Office With Al Hermanson

With a vote of 58 to 9 the Senate endorsed Hoover's stand on the Naval Parley which will place a limit upon the ships to be built by the United States, Great Britain and Japan. The text of the treaty has not been made public although we feel sure that the representatives of our several states made sure they were not incriminating themselves when they placed their votes in favor of the pact. We were somewhat surprised at the heavy vote in favor of the president's position after reading the reports which had gained circulation through the public press about secrecy, etc. It leads one to draw either one or two conclusions. Either the Treaty was all right or the Senate is all wrong.

Judge McMahan of the Oregon Supreme Court states in a communication to the Oregonian that it is not within the precepts of the members of the State Central committee to write a platform for the candidate they will choose to fill the vacancy on the Republican's ticket, to run on.

In-so-far as Mr. George Joseph was elected to be the Republican candidate for governor at the May primary, it would be nothing more than justice to the electorate of the state to choose a man to succeed him who is in accord with the principles propounded by Mr. Joseph.

There are those who claim that it was Mr. Joseph's personality which won for him the nomination and not his principles but we hesitate to approve of this theory. It is true that Mr. Joseph was an ardent campaigner. He was forceful in his convictions and in his pronouncement of what he felt was right. There is no argument but that the platform upon which the successful candidate ran embodied some drastic planks but never-the-less they dealt with real problems that are facing the state of Oregon citizenry. Due to the fact that Mr. Joseph won the Republican nomination upon the platform which he championed we feel that it would be breaking faith with the members of the party who made his nomination possible should the Central Committee see fit to place a man at the head of the ticket who does not agree with the principles of Mr. Joseph's platform.

There is already some talk of an independent candidate taking the field if the Central Committee does not appoint such a man and we feel that the supporters of Mr. Joseph would be justified in such an action. It would not necessarily mean that the Independent would win but it would mean that the people would be given an opportunity to express themselves upon some very important measures which are becoming greater problems in Oregon as time goes by.

Before another week goes by, no doubt a candidate will be appointed and the battle will be on. The voters will watch with avid interest the results.

Local Happenings

Adds New P. O. Boxes
One of the sure signs of growth in Central Point was the addition of forty new post office boxes at the local office. Mr. Tex, postmaster, found the new addition necessary in order to take care of the added patronage.

OREGON'S LARGEST CROP

distinct appeal for the motor traveler as is evidenced by the increasing number of tourists who visit us, yet all this tourist business is with out any state encouragement. No state aid is given to private enterprise in originating and developing additional tourist travel. No state officer is the official host charged with the responsibility of seeing that our guests are accorded the courteous hospitality on which we pride ourselves.
The state need such a department. The state needs exploitation. Oregon should have for this industry the same measure of protection and development that she has for her other major industries. The story of Oregon will bear telling. We should have capable representation in the keen competition which has developed for the tourist patronage.

He's glad they're tough!

I. W. Walker, Superintendent of the Somerset Stone Company, Somerset, Penna., and a wearer of Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls. "Last fall while working at the quarry," he writes, "we had a number of stone to pull. When putting hooks on the stone, the chain broke when slack was tightened up and the hooks slipped from stone, catching me in seat of overalls and letting me down gradually, the stone falling after me for about 30 feet. If my Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls had not held me I would have met sudden death, but I got by with only a broken leg."

It was a spectacular demonstration of the strength of an Oshkosh B'Gosh Overall. The extreme toughness of this closely woven cloth means longer wear. Thus it actually costs less per year to wear Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls and you have the added satisfaction and comfort of an extra full-cut overall.

TAILORED-TO-FIT

No more cutting overalls from one pattern. Each leg length and each waist size has separately designed patterns. It costs more to make them this way, but whether you are tall or short or medium you are sure of a perfect fit.

Only Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls are "tailored-to-fit"
