GOVERNOR MEIER SAYS STATE WELL OFF ECONOMICALLY

PORTLAND, Feb. 10 .- Governor Julius L. Meier returned to Oregon today, convinced that his state is far better off economically than many eastern and middle western states.

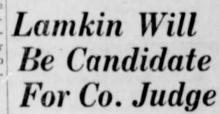

This he said today as he discussed anemployment and industrial probems as he saw them on a trip to Washington, D. C., where he appeared before the board of army engineers in behalf of Columbia river development, and on a visit to New York, where he spoke with the nation's financiers and industrialists.

He commented on press dispatches to Oregon mentioning him while he was in New York, and said today he "believes" he will not be a candidate Legislation to succeed himself as governor. He reserved, however, the right to change his mind.
