FOODY SALADS

Salads-that-make-a-meal may be made with lima or kidney beans, peas, cheese, salmon, or chopped chicken or veal as a foundation. To this may be added chopped celery, pickles, beets or carrots; or cold boiled rice. Seasonings may vary to suit the taste and may include salt, pepper, paprika, chopped green pepper, shredded tomato, minced onion, or chopped parsley. Such a hearty salad as this makes a good luncheon dish and furnishes enough proteins to supply nourishment. With wafers or thin sandwiches and a cup of hot coffee or cocoa, it makes a very satisfying meal.
