Juniors Honor Seniors With Annual Banquet

Honoring the Seniors, the annual Junior-Senior Banquet was held in Room 3 in the High School building, Friday, May 26.

Beginning the program Anna Dale in blue and white, the Senior class colors. The walls were also decorated like a typical classroom. The tables also carried out the school days theme, the centerpieces being red school houses. The tables were decorated with blue and white flowers and blue candlesticks. Individual nut cups were little school houses.

Coleman, the Junior class president, gave the welcome to the Seniors. Florence Blasing, Senior class president, spoke in response for the Seniors. A double duet, Shirley Brenner, Charlotte Parsons, Doris Sampley, and Anna Dale Coleman then sang "The Little Red School House."

The Junior's version of the Senior class prophecy was then read by Dan Sage. Following this twelve Juniors rose and each gave a toast to a Senior. Mr. Jewett then spoke to the guests. He had the crowd laughing at the stories about different members of both classes. The evening came to a close with everyone singing that real favorite, "School Days."

Six sophomore girls, Peggy Robison, Joan Shull, Maxine Zimmermaa, Jackie Palmer, Ruth Zelzur, and Jerry Fasel, acted as waitresses.

Seniors Go To Crescent City for Skip Week-end

(As told by the senior boys)

Early Friday morning (too early, in fact) a group of C.P.H.S. seniors raided the bus depot and demanded passage to Crescent City. After a short journey, we looked out the window and saw Kelly and Paul, ready to welcome us at our first destination, Grants Pass. They had to be different and stay in Grants Pass Thursday night.

Following a short layover, we shoved off for the coast. We entertained (?) all the passengers with questionable samples of our school yells and songs.

Arriving at Crescent City, we were cordially welcomed by a fat man with a big car and trailer, that wasn't quite big enough for all of us, but we made it O.K. Dumping our belongings upon our porch steps, we hastened to the beach.

We made an unofficial visit to the high school (it has two names but its the same place) and found ourselves right in the middle of a vaudeville rehearsal, which turned out to rather corny, in our estimation.

The evening was spent by some going to the show and some recuperating from the day's excitement at home. Sunday morning we rolled out at 7:30 and found the very delectable breakfast for the girls and us. It consisted of ham and eggs, bacon, flapjacks, syrup (light and brown), butter, sugar (swiped from Mrs. Marvin since we didn't have our rations books), cocoa and milk.

Following breakfast we persuaded the girls to wash the dishes and then kicked them all out. Then we administered first aid and liniment to sore spots. After swiping two dozen oranges from the girls we hid them in the oven. We forgot them during breakfast, so all day Sunday we ate warm oranges.

Then we packed our grips and started on the long journey home. Having arrived in Central Point, we limped, staggered, and crawled home, according to prevailing conditions and settle down to peace and quiet once more.

We were chaperoned by Miss Wilson, who insisted she was a blimp, and by Mrs. Marvin who kept us from fighting at least part of the time. So ended the exodus of the Senior Class.

Pointers Defeat G. Pass Nine in Last Game 6-5

In their last game of the season, the Central Point nine defeated the Grants Pass Cavemen 6 to 5 on the Pointers' diamond. The Cavemen had been undefeated this season until they met the Pointers. Paul Blumenstein, pitching for the Pointers, kept six hits very well scattered. Sage did the receiving for the winners. Miller started the game on the mound for the Cavemen with Sellar catching, but Smith took over in the fifth and Conover took the receiving spot. The Pointers collected only three hits off the Grants Pass hurlers, and most of the scoring was due to bases on balls and errors on the Cavemen fielders.
