Harold Kilburn, who has been visiting relatives in this city for the past two weeks, is leaving for Guam, where he will be stationed for some time. His wife and small son, Gary, will remain here until he is located.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Shrier returned Monday evening from Brookings where they visited Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Snyder over the week end, and attended the Lily Festival held on the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn M. Shrier and sons of Sand Point Naval Base, Seattle, are home on a visit. They accompanied Glenn's parents to the coast for a few days fishing last week.

Warren Gutches, of the Bremerton Annex, arrived early Saturday morning to spend the week end with his mother, Mrs. Georgia Yocom, brother Lyle and other relatives. Warren says he enjoys the Marines very much—entirely different from being in boot camp. His visit was a complete surprise to his mother.

Mrs. Josephine Whaley fell on the sidewalk in front of the J. C. Penny store in Medford and broke her knee cap. She was taken to the community hospital. She will be taken to the Joe Foster home as soon as released. Quite a little concern was felt among the neighbors on account of her failure to return home that evening. She had told no one of her intention to stay any length of time when she left home.

Mr. Ray Burns, who was operated on last Wednesday at Camp White is recovering nicely and has returned home.

Mr. William Mack of San Francisco arrived Friday to join his wife who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Norna Hansoen, for the past week. They will return home in about a week.

Joe Krupp and wife and daughter, Beverly Wilson, spent the Fourth at their cabin at Lake of the Woods. Others in the party included Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Huston and two children.

Garden Club Hears Lecture on Iris

Central Point Garden Club met for pot luck picnic at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. B. R. Elliott, President Mrs. E. W. Jermark presiding. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite garden gadget.

Guest speaker was Mrs. R. T. Nichol of Medford, who spoke on horticulture of iris. Mrs. Nichol opened her talk by complimenting the club on winning a National award on the flower show of last year. The honor was awarded Mrs. Jermark at the National council of garden clubs in Portland.

The speaker informed her listeners that now is the time to divide iris and the new shoot is your next year's plant. The bearded iris needs little water, after starting its root growth, little fertilizer, plenty of sun, sweet soil and good drainage. Mrs. Nichol gave a review of her attendance at the National convention and her visit to some of our most noted iris gardens near Portland and Salem, where hybridizing is extensive by carried on.

Mrs. Jermark gave an account of her attendance at the National council and the state convention, exhibiting some very attractive memos and table favors representing different states and garden clubs. She related the account of a chrysanthemum grower who spent twelve years in developing forty choice plants, after producing one hundred thousand seedlings. She reported the "Seeds of Peace" organization had now sent overseas as many as 17½ tons of flower seeds, a value of forty thousand dollars.

Mrs. Francis Russell, another delegate to the State Garden club convention at Corvallis, spoke briefly on the tours, enjoyed by the gardeners where they viewed test gardens of orchids, roses, herbs, Natural History's bird exhibit, wild flower gardens, and the state museum.

Mrs. Russell also display interesting table favors collected from different clubs.

Ashland Preparing For Shakespeare Plays

Siskiyou mountain town entertained 20,000 visitors during its traditional Fourth of July celebration and is now preparing for the main event of the summer—the annual Oregon Shakespearean Festival. Folks who helped build floats and boarded up rodeo corrals are now repairing the outdoor Elizabethan stage and erecting sings of welcome to theater-goers expected here for the ninth annual drama program.

Ashland is the only community in the country which boasts an operating civic Elizabethan theater organization. While student actors from no less than 10 different states are rehearsing for the August 2 opening, the technical details of the program are being directed by a large corps of volunteer Ashland workers.

Marshall Woodell, dean of men at Southern Oregon college, is treasurer of the festival association and keeps close tab of expenditures for costumes and properties. The manager of one of the town's largest sawmills, John Cotton, is chairman of the building committee which this year is concentrating on construction of cement terraces for the audience seating area.

Attorney Harry Skerry, secretary of the association, is contacting celebrities for opening night festivities and answering hundreds of inquiries from play-goers. Properties and stage equipment is in charge of a committee headed by Otto Wilda, professor of art at Southern Oregon.

Ashland residents are justly proud of their Elizabethan theater, for it is the only authentic replica of the famous Globe stage of Shakespeare's day in use as a community activity. Located in the shell of the old Chautauqua building, the audience sits under the stars and watches the plays produced exactly as the Bard saw them in his day.

Special Elizabethan pagentry is being planned during the August 2 to 24 festival season in beautiful 100-acre Lithia park. Ceremonies will be held in the new $25,000 Butler Memorial band shell with ten color of period costumes accentuated by a backdrop of evergreens and snow-capped Mount Ashland.

Five plays will be produced in repertoire this season so that visitors may see the entire program in five evenings, or at the most, six. "Romeo and Juliet" will open the program, followed by the second of the historical sequence, "Richard II." A troupe of youngsters will assist in the presentation of the fanciful "Midsummer Night's Dream," and a revival of the successful showing of "Othello" will be seen. The program will be completed with "The Taming of the Shrew" which delighted audiences at the San Francisco World Fair in 1939.
