MISS LITHIA GOES SHOPPING

If only "The old woman who lived in a shoe, and had so many children she didn't know what to do," had known about J. C. Penny Company's notion department her troubles would have been ended then and there. Every child's individual wants could have been satisfied—and then some; for without a doubt this NOTION DEPARTMENT is so COMPLETE that if it lacks anything from needles to handkerchiefs, Miss Lithia was not aware of its absence.

If you are undecided and haven't a notion in your head, drop in to Penny's and you'll get them by the score.

Ever hear about those wonderful Dancing Shoes that danced away over the hill and dale forever without ever growing shabby or old? Well, of course those were magic shoes—but their brothers, sisters and cousins may be seen to-day in Enders Shoe department, and they are only waiting for the opportunity to dance away on some one's feet. They are HAPPY SHOES and guaranteed to gladden the feet of man, woman, and child. Sturdy shoes, oxfords, dancing pumps, anything and everything for comfort, style and practical wear are in readiness for a happy owner.

ATTENTION BOYS! you who play on the football teams and you who have EXPECTATIONS—"Hab-a-Dash-Inn" to Miller's Toggery and lok over those wonderful FOOTBALL outfits. Those suits certainly have all the DASH and PEP necessary to inspire the weakest hearted to heights of heroism. Helmets, shoulder-pads, socks, shoes, sweaters, everything and made so durably, so swankily as to INSURE the certainty of victory over the staunchest of adversaries.

Ashland's hospitality is something long to be remembered according to Mrs. C. B. Colman, of Charleston West Virginia and a member of the party of Virginians that stopped here for several hours this summer. Mrs. Colman in a letter to Mrs. F. F. Whittle recently said that out of the many places visited by the party on their trip, Ashland stands out as being the most beautiful.

The hospitality dispensed at Ashland came in for some special comment by the West Virginia lady, and she elaborated at length upon this feature of their visit. The fact that Ashland was remembered by this lady, and that she thought sufficiently of her stay here to write, was considered by Ashland people, as significant, in that the gospel of Ashland will be spread far and wide by these people.
