A Firestone Battery Starts in Any Weather FIRESTONE BATTERIES just like the one we sell are used in all parts of the world. The manufacturer of FIRESTONE BATTERIES knows that car owners in Norway must have "cold weather performance" in the FIRESTONE BATTERIES they buy. Also, that car owners in the Argentine want their FIRESTONE BATTERIES suited for torrid temperatures. In the United States a wide range of temperatures is experienced. That is why it pays to "REPLACE WITH A FIRESTONE" . . . the battery that has proven successful in all climates . . . the battery that starts in any weather. Associated Service Station L. C. Grimes
