Timothy C. Duggan Services Held Today

Funeral services for Timothy Charles Duggan, 74, will be conducted from the Sacred Heart Catholic church this morning at 9 a.m. with the Rev. Father F. W. Black officiating. Interment will be in Jacksonville cemetery.

Mr. Duggan was born in Grassvalley, Calif., March 28, 1867. He moved to the Eagle Point district with his parents when he was 4 years of age.

He was united in marriage to Miss Mary Sidley at Ashland in November, 1903, and six children were born to this union, four daughters, Mildred Helen and Margaret Duggan, all at home, and Mrs. Willard Whitman of Central Point, two sons, Joseph of Talent, Ore., and Richard Duggan at home are left to mourn his passing.

Nicholson to Head G.A.A. Organization

The G. A. A. for the school year of 1941-42 will be headed by Elizabeth Nicholson, who served as vice-president this past year. She was opposed by Ena Joyce Milhoan.

Mildred Clark, known to her friends as Midgie, who won the position of vice-president, ran against Norrene Bohnert and Zoe Hill.

Jean Brennessholtz was unanimously elected secretary-treasurer with no running mate.

Pointer Pleases Students, Friends

The 1941 Pointer, senior annual which contains all of the activities of the school in pictorial form is off the press and has been distributed to the subscribers.

"The Pointer" edited by Shirley Kincaid with the assistance of associate editors Jeannette Metternich and Dale Seymour, was started shortly before the senior play and tag week were sponsored, at which time students could subscribe to the annual at specially reduced prices. Quite a number of students expressed their interest by subscribing to the Pointer then.

This edition of the annual, with its attractive, yet simple, cover design featuring the new gym, has a very distinctive appearance. This annual was dedicated to Sherwood Zimmerman.

As usual there are two pages of snaps covering all student activities and many candid shots. The page this year is especially distinctive because of the clever way in which the letters C. P. have been made in blank space on the page. Snaps were in charge of Iris Hill and Harvey Taylor. Leona Rector was in charge of all photography, which was taken care of by Ray Anders.

Bernice White, business manager and her able assistant, Dick Wyatt, were aided by the capable advertising staff, Verna May Strayer, Marjorie Pierce, and Bob Burns, and by the sales staff consisting of Hal Jewett and Jeannette Metternich.

Incidentals were in charge of Milton Garrett and Ward Blaine, while Juanita Elliott had charge of the feature. Cartoons were drawn by Frank Richardson, sophomore.

Wayne Vincent, Aileen Berry, and Bob Vincent carefully and capably handled sports, and dramatics were in charge of Arthur Miller.

Typing was handled by Marcia Rodgers and Jane Mann.

The annual staff was advised by Mr. Harrison and Mrs. Fleischer. The "Pointer" was printed by Kay Lithographers in Medford.

Class Day Program Presented by Seniors

The class day program was presented to the student body Friday, May 23. This program was in charge of Bernice White, chairman.

The prophesy, read by Iris Hill, furnished many laughs for the audience. Verna May Strayer gave the class history tracing the seniors through their years in Central Point High School. Marjorie Pierce with the help of Verna May Strayer gave the class will. Miniature articles representing the actual articles will were given to the underclassmen to whom they were willed. The class statistics were given by Ben Metternich. Aileen Berry and Leona Rector gave jointly the horoscope.

After the conclusion of the class day exercises, the annuals were distributed by distribution agents, Hal Jewett and Jeannette Metternich.
