COMMUNICATION

Editor, Grange News:

Some time ago the press carried a short article stating that China was flooded with $10,000 Federal Reserve notes. To most people that small item would carry no real importance but let us raise the Wall Street steel (steel) curtain and reveal a bit of astounding news.

About that time the Federal Reserve dollar was worth $5,000 Chinese dollars. Let me show you who could be, and without a doubt, what is being done in China with the large privately owned Federal Reserve notes. The banker owning these $10,000 notes can purchase $50 million worth of Chinese property and within a few hours or a few days after the purchase, that $10,000 Federal Reserve note will be back in the American branch bank in China, and that same $10,000 Federal Reserve note then can be used to purchase another $50 million worth of Chinese property, providing in due time the value of the Chinese dollar does not change.

So with the use of 5,000 $10,000 Federal Reserve notes, in a very short time these crafty bankers and their associates can become the sole owners of the major portion of the best property throughout all China, and their initial investment in this supposed transaction would be just $35 or seven $5 Federal Reserve notes, which in the last analysis cost these bankers less than one paltry nickel.

You can speak of the seven wonders of the world, but they all fade into insignificance when we see what some men can do with the dollar, when they have control of its creation and control of national credit.

The German people were robbed of their best property during their inflationary period a few years ago and it is no secret, the money monopoly group now have a firm stranglehold on this American Republic while industry and labor continue to fight each other to earn another dollar while Congress continues to sell billions of them to the bankers for 7/10 of a cent per bill. What fools we mortals be.

—J. V. Whitehair, Yakima.
