THE FRIENDLY CHINESE

We think Mexico is making a big mistake in expelling the Chinese. We have had occasion to investigate the Chinese in this country and we found that they are good citizens in every respect. They are clever business men, they are honest, they always have good bank credit and they are far from being lawless. They create no night disturbances and they never intrude on other people. Some folk are suspicious of them, but that is only because the Chinese flock together. They are sociable and companionable and would be good friends of the Americans, and of the Mexicans also, but they are not given a chance. They greatly appreciate good treatment and kindness.
