

SCHOOL NOTES

By ELIZABETH FLEISCHER

The epidemic of flu that has been sweeping over the country this year has taken a heavy toll of the high school students. Irene Hoffman, Lola Loesch, Janice Hesselgrave, Lewis Hedgpeeth and Donald Patterson are all back in school again after absences of a week or more. Donald Richardson, Bertha Bartsch and Nola West are absent at present on account of illness. Bernard and Mary Linda Wilde have also been absent. This has worked a slight hardship at this time because of the six weeks tests that were given last week.

Dorothy Sanderson sustained a light cut on the face and a minor injury to her nose when she was struck by a baseball which crashed through one of the lower panes of the north hall door, Monday morning before school took up. No one else was injured either by the flying glass or the ball. Dorothy was back in school again Monday after visiting her doctor in Medford.

Miss Blood and Miss Franklin moved to Eugene last week end to visit the house of Miss Blood's parents.

The clever three act comedy "Indy on Horace" written by Ed- in Scribner has been selected by the seniors as class play. Copies have been sent for and as soon as they arrive practice will begin so that the play can be given in May.

The Girl's Glee Club under the direction of Miss Blood will make a trip to Gold Hill Friday afternoon and present a program of selected songs and the clever skit "The Sweet Family" to the assembly. This program is in accordance with a plan that was worked out this year by several secondary schools of this district of exchanging programs and lent with each other. The program will also be presented at the Central Point Grange, Friday night.

"Commencement Memories" little lavender, and silver booklets presented to the seniors Monday with the compliments of the Huke-Walker Business College. These booklets which are attractive-illustrated contain spaces for class photographs, autographs of the teachers and records that will some day give both amusing and informative.

The group pictures for the annual are taken Wednesday afternoon. The seniors are going forward rapidly on annual and these pictures mark out the last steps before the book is to press. Pictures were taken the following order: The Girl's sketball Team, Track Team, Boys sketball Team, Girl's Glee Club, members of the C. Annual Staff, Girl's Glee, Freshman Class, Sophomore class, Inter Nos, Central Point staff.

The Phoenix Typing Team visited high school Tuesday afternoon together with the Central Point team performed before the entire student body. All the teams in the county are preparing for the county membership contest which will be held in the very near future. The Central Point team is composed of Mary Jane Beebe, Vivian Jones, Wyn- ae Parker, Avis Ayers, Edna Iver and Geneva Brown. Mary Jane Beebe excelled all the typists Tuesday by writing 75 words a min- ute.

The Freshman party held in the high school last Friday night was well attended. Volley ball was played in the gym and games were held in the halls. After excellent refreshments were served the students and happy freshmen went home.

Ruth Turpin and Wilda Hall are truly proud of their record of being the first high school students to visit Crater Lake this year. They were on the rim last Sunday, the day the park was open, by way Klamath Falls with Irvine Hall and Walter Carr.

A program under the auspices of "Pointer", Central Point high school's annual, will be presented Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium. Three one act plays will be given with various students as school taking part. "Land Ho!" directed by Miss Shir- abeth Southwell, Wylamae Par- son and Ruth Ramstrom. "The clever comedy "Enter The O" is directed by Mrs. Fleischer. "Geraldine Tex, Janice Hessel- grave, Avis Ayers and Bernard Wilde are the stars. "The Boy Came Home" is the last play and is being put on by Rose with a cast drawn from the senior class. Those who have roles in this play are: Ruth Turpin, Vera Hood, Rowena Perdieu, John Smith and Roy Martin. Moving pictures of Crater Lake during the winter will also be shown. The program promises to be very interesting and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Culminating the basketball season a gala event was held in the high school Home Ec. rooms April 7, when the mothers of the players prepared and served an excellent banquet.

The table was beautifully decorated with flowers and tiny metal basketballs served as place cards. After the dinner there were several talks. The trophy was presented to the captain, Elizabeth Southwell, of the girls basketball team. Then a medal was presented to the boy and girl who was of the most value to his or her team. This was bestowed on Elizabeth Southwell and Donald Patterson.

After the banquet the guests adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Jewett where card games were played. Delbert Ayers held highest score for the boys with Clifford Cas- sad earning the "booby" prize. Frances Faber held the high score for the girls while Peggy Lawrence got the consolation prize.

Cleaning Walls And Woodwork

The paint used on walls in kitchens, bathrooms, and bedrooms is, for the most part, flat paint. This kind of paint is easily scuffed off the wall, therefore must never be rubbed hard in cleaning. Let the cleaning agents themselves take up the soil. Nearly all failures in cleaning painted walls are due to the mistaken belief that the soil must be scrubbed off.

Grease spots are easily removed by patting with a soft cloth dipped in turpentine, then rinsing with another dipped in 1 cupful of clear water to which 3 or 4 drops of kero- sene have been added. Every trace of the spots will have disappeared and without injury to the paint.

Solled places other than grease usually can be removed by going over them with a "soap" eraser or a soft red one. If this fails, use a damp cloth dipped in whitening. Hard rubbing with this will wear the paint off very quickly, so use it lightly.

When the entire surface of the walls is to be cleaned, first dust every inch of it thoroughly to remove every particle of light dust. Then sponge it, one wall at a time, with lukewarm water and while the wall is still wet, go over it with whatever cleaning solution has been chosen for use. This preliminary wetting lessens the dangers of the wall being left streaked or of the soil being rubbed into the surface of the paint.

