WALLACE PREDICTS NEW ERA

Musings-- By an Innocent Bystander

Sunday night we saw something we never expected to witness in this vale of tears. At what we understood was an outdoor church service, conducted under the auspices of the united churches of Southern Oregon, we saw a young man in the back row of the bass side of the choir light a cigarette while waiting for the service to begin! We will admit it gave us quite a shock. We hate to believe the young men of today have so far lost a sense of the eternal fitness of things as to do such things consciously. We hope the lad merely forgot for a moment where he was. We suggest that the pastor of whatever church that young man was singing for had better see to it that the members of his choir at least have enough reverence or tact, or common decency to postpone their cigarette smoking at least until church is out.

We congratulate Eve Benson upon the excellent dancing of the children at the coronation of the Queen Mother, Monday night. The performance was a wonderful one. It was hard to choose which of the different dances was the most pleasing; but we especially enjoyed the Irish jig and the Highland Fling or Sword dance. And those tumbling spiders were GOOD. But the tiny tots who played the rabbits took the cake, especially that "nonchalant" youngster who lost her head, or her ears, at least.

And we feel sure Her Majesty felt a deep thrill to see these "Oregon Made" lads and lassies who performed in her honor. Even the blase "Jerry" felt overcome, judging from the way he mis-named some of the acts.

Those who failed to hear Secretary Wallace missed a rare treat. In a slow, quiet voice and in a manner which showed deep thought, Mr. Wallace put a lot of truths squarely up to us all. And we who listened felt that this quiet, thoughtful man was doing all that he may to help the farmers of the nation with their problems.

Marine's Store Moved into Big Hatfield Building

One of the most important moves which has taken place in Central Point for some time was that of the Marine Grocery which now occupies the large corner room of the big Hatfield block on the corner of Pine and Second streets. The entire room has been repainted and affords the best facilities for the grocery business.

This is considered one of the best locations in the city and Mr. Marine is being congratulated upon his enterprise in securing this location.

Starting in business for himself, about three years ago, Mr. Marine, or George as he is more familiarly known, has, by careful buying and friendly service, together with fair prices, built up a large trade in his line.

The new store opened Monday morning and is very attractive. The goods displayed are the best in the market and so arranged as to permit the customer to readily see what he wants. Fresh fruits and vegetables will be displayed in the big windows, together with attractive displays of all manner of good things to eat.

George is assisted in the store by his father, Mr. T. A. Marine.

The American joins his many friends in wishing George every success in his new and better location.

A group of Mr. Amick's friends journeyed to Grants Pass last night and spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Amick at their country home. They carried refreshments with them and also a lovely gift for the newly weds. Among those attending the party were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Tex, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanford Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hanson, Edith Deuel and Arlene Hay. A lovely time was reported.

Farm Secretary Says Now Time For New Pioneer

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace delivered a very forceful address to an audience of about four thousand people at the Fairgrounds Sunday afternoon. The theme of his speech was "The New Pioneer," and was received with enthusiastic applause. Mr. Wallace showed his hearers the many difficult problems facing the New Deal and said he expected the great Northwest to be among the first to find the right solution.

"We have spread out before the people," said the speaker, "an entirely new challenge to the new pioneer. For the first time in the world, during the past ten years, the entire world has been settled up; we have made the circle. How easy it was, and how simple, when the West was not yet filled up, and depression came upon us, for the simple unemployed people to pack up their belongings and move out West where resources were abundant, and population was thin. They worked hard, drove themselves consistently for twenty or thirty years, and thereby gained sufficient substance to be able to retire with a comfortable income at the end of that time; often we have seen this thing happen.

"About the end of the world war people had filled up intermediate spaces. The advent of the world war deflected our attention from what would have been a problem if the world war had not occurred, for the entire country out to the Pacific Coast had become populated; there was no further place to go; no cheap government homesteads to be had, but the resources and possibilities are just as great today, as they have ever been. There are still rich resources and abundant lands to be had for the asking.

"The obvious pioneer is gone. Pioneering of mind is spread out before us. This pioneering involves learning to get along with each other; involves doing that thing for which our ancestors left Europe. There were many things that were faulty in Europe and no wonder our ancestors left, under the existing conditions. We are faced with many difficulties similar to those in Europe, but we must learn to live with each other. Pioneering has not been able to do that. The virtue of rugged individualism does not tolerate living too close to one another. We want to maintain and retain our individualism, but add to this self-denial.

"I have been wondering since I have been out in the western country—Arizona, New Mexico, California and Oregon—as I have talked (Continued on Page Three)

Hogan Brokerage Office Is Installed In New Quarters

M. N. Hogan and company's investment securities and broker office is now installed in efficiently arranged and comfortable permanent quarters at 214 East Main street. The new office has a main room measuring 75 feet from entrance to the quotation board in the rear with width of 25 feet. On one side is a counter for transaction of customer's business, and a private office. On the opposite side Mr. Hogan has drafted a graph 5½ by 16 feet on which the Dow Jones averages are charted showing the high low and close daily on industrials, rails, utilities and bonds over a period of two years. The chart also shows each day's volume of transactions.

All brokerage offices have Dow Jones charts. However, this is the only chart on the coast where all four groups are shown together, according to Mr. Hogan, who points out that the comparisons are an excellent guide for investors.

