Penney Company Gives Large Christmas Bonus

Mr. A. W. Fortmiller, manager of the local J. C. Penney store in this city announces today that $320,000.00 was distributed in bonuses to the employees of the J. C. Penney organization for the year 1927. This is the largest bonus distribution in the history of the company.

The J. C. Penney Company has 954 stores operating in 46 states. Over 3,000 women employees participate in the bonus in their various stores and 145 women associates in their New York and St. Louis offices.

"They constitute a large and vital factor in our organization," said Mr. Fortmiller, when interviewed today. "In order to encourage them toward greater effort and to give them some special benefit within the keeping of the principle and policy of the organization, the Golden Rule, this special bonus plan has been adopted for them."

The bonus distribution for the women in the offices is based on salary and years of service. The women associates in the stores share in the bonus in proportion to their productiveness in sales and length of service.

The men associates have the opportunity to share in the profits of all J. C. Penney Company stores and to receive a substantial percentage of the profits of their stores when they become managers.

TEN CLUBS

(Continued from page 1) ancing clubs, model minutes, model reports, methods of nominating, qualifications and responsibilities of officers, advantages of Cultural, Civic and Departmental clubs were on the program. It was agreed that it is easier to do material things than to awaken public conscience. Club women do not know the resources at their command. Should they be worried about tree cutting; consult the Highway Commission. For untidiness of streets; confer with the City Council. For bad sanitation, get in touch with the City Health Officer.

It was clearly brought out during the afternoon that a club is the result of the desire of individual women to cooperate for the benefit of the individual, the club and the town.

The meeting proved most successful and beneficial to the large attendance of women present. Because of the visitors from outlying districts, Mrs. S. A. Peters, Jr. and Mrs. Earl Crow hostesses for the afternoon served refreshments at four o'clock, which consisted of dainty and attractive sandwiches and coffee.
