G.O.P. MAINSTREAM? In connection with the recent announcement about the coming Lincoln Day dinner in Medford and that the featured speaker would be Senator High Scott of Pennsylvania, Republican Richard Travis asserted that Senator Scott "Represents the thinking of the mainstream of Republicanism,"

By Paul Hombeck

Now we do not like to cast the brand of ignorance at anyone, for that is bigotry and we don't want to justify anybody's accusation of bigotry against us. We simply trust in this instance young Mr. Travis' statement was a demonstration of ignorance of existing facts. We certainly would regret to learn that Mr. Travis is sincerely convinced that Senator Scott represents the mainstream of Republicanism. Indeed, if the beliefs and practices and political conduct embodied in the years of public life of Senator Scott may be translated as representing the mainstream of Republicanism in Jackson County, Oregon, then the ignorance is on our side and we are extremely unhappy that local Republicanism has become thus degraded.

Senator Scott was one of the leading lights among the seven million Republicans who deserted the Republican Party in 1964. We hardly believe that any very intelligent people would argue that this minority represented the mainstream rather than the twenty- million who remained loyal to the Republican Party. And if that is not convincing, let's take a look at the voting record of Senator Scott for the year 1965 in the 89th Congress.

More than two-thirds of his votes during 1965 went squarely down the line with the Johnson administration demands, and it is a matter of record that never before in history has the White House so completely dominated the program of legislation as was true in 1965 . Moreover, that program of legislation not only had the almost 100% approval of Communism's newspaper DAILY WORKER, but Norman Thomas, who, instead of running for the presidency on the Socialist ticket as had been his custom, plugged for Johnson in 1964, declared that the 1965 session of the 89th Congress fulfilled more of his hopes than he had ever dared to believe possible.

Now if the Republican leaders of Jackson County want us to believe that this is the kind of thinking and politicking that forms the mainstream of Republicanism in this area, we trust that the good people of Jackson County will create an unuaually large vacuum around the dinner table that greets Senator Scott on his visit here February 12. And if the Republican leaders insist upon the course of espousing the unholy socialistic, do-gooder, giveaway, one-worlder, freedom destroying unAmericanism being ed upon us by a tyrannical Democratic administration they deserve the biggest wholesale desertion on the part of rankand-filers ever experienced by a party leadership in any county in the Imited States.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

Quite a peculiar situation has the idea of independence and developed. On one hand, the resumes allegiance to England. The U.S. jumped in to sup-Viet Nam, with American lives port Britain, even though 50% of vitally needed U.S. chrome lost. No one has yet apparently been able to precisely explain comes from Rhodesia.

> The silliness of this situation is magnified by the fact that it s remembered that in 1776 there were a lot less than 4 million people who decided that America should break away from England, and there is no record of the Indians he. ing consulted on the matter at all.

Of course, it is not known how many Indians were in the land. But even a hundred years later, after they had been decimated by gunpowder, firewater and disease, at the Little Big Horn, General Custer learned there was still quite a passel of them still around. . . .

But this little nucleus of less than 4 million people, at that time largely of Ango-Saxon extraction, went on to build a mighty economy for the benefit of peoples all over the world. It is hard to imagine who would have bailed England out of trouble a number of times since then if the Indians, who actually possessed the real es-tate in the first place, had been able to veto separation from England.

What makes it even sillier is the fact that Britain has al ways turned a deaf ear toward American requests to impose an embargo on communist na-tions, including Red China, and Castro Cuba. Yet the Labor

ARC Provides Link With Servicemen

THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1966

With the escalation of our efforts in Viet Nam, more and more young men are being sep-arated from their families by induction into the Armed Forces. Whenever and wherever families are separated, prob-lems are bound to arise requiring assistance from an outside source. The American National Red Cross is the only legally recognized link between the military and the families at home. More and more thoroughly qualified and trained volunteers are needed at this time to provide this vital service. To meet the need locally a Social Welfare Aide, Course has been scheduled by the Jackson County Chapter of the American Red Cross. The course will be presented at the Chapter House, 60 Hawthorne Avenue in Med-ford, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Jan, 17, 18, 24, and 25. Mrs. Frank Fairweather, volunteer field consultant for the Red Cross, will be instrugtor for the training program. Individuals interested in this factors appeared to have contributed to the temporary level-ing off of park visitation. Another requirement for the Social Welfare Aide Course is completion of the basic training course for Red Gross volunteers. This is being offered on Jan. 14, 21 and 28 and trainees may meet this requirement during these sessions. For further information or to

That kind of thing, we admit, has so far gotten a big majority of the vote. But we also believe the mainstream of Republicanism, to say nothing of a very, very large segment of the Democratic party, is sick to the pits of their stomachs with such hypocracy and power-grabbing double dealing on the part of our elected officials -- in both major parties,

STATE OF UNION: "MISERABLE"

President Johnson's un-state of the Union message last Wednesday evening was a jewel in oration, in platitudes, in excellency of delivery, and especially in its dexterity in avoiding the things he didn't want to say. With great force he declared that the need for immediate federal spending to meet domestic demands is so urgent that we must not even consider cutting down the program because of any fear that the Viet Nam war demands might overshadow those domestic problems.

