably careless or incompetent. Something is tragically wrong when 30,000 persons can be killed and 750,000 seriously injured in a single year by automobiles.

Early Royal Signature

Who was the first British king to sign his name as distinguished from the mere marks formerly used?—The earliest record is a letter signed by King Richard II, granting to a princess near Bristol a tun of red wine every Christmas!

Coloring of Bricks

Common bricks are red because there is iron in the clay. Ordinary white bricks owe their color to lime. Lime and iron make a cream-colored brick. Brown bricks are due to the presence of magnesia, and yellow bricks to a combination of magnesia and iron.
