HERE AND THERE

In looking through a Penn. newspaper a local party found it to be much like the Oregon papers—Auto wreck stories on front page, etc. One item on the back page held her interest as it was an ad for Oregon Bartlett's at 2 lbs. for 17 cents.

The Potato Crop in Klamath county is reported to be the largest in its history. It is estimated at 4,692,000 bushels. Last year it was 2,520,000 bushels after fifteen carloads had been lost by frost. Hay and grain crops are good. Several hundred carloads of cattle from the drought areas were shipped in during August and pastured on the green fields of the Klamath basin.

In Texas they use geese to weed their cotton fields of undesirable grasses and weeds. It is estimated that 25,000 geese are being used for this purpose in Van Zandt County.