Inexpensive cleaning powders, to be dissolved in water and used on painted walls, can be purchased at many paint stores. They are to be used according to the directions on the box. If not procurable, home-made cleaning solutions will serve nicely.

If the walls are only slightly soiled lukewarm soapsuds may be used successfully on the already wet walls. Use only mild white soap, such as one might use for the face and hands never kitchen or laundry soap. Apply with a very soft sponge, not cloth, because a sponge may be used evenly and without pressure on the paint, a thing almost impossible with cloth no matter how soft it may be. Wash only a narrow strip up and down, at a time, starting from the top, and at once sponge off with clear warm water and dry with a soft cloth.

If the walls are very dirty, a good cleaning fluid is made by dissolving two ounces of powdered glue in two quarts of boiling water, then shaving into it a cake of mild white soap, stirring until thoroughly dissolved. Let it cool, until it forms a jelly. Add enough of this jelly to a painful of lukewarm water to make a good suds. Apply this with a soft sponge to the wet walls. Sponge this off with clear warm water and wipe down with chamolis.

Sometimes when a coat of paint has just been applied to walls, it is followed by a coat of glaze, which does not show, and over this is put an invisible coating of starch. This latter remains on until the wall requires cleaning, at which time the starch is washed off, bringing with it all the dirt, which has adhered to it.

This suggests a method of cleaning which has been used very successfully. Starch is made in the usual way as for a laundry, and is applied to the walls with a sponge, and then, when all the walls have been covered, it is removed with a sponge dipped in clear warm water. Woodwork covered with flat paint is cleaned in the same manner as flat-painted walls.

Woodwork covered with enamel or any gloss paint or with varnish has a harder surface and does not become so much soiled, consequently is much easier to clean. Spots usually can be removed with a woolen cloth wrung out of warm water. Rub gently, with a circular motion. If the spots persist, put a little whitening on a damp cloth, apply lightly, wipe off dry at once. The soft luster of enamel is dulled a little by even the mildest soap, therefore it should be used only when absolutely necessary.

Discoloration on woodwork made by scratching matches can be removed with lemon juice.

Lamb Prospects improve but Crop Appears Short

Improved growing conditions for a less than normal lamb crop, but some decline in prices recently on the new crop lambs were reported by the O. S. C. Extension service at the close of the first week in April.

With an abundance of moisture in the soil, Oregon ranges and pastures are now making good growth. Conditions in the high mountains, where the snow covering exceeds the normal for this time of the year, are encouraging to stockmen. Many sheep and cattle, especially in southern counties, are being moved to early ranges.

While some new crop lambs from Willamette valley flocks have already gone to market, lambing in the range bands of eastern Oregon is just well under way. In valley flocks the lamb crop was heavy, but in the bands of eastern and southern Oregon, considerable loss of old ewes occurred and more than normal loss of lambs due to poor conditions of ewes following a severe winter on poor quality feed.

In Douglas county where early market lambs are a feature, sheep came through the winter in fair shape despite limited feed, and are now making good progress on better than normal grass. The lamb crop is shorter than in recent years on account of unfavorable weather in January when the heavy lamb drop occurred. With creep feeding more common this year, lambs have made good growth and some already weigh 60 pounds or more.

New lamb prices declined as increased supplies became available. First offerings of the season brought as high as $10 a hundred in nearly all markets. At the close of trading April 8, good to near choice spring lambs sold at Portland at $7.50, with lower quotations reported at San Francisco. Thirty to 40 percent of the California early lamb crop has left growers hands. These have mostly gone into coast markets, though some have gone to the central west and a few cars of dressed lambs to the Atlantic coast.

On Oregon Farms

CANYON CITY--A Pool of nearly 4000 pounds of Grimm alfalfa seed was made up and ordered for 34 Grant county farmers during the past month by County Agent R. G. Johnson. The amounts ordered by individuals ranged from 10 to 300 pounds. An order was also included for 174 pounds of South Dakota No. 12 alfalfa for T. Kennedy and L. V. Stewart.

DALLAS--Here is a case where determination and perseverance were not regarded as virtues. When W. Frank Crawford of Zena plowed under his strawberry planting and set out gooseberries in their place, the strawberry root weevils, deprived of their natural feed, promptly attacked the gooseberries. The pest was identified by J. R. Beck, county agent, and a spray of lead arsenate and the standard apple poison bait were recommended for its control.

KLAMATH FALLS--Many dairy farmers have not yet learned the value of a dairy herd improvement association, but here are some who have. A number of the members of the Klamath association have found themselves unable to continue testing this year. The 11 dairymen left after reorganization found they had only enough work to keep a tester busy half time, so in order to keep the association going they have arranged to employ him on their farms at regular farm wages during the other two weeks of each month.

ROSEBURG -- Creep feeding of lambs has proved very successful this spring on the farm of L. E. Thompson at Umpqua, where periodic weightings of the lambs are recorded and an accurate cost of feed purchased kept, reports J. C. Leedy, county agent. A wether lamb weighing 46 1/2 pounds March 4 weighed 61 pounds March 25, a gain of 14 1/2 pounds in 21 days. A ewe lamb gained 11 pounds in the same period. Total feed cost for 73 lambs creep fed up to March 31 was $6.38. Feeding was started with a few of the early lambs January 15.
