New Pamphlet On 3-Year-Olds

A new publication from the Children's Bureau, Welfare Administration, U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, titled "Your Child From 3 to 14," describes the changes that normally take place in a child's personality and physical makeup during this period and indicates the best way for parents to cope with these constant changes. For example, much of a three-year-old's time, according to the pamphlet, is spent questioning. It is up to his parents to convert the child's curiosity into knowledge and understanding. His constant "why's" should never be ignored. In this third year of growth, a child's health needs will naturally be demanding. The pamphlet advises parents not to wait until their child is sick or has a toothache to visit a pediatrician or dentist, but to take him regularly for checkups and vision and hearing screening.

TRAFFIC TUNE-UP #4

This is the fourth in a series of 13 articles to test your knowledge of Oregon's traffic laws and safe driving practices.

1. When is the proper time to turn headlights on?
ANSWER: Lights on moving vehicles must be on from a half hour after sunset until a half hour before sunrise. They must also be on at any time when visibility is less than 500 feet. Use your headlight when driving at dusk even if you can see clearly. Other drivers may be facing the setting sun and it's important that they see you.
2. Keeping to the right is one of the oldest rules of the road. There are, however, three exceptions. What are they?
ANSWER: 1. When there are two or more clearly marked lanes for travel in the same direction. (A new law which will go into effect September 1967 will require slow moving vehicles to use the right lane only.)
2. When preparing to turn left.
3. When passing another vehicle.

3. How may feet must a signal be given before a turn is made?
ANSWER: At least 100 feet. Mechanized or electrical turn signals should be in good working condition so that they are plainly visible either day or night.
(If you would like further information, contact your Oregon Department of Motor Vehicles.)

Teen-Agers Operate Own Store at Profit

One of the country's unusual stores is located in the picturesque town of Mill Valley, Calif., across the Golden Gate Bridge from San Francisco.

Two enterprising teen-agers, Vicki Gross, 18, and her younger sister, Val, operate the Valerie Ann Shop. All merchandise is made by Marin County teen-agers, who set the prices and pocket the profits except for a percentage which goes to the operators of the store.