The M. N. Hogan company has a ticker service on direct wire, carrying the stock quotations simultaneously with San Francisco, Portland and Seattle. The ticker tape is reproduced on the quotation board by Translux and quotations are marked on the huge board as transactions in stocks are shown. The board also carries grain and commodity prices.

A direct wire gives fastest service on buy and sell orders, as placed by customers.

The customers' room is provided with comfortable chairs, where investors may take their ease in following the trend of the market, as flashed upon the quotation board.

The brokerage concern first installed ticker service August 30, 1933 and provides Medford with one of the few such facilities in a city of this size in the country.

Mr. Hogan extends an invitation to the public to inspect the new quarters and the staff is glad to explain the workings of the mechanisms which keep the office in constant touch with the principal markets of the country.—Mail Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Jewett and children accompanied by Mrs. Jewett's sister, Mrs. Putman and two children returned home Wednesday from Salem where they had visited for a number of days. Mrs. Putman and children will visit at the Jewett home indefinitely.

Mrs. Hay Promised Ambulance Ride To Pioneer Parade

Mrs. Mary Hay who has been suffering with a broken hip at the Sacred Heart Hospital returned Sunday and is staying at the Musty home. Mrs. Hay had planned all year on seeing the pioneer parade and when she fell and broke her hip she regretted very much being unable to see the parade.

When Mr. John Perl heard of this he lived up to their motto, "The Golden Rule" and informed Mrs. Hay if the Doctor would give his consent she could ride in the ambulance and see the parade. The doctor gave his consent and Mrs. Hay was delighted but after her ride home Sunday she has decided it was too painful to be repeated. Her many friends will be pleased to know that she is doing as well as possible considering the break.

QUEEN MOTHER RECEIVES CROWN WITH MUCH POMP

Before an audience of nearly two thousand people Anne Whiteaker, queen mother of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee, Monday evening rode to the place of her coronation in an old-time stage coach, whose four prancing horses were skillfully handled by Fred Tice, who drove like stables through Southern Oregon before the coming of the railroad.

Sweeping across the lighted arena before the throne, Tice brought the old stage to a stop at one side to allow the beautifully gowned queen to descend. She was met at the steps of the throne by Professor Irving E. Vining and E. C. "Jerry" Jerome, general chairman of the Jubilee who escorted her up the steps of the throne. There Professor Vining briefly addressed her as follows: "Anne Whiteaker, daughter of the first governor of our beloved state, on this, the 75th anniversary of the admission of our state to the union, with authority vested in me by the jubilee committee, it is my duty and privilege to crown thee Queen Mother of Oregon."

The crown, sparkling in the lights of the stage, was lifted from a pillow carried by little Miss Nancy Swem, and carefully placed on the head of the queen by Professor Vining and with the words: "Hail to the queen," the vast crowd rose to its feet amid loud cheering.

The queen then stepped to the microphone and addressed her subjects as follows:

"I believe this evening marks one of the happiest events of my life. Your choosing me to be honored as the queen mother of this diamond jubilee anniversary of Oregon into statehood is most pleasing and gratifying to me.

"Proud indeed am I to feel that 75 years ago my father, together with his official co-workers, laid the (Continued on Page Three)

Miss Bessie Milton Weds Klamath Man

In a quiet, homey service at the home of the bride's parents in Central Point, Oregon on Saturday morning, June second, 1934 at the hour of 7:30, Miss Bessie Milton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Milton became the bride of Mr. Fred Wilber Hale of Klamath County, Oregon.

The bride was gowned in a beautiful white crepe, which enhanced the attractiveness of this charming young lady. A bounteous and delightfully served breakfast was enjoyed by the small company present and the happy couple left for their future home thirty miles north of Alturas, California.

Bessie will be greatly missed by her host of friends here but she will have the sincere wishes of all for a happy journey thru life. Will Foley was drill master of the subordinate team of Central Point and Alber Straub was drill master of the subordinate team of Sams Valley. Marian Blackford was drill master of the juvenile team. ### JUBILEE OPENS WITH BIG UNION CHURCH SERVICE

Dedicated to Oregon Mothers, past and present a union service of all the churches of Southern Oregon was held at the Fair grounds Sunday night with over two thousand present.

A chorus choir of 150 voices led by Mrs. Elsie Carlton Strang and assisted by the Elks Band, conducted by F. Wilson Wait, furnished music for the occasion.

The setting for the meeting was very impressive with a background of special scenery erected for the pageant and with the beautiful hills of Southern Oregon still further in the background. A specially prepared pulpit occupied the center with seats for the choir on either side. The loud speaker system of the Standard Oil company was used and brought the voices of the speakers very distinctly to the entire audience.

Rev. William J. Howell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Medford, presided at the services, which opened with the singing of America by the audience and choir. The invocation was given by Rev. N. D. Wood of the M. E. Church, South, followed by scripture reading by Capt. R. K. Durham of the Salvation Army.

Rev. D. J. Ferguson of Astoria was introduced by Rev. Hall of Ashland. Dr. Ferguson spoke of the pioneer mothers of Oregon and the influence of their lives on the history of the state.

He spoke of the coming of the first missionaries and named a large number of pioneer women who played prominent parts in the early days of the state.

In closing, Dr. Ferguson said: "May God Almighty perpetuate their memory, handwork and generations forever. To Oregon mothers, all hail, forever and ever, Amen."
