Ambitious Young Man Builds New House for Bride

Central Point has at least one young man who believes that no young couple should consider marriage until they have a home to move into. And one young lady who thinks a girl should finish her high school education before thinking of marriage. So when Richard Krupp, Jr. and Ann Bohnert became formally engaged about a year and a half ago, when Ann was in the middle of her junior year at the high school and Richard was helping his father in the service station, they decided to do something about it.

First having obtained a tract of land from his father Richard started to build them the home of their dreams. When asked when he first started the house he took the reporter to one corner of the foundation and, uncovering a portion of the original footing he showed where he had scratched in the fresh cement the date of the first pouring—January 22, 1948—Built by J. R. K., Jr., for A. B. Since that date Richard has spent every moment of his spare time working on the house. Practically everything about the house was done by his own hands, with the exception of such things as plastering, etc.

One of the first things he did was to have a telephone installed in a box on a post near the new house so he could be called if and when he should be needed at the service station. Of course Ann helped with the planning. She had to be consulted about such things as the arrangement of the rooms, the position and kind of built-ins, etc., but the work was all up to Richard, and it must be said he did a wonderful job.

When school was out this spring and Ann had received her coveted diploma, the new home was practically complete and furnished. So when she and Richard were married last week their "dream house" was ready for their occupancy when they returned from their honeymoon, even to food in the new refrigerator—and what a home that will be!

The new house is located on Taylor Road just west of the intersection of Haskell street a short distance back of the score board at the ball park. It has an entrance hall with coat closet, a large living room with large "picture" windows taking up most of one corner, dining room with kitchenette adjoining, a hall from which opens two bedrooms and a bath. Attached to the house on the west is a garage which may also be used as a play room, opening off the kitchen, with built-in wash room facilities at the end. An unusual feature of these rooms is the built-in sink and drainboard cupboard separating the kitchen from the dining room. This has a row of hollow glass blocks to be used as receptacles for flowers and plants and forming a background behind the sink. On the kitchen side of this low partition are drawers and cupboards, while the dining room side is finished in Philippine mahogany panelling.

One of the peculiar features of the house is the fact that it has no chimney. The entire building is heated with one of the new electric hot air furnaces with hot and cold air ducts in various parts of the house. It is lighted throughout with fluorescent lights. It has hardwood floors in all rooms.

A special feature of the furnishings is a baby grand piano once belonging to Richard's grandmother, who gave it to him and his sister when children. Another more modern feature is one of the new style sectional davenport, which Richard, by the way, says isn't so handy. On account of the fact that he stands six feet four inches in his stocking feet, he sometimes has trouble when he lies down on this davenport by having the sections slide apart, leaving him hanging by his head and heels.

So far Richard says he hasn't had time to think of a lawn or shrubbery, but when the place is complete this will be one of the show places of the city, not alone for its beauty or utility, but as a monument to show what can be done if a young couple have what it takes in ambition and stick-to-it-iveness. Most of the money required for the new house and furnishings represented the young man's life savings, with some help from the state veteran's loan department. Some of the kitchen furnishings were wedding presents. The new building represents a total cost of about $6,000, exclusive of the land. The young couple desire to thank all their friends who gave them any assistance in building and furnishing their new home.

Another Central Point couple who were married recently and who also are to be congratulated on preparing a new home prior to the wedding is Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Lull, both graduates of the Central Point high school. Mrs. Lull was the former Lois Katherine Pleyer of this city.

Mr. Lull bought a home in Talent and they furnished it with new and modern furnishings and equipment before the wedding and so had their "dream house" all ready for their return from the honeymoon.

Locals

Mr. Lewis Kilbourn, rural carrier, drove down to Los Angeles last week. He spent several days in Ventura and then drove to Santa Barbara after his mother, Mrs. Lanne Kilbourn, who has been spending about six months in Los Angeles, Elsinore and Santa Barbara. Mr. Kilbourn attended a beautiful wedding of Mrs. Kilbourn's cousin at Willshire Community church while in Los Angeles. He and his mother left Santa Barbara Wednesday morning and arrived in Central Point at 6 o'clock Thursday, night, June 23.

Bill Gregory is convalescing at his home on Crater Lake highway after a recent operation at the Sacred Heart hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Agajanian, son Roger, and twin sons Dennis and Danny from Los Angeles have been visiting Mrs. Agajanian's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Holden for the past week and will return home this week end.

Glen Smith of the Southern Oregon Sugar Pine company is in Los Angeles and will return after the Fourth.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Berkley Pinkham, Box 322, Central Point, June 25, 1949, a boy, Berkley Joe, 8½ pounds, Community hospital.

Ray Burns was taken to the Camp White hospital yesterday morning suffering from an attack of appendicitis. It was thought at first that it would be best to take him to Portland where he underwent a serious operation a year of two ago. But last night Mrs. Burns received a phone call from the hospital that they would have to operate there at once. Mrs. Burns and her sister, Mrs. Ruth Helfrich, went immediately to Camp White and the operation was performed about midnight. It is reported this morning that Mr. Burns is doing very well.

Mr. and Mrs. Radford Cummins and children, Charleen and Donnie, are going to Washington for a vacation trip, leaving Friday evening, to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Arthur, daughter Colleen and sons Morris and Jimmy, of the Alta Vista Orchard are leaving for Portland Saturday and will visit Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Benson and family over the three-day holiday. Mrs. Arthur and Mrs. Benson are sisters.

Warren Gutches, son of Mrs. Georgia Yocom, has been transferred from California to Seattle.

Don Faber, who is attending summer school at Corvallis, was one of the out of town guests at the wedding of Richard Krupp and Ann Bohnert.
