SIX POINT DEER IS SHOT FIRST DAY

What was thought to have been the largest deer killed so far this season was the one shot by Clark Butterfield, who with S. A. Peters Jr. and Frank Hamilton spent Sunday hunting on the Green Springs. The deer was a six point one, and required pack horses to bring him in from the mountains.

"Take out my advertisement, I sold the cow the day after the paper came out."

That is what O. V. Ritchie, told us Monday morning. On Friday he ran a small classified advertisement, advertising a good Jersey Cow. Saturday the cow was sold. The advertisement cost but a few cents in comparison with the value of the cow, yet it secured the desired results.

Register classified users are loud in their praise of the results they are getting.

"It's the Circulation that Gets the Results"

OLD PAPERS ARE ENTERED IN CONTEST

Many Register Newspapers of Years gone by in Registers Contest

How would you like to read an account of the funeral of George Washington? That was the privilege of the editor of the Register Saturday when Mrs. P. Sergeant of 155 Third street entered a paper printed in—well it was printed a quite awhile ago, you may be sure, to have an account of this worthy patriot's funeral in it. Then, there were other things of interest in this paper, the advertising for instance were largely to the sale of slaves, while one enterprising merchant, wishing to get his merchandise before the public resorted to poetry, and referred to his wares as being "Bright and Gay."

Whiskey was quite a commodity in those days, for it played a prominent part in the sale and trade of slaves, in that a few barrels of whiskey were worth a slave or two.

Mrs. W. H. Huntington, brought in an old daily paper published at Grand Island years and years ago. This was unique in that the telegraph news was carried under a single head, entitled "Telegraph," while the balance of the paper was devoted largely to local news and opinions by the editor.

This old paper contest is a most interesting and fascinating one. Many have brought in their papers to be registered, and the sheets worn with age, chronicle there some of the events that have gone down in history. If you have an old paper, bring it in, you may win the $5.00 offered for the oldest one. The contest will run until the 24th of September.

HUNTER FORSAKES GUN FOR ARROWS

The days of the bow and arrow are not gone forever, as was witnessed Saturday morning by several hunters in the Siskiyou region. Tramping through the brush, these hunters were startled with what they thought might be a ghost of yesterday, when they saw a stalwart hunter, stalking his game in the tangled brush that adorns these mountains. They looked for a gun, but there was none in evidence, and much to their surprise, strapped over the shoulder of this deer hunter was a gigantic bow and by his side was a sheath of steel pointed arrows.

Yes sir folks, the days of Robin Hood were being lived over again. V. D. Miller local clothing merchant, was the man with the bow and arrow, and he swears by all that is holy, that had the deer he saw only had horns, he would have had the honor of bringing in one with his said bow and arrow. But the deer didn't have horns, and the brave hunter returned to his "Hab-a-Dash Inn" full of resolutions for days to come. He was accompanied by W. C. Mitchell and Leonard Gosnell.

Frank Beswick the Rural Mail Carrier, had charge of the Baptist Sunday school for the last two Sundays in the absence of the Superintendent V. O. Smith, who has been down the valley for some time, taking a vacation in camping with his family.

Here Is a Man Who Has Worked 2150 Days Straight

Six years without a "day off," a total of 2150 days, averaging 17 hours work each day—that is the record of E. B. Poyer, local dairyman.

Getting up at seven o'clock in the morning is a task for many people, but not for Mr. Poyer, who has never set his alarm clock for later than 3:45 A. M., except once, since he went into the dairy business. This was when he took a day off to go to Klamath Falls a short time ago.

There are no variations in the weekly schedule for this dairyman. Every day is alike, Sunday and all—up at four, and the days work done at nine, sometimes later. If he is fortunate and goes straight to bed, he gets seven hours of sleep—otherwise he must content himself with five or six.

Mr. Poyer has handled his business practically single handed. He does both the morning and evening milking, and until recently has done all the delivering. He now has an assistant that takes care of the evening route.

Several years ago, Mr. Poyer made a statement to his fellow dairymen that his ambition was to raise a herd of "500 pound cows" meaning cows that produce five hundred pounds of butterfat every ten months. This, of course, is a high production margin for any animal, and he was told that his ambitions were "too high."

Today Mr. Poyer has four cows in this class, one that gave over six hundred pounds. One heifer in the herd, fresh but a short while is giving 350 pounds, and many others that he owns are continually increasing their merits. And the average herd is doing well if it has even two head in the "500 pound class!"

His herd is further credited with being one of the cleanest in the valley, and was given high recommendation by the dairy examiners. The entire groups of 15 is registered and graded.

Poyer is located at the South edge of town along Weightmen street.
