M. F. Craig celebrated his 94th birthday last Thursday, April 7th. A friend in San Francisco sent him birthday greetings by radio, and his friends and neighbors here remem-bered him with little gifts and greet-ing cards. Mr. Craig makes his home with his son, Frank Craig, in Valley View and his daughter, Mrs. Harry Roe, of Nevada City, Ca., has been with him all winter and spring. Mr. Craig has had a long eventful life. He was born at Bellinea, Ireland on April 7, 1833. He came to Pennsyvania in 1846, became a railroad man in 1854, working on the Mobile and Ohio railroad, during and after the civil war, then transferring to the Union Pacific and Central Pacific, being stationed at Promotory. At this time the Northern Pacific and Minnesota were building a new road Wash., but had to have engines at the western end of the new road tobe Two twelve ton locomotives were shipped from Duluth, Minn., by way of Chicago to San Francisco, over it is being remodeled into a place the Union Pacific, then loaded on a for the washing of sprayed fruit as sailing vessel and taken by water to the state of Washington. ### FLORAL SOCIETY THANKS MRS. EVA WITHROW FOR HER INTERESTS IN ASHLAND FLOWER CULTURE

Mr. Paul Robinson, Editor Ashland American

Enclosed you will find a copy of the letter that I have written to Mrs. Eva Withrow, in reply to her offer of plants.

I still have flower seeds in my possession left over from the free distribution that any one may have if they will come for them, also have Shasta and Michaelmas daisies that will be given away as long as there are any. I have chrysanthemums, the common varietiese, will be given away, the choice varieties and canna roots I sell at price within the reach of all.

I wish to thank you for the publicity that you have given the activities of the Floral Society in your valued paper.

April 10, 1927. Sincerely Yours, Lydia E. Jacks.

LETTER TO MRS. WITHROW

As president of the Ashland Floral Society, I gladly comply with the request to make a reply to your generous offer of plants through the columns of The Ashland American.

This is the first year thatt he Floral Society has offered prizes to children on flowers they have raised themselves. As you no doubt noted, we advise them not to try to raise more plants than they can take good care of and suggested annuals. Of course, cannas and chrysanthemums are classed as annuals. Of course, cannas the society and I think that it takes some practice in gardening to successfully raise these plants here. Chrysanthemums need here. care all summer and are often taken by early frost, so that we Chrysanthemums need would not advise the children to try them this year. Calendulas grow here easily and quickly from seed. Some may avail them-selves of your kind offer of iris and all the other plants by writing for them as the editor suggests.

I am sure that you are doing a good work by spreading the gospel of interest in gardening as you are.

When you come to Ashland again, be sure to look us up. We will be glad to have you see our individual gardens.

Thanking you again for your generous offer and wishing you much hapiness in the distribution of plants, I am,

Sincerely yours, Mrs. Lydia E. Jacks
