Omnipotence

Eternity, time without beginning, time with out end
And endless space are terms we do not comprehend.
We know not whence or whither
Or for what purpose we are here.
We believe so much, but know so little
Of earth and wave and atmosphere.
We see the sun, so warm and bright
The moon to give us light at night,
But little we know of moon and sun
When they were made or the world begun.
Nine hundred miles per hour we circle around
Still twenty times faster with the sun we're bound,
On a journey we know not where, through space
We seem not to mind this fearsome race.
What keeps us on unerring course
Unless it's of divinely source?
It gives us the seasons of the year
The fruits of labor to give us cheer.
The power and wisdom we esteem
Belongs to Natures God Supreme.
Invisible is God, but we must obey
His laws of Nature and His way.
Why look for Him up in the sky
When he is present in You and I.
Your spirit being divine, why fear death
It can not die with your last breath,
It surely will come back again
Creation is one long endless chain
We can not see the life in egg or seed
To develop and grow according to breed,
His presence, no matter how obscure
Is essential for life to mature.
Thousands of atoms can sport and spin
With lots of room on the point of a pin,
Invisible are the scent atoms of violet or rose
That float in the air to please the nose.
If we take the pains we can trace
Ever His presence, there is no empty space.
Thus we find great things and small
In the universe and on this terrestrial ball.
—D. T. Gerdes.

How South Americans Use Oxen in Packing

Oxen are used extensively for packing in Venezuela and Colombia. They are slow but sure and pack more than a heavy mule. An ox will navigate with a burden something near 400 pounds, as against 250 for a pack mule. They are also ridden in both countries. In Ecuador they raft live oxen, the process being as follows: They take a long dugout and lash poles across it and tie the horns of four oxen to the end of each pole until about 32 oxen are in place; then they catch the tide going down the river and get an early start. Men stand in the canoe and prod the oxen and with the current they do about 12 miles per hour, usually arriving at the slaughter-house at Guayaquil in the early afternoon, having done 80 to 100 miles.

They also bring them to the slaughter-house by small steamers from the coast ports. The way they are loaded is by slipping a noose around the horns and pulling Mr. Ox up by the neck and the way they are unloaded is by making them jump from the deck into the water and swim ashore. This is done at all the small ports of South America and in the river at Guayaquil.—Edgar Young, in Adventure Magazine.

Too Little Attention Paid to Advertising

The newspapers of the country have built up the motion-picture industry. The advertising account of the railroads should give consideration to the newspapers when copy is placed because these railroads are dependent and hope to live off the prosperity created and developed by the newspapers of that section.

Cities and communities all along the Pacific coast are showing an increasing interest in the possibilities of community advertising through newspapers. Representative newspaper men from all parts of the coast have discussed plans whereby this service might be extended. The consensus was that this type of advertising had been universally successful. Figures show that definite results were obtained.

Many an advertised commodity outstrips its nonadvertised rivals not alone because it becomes known, but because the advertiser, once his product is identified in the public mind, has a strong motive for maintaining its quality, as well as looking for possible improvements that will constitute additional sales arguments. It has been demonstrated that precisely the same effect has been observed in connection with well-planned community advertising campaigns.

Library a Requisite

A library, well equipped and properly maintained, providing opportunity to develop that breadth of horizon and interest in life which come from "good reading," should be classed as a community necessity.

There are 10,000 women employed in connection with the mines in Great Britain.

HOW

WORK OF REJUVENATION OF STATUARY PROCEEDS.—Do you know that statuary suffers from old age and has to be rejuvenated by beauty doctors just the same as human faces and figures? It does, and reports which have just come to hand concerning the accomplishments of Thomas H. Bleakney, technician to the Pennsylvania museum in Philadelphia, indicate that he is filling the role of beauty doctor to wood, marble and plaster statues with results that rival some of the marvels wrought by beauty parlors. Under his deft touches, aged carvings shake off their senility and bloom again in the pristine beauty of their better days.

Old age works its ravages on art objects through chemical changes and bacteria which mar the "complexion" and leave cracks and wounds to fill with dirt. Under Bleakney's direction, these inanimate faces are treated for their looks by means of soap and water aseptic solutions and healing salves. Often the statue doctor's work resembles that of a surgeon, for wounds are cut into, cauterizations of diseased parts are made and even amputations are sometimes performed. Thymol, formalin, peroxide of hydrogen and ammonia are used sometimes.

Trinidad Col.

How do you expect the Postal Clerk to know whether you mean Trinidad, California, or Trinidad, Colorado? ALWAYS SPELL OUT THE NAME OF THE STATE IN FULL IN THE ADDRESS.

"MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT"

This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world.

HERE COMES A STRANGER!

Let's make our post office look neat, Mr. Postmaster. Straighten up the rural letter box, Mr. Farmer. Tidy up some, Mr. Rural Carrier. First impressions are lasting. Maybe Mr. Stranger, taking notice of these improvements, will come back, bringing you benefits. Start these with "POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK" May 1-4.

English is being taught over the radio in Japan. Recently the instructor dwelt on expressions of politeness. The best way to learn them, he said was to bump into English-speaking foreigners on the street, then bow, smilingly, and remark, "I beg your pardon."

Into the barber shop—
Many have blundered.
Women of high degree,
Women past fifty-three,
Determined that they shall be
One of the numbered.
Some are cut a la shiek,
Others are coy and meek,
Many are cut once a week,
While poor hubbies thunder.
Hairpins are never bought,
Switches get nary a thought,
Into Fisher's and Vaught'
While "next" s'at and wondered.
Some of them look quite swell,
Some of them looked like—well,
'Tis many a fib we tell,
To the bobbed hundred.—Ex.