We are left to presume, then, that here at home we are in such a bad state that the federal government just must bail us out of our misery, regardless of wars on foreign territory. All over our land there are millions so poverty-stricken we've got to save their lives. Other millions working for a paltry $3 or $4 per hour can't keep the wolf from the door. Fifty states are no longer able to teach their children to read and write and Washington must give them billions for school aid, retroactive to last July. In other words, if we are to judge from the amount of federal money needed to insure our survival through 1966, the state of our Union must be miserable, indeed.

The orator President started off by picturing the terrific gains in profit made in our various industries during 1965. Farmers will be glad to know, for instance, that they made a big gain in profits on their operations last year. He translated the gains in percentages. Trouble is, he didn't bother to explean that a business man who made 1/2 of 1% of a profit one year and then gained fifty percent of the next year, that next year would have brought him the enormous profit of three-fourths of one percent profit. (That would at least pay a dollar or two on his tax bill) .

He was totally against discrimination. But he intimated that he wouldn't be opposed to a little discrimination FOR the negro and some other favored groups. Like repeal of 14B.

A little discrimination against non-union members wouldn't hurt, of course,

He wants to increase the quality of our education and our life in general. He stressed some materialistic and security qualities that are needed. But he didn't mention an increase in spiritual qualities.

He proposes to introduce bills this year to enable us to spread our educational and health measures to the international level; mustn't selfishly keep them here in America. Gotta tote the world, you know. And in that connection we must also remove the rest of our tariff barriers so we can assist the peoples of other nations by buying their goods instead of American made goods. Mustn't be niggardly and isolationist about this.

He says we must and will give our fighting men in Viet Nam ALL the quality equipment and material they need. (News reports said most of the boys over there wouldn't like to listen to the speech, and those who did said "Same old stuff." They have been pleading for up-to-date weapons, and would like to get orders from their generals instead of McNamara's fair-haired desk boys in Washington.) The President didn't explain why we have not heretofore given the fighting boys the weapons and equipment they need.

He said we could stand by the Geneva agreement. Wonder why, when we thought so little of it when it was made that we refused to sign it.

He said we are in Viet Nam because we have men to free --to restore liberty to them. But he didn't say a word about demanding and getting the freedom of the hundreds of our boys still held by the Red Chinese from the Korean conflict.

There were other heroic words. Altogether it almost was exactly what we had expected, though we admit we were bowled over by its linesse. But there was one piece of real news and it was a genuine expander. Mr. Johnson said that the Great Society embodies a federalism that is the dream of the American people. You don't say! So when Washington and Jefferson and Franklin and other great early Americans warned of and against the federalism they were rooting for the Great Society. Could it be that the dream Mr. Johnson envisions wight be something akin to a nightmare?

If you dislike our estimate of the speech , we can assure you that there were much bigger men all over the country who also grasped the EMPTINESS of it. Editor David Lawrence of U. S. News & World Report was one of them.

of World War II, calls attention to a letter he has received from his son Pfc Jim Forkner, now on military duty in Germany. Jim enclosed an article from the "Stars and Stripes" that was written by a marine sergeant in Viet Nam. The article so closely expresses the editorial opinion of this newspaper that we are carrying it as a guest editorial, as follows:)

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y. (UPI)-What U.S. troops in Viet Nam want most for Christmas is to lay their hands on an anti-Viet Nam demonstrator, according to a letter from a Marine that appeared in Saturday's edition of the Binghamton Sunday Bulletin.

Marine Sgt. James R. Pussik, a native of Binghamton who has been in the Marines for 12 years and is currently stationed in Hue Phu Bai, South Viet Nam, wrote the "Letter to Santa" in care of David Bernstein, editor and publisher of the paper. Russik's wife and three children live in Aurora, Ill.

"In an accompanying note to Bernstein, Russik said he was "sure if there really was a Santa and every GI here could write to him we could end all this protesting and our minds would be free to fight for what we believe is right-to stop the spread of communisim."

Following is Russik's letter:

'Dear Santa:

"This Christmas I have decided to ask you for only one pre-sent. Since there is no snow here in South Viet Nam you can't land so just gift-wrap it and I'm sure the postal department will take care of the delivery.

"Santa, can you imagine the joy on my face when I open your gift and find the one thing I want most in the world - an anti-Viet Nam demonstrator.

"At least I'd have someone, all mine, to share my exciting experiences with, I promise I'll take 'special' care of him,

I'll give him a hair cut (they all seem to need one) but I can't promise to keep him clean because baths are pretty scarce over

Besides, dirt seems to be a prerequisite for protestors so he should feel right at home.

'I'll share my bed - and sometimes inedible food - with him. "I'll share the disease, the intense heat and the impossible steaming jungle.

'I'll share with him the heartbreak of seeing my buddles blown apart.

"I'll share the misery of trying to identify their mutilated and tortured bodies that the Cong leave behind, "I'll let him sit beside me for hours waist-deep in a mud and water-filled foxhole; and Santa, I'll try not to be tempted to sit on the shallowest side.

"I'll share my long nights on patrol in the bone-chilling rain. "But don't worry Santa, I'll be warm with the joy of giving:

Giving a little hell to this Christmas present you were thoughtful enough to send me.

"And I promise, Santa, to always give him his own way for as long as he lives.

"Of course that won't be long if he insists on saying the things he said in the States.

'If he still feels the same way after a few days here; well, a promise is a promise:

The next time one of our patrols is attacked by the Cong, I'll let him run to the front line and tell the Cong he loves them and wants to help them
