Attention!

To all Townsdenites of Central Point I send greeting.
I have organized a Townsend club in Jacksonville, Oregon.
Are you going to let J'ville out do Central Point?
Do you want, and are you ready for an independent Townsend club of your own?
Are you ready to forfeit your membership in the Medford club and stand on your own? Are you going to let Jacksonville get the jump on you?
Central Point is worthy of and should have their own O. A. R. P. Club.
Think it over—talk it over, get together and put it over.
I am anxious to give Central Point another chance to have an independent club of their own.
Let's organize.

Wherein a Publisher Tells Legislators Just What the Newspapers Do for Them

J. A. Owens, publisher of the Provo (Utah) Herald, conducts a little column carrying the heading, "Bill the Barber," in which he discusses from time to time, pertinent topics of interest to the publisher, more or less in the style of barber shop conversation. In a recent issue he used this column to address an open letter to the state legislature calling attention to what the newspaper does for the individual, and because that open letter points out so well the value of the newspaper to the individual, it is reproduced herewith in full:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the legislature: Much has been said by the newspapers about the legislature and some things have been said by the legislators about the newspapers.

Some of you have been kind enough to point out the value of the newspapers to the communities where they are published. Some of you have unkindly tried to curtail the revenue, and incidentally the value, of the newspapers under the camouflage of economy. To day I want to tell you briefly what the newspapers have done for you personally.

When you were born your proud father swaggered with unrestricted pride and with exaggerated stride to the newspaper and had it proclaimed to all and sundry that unto him a child was born. The humble editor, to save time, agreed with the unbiased statement of your father that of all the blessed events of history this was indeed the most blessed, and published the news to an eager world without recompense and without price. Here, without any effort on your part, you made the front page, and was your face red! It was your first taste of free publicity and you have had an unsatisfied craving for more of it ever since.

When you graduated from the public schools, and again from high school, and finally from college, if any, the newspaper was each time honored with the privilege of proclaiming to all the country round, and again without compensation each successive step you made toward greatness.

When, by while and guile, the sweetest girl in all the world led you to implore her to grant to you the privilege of paying for her keep for the balance of her life, with sundry relatives as a side expense, in exchange for which she would gladly be the lesser light in your special sphere of existence, the newspaper, again without fee, proclaimed to rival swains that it was "hands off" from here on and no trespassing allowed.

Not satisfied with that, your newspaper announced the securing of the marriage license, and described in words that linger with you yet in that treasured scrapbook in the old cedar chest, the grandeur of the wedding, the beauty of the bride and the gorgeousness of the wedding dress. Nor did the editor receive as recompense even the doubtful reward of the privilege of kissing the bride.

In the event the marriage was a disappointment and the judge pronounced the solemn words that ended that phase of your experience, the newspaper proclaimed to a waiting populace the welcome news that you were again in circulation.

When political ambition's bug had sunk its deadly fangs in your receptive soul you kindly permitted the newspaper, without pay, to tell the world that you were willing to yield to the demands of your friends and sacrifice yourself for your beloved public that the right of the people might be preserved, providing the salary justified the sacrifice.

The paper ran your picture when you were elected, and paid homage to the local boy who had made good. They printed your speeches, good or bad, and suffered the consequences, for their lack of judgment as to what constituted news.

And finally, when you pass on to that reward which is only a guess at best, the newspaper does its final duty to you and yours with an obituary that would surprise you were you able to read it for yourself. All of this service from the cradle to the grave has been yours without price, freely given and freely taken.

I call this to your attention only that you may know that you have never been the "forgotten man." What the newspaper has done for you, it has done for millions of others—all without recompense. If you believe in the scriptures, which I am sure you do, I call to your attention that little passage which says: "The laborer is worthy of his hire."

In the future when you are tempted to cut the revenue of the newspapers, remember my words to you and say to temptation: "Get ye behind me, Satan."

Seriously, there is nothing of public service from a drive for the Boy Scouts, the Red Cross, or whatnot to the raising of funds to build a courthouse to house successful office seekers, that the newspaper does not give freely of its valuable space without hope of material reward, all in the interest of the public good.

I thank you. BILL.
