Your perfect servant

Aladdin never had it so good. Of course he could rub the mystic lamp and summon a jinni to build him a palace overnight, complete with fans and dancing girls, but the old spectre wasn't the most dependable sort. The little oriental shack had an unpleasant way of vanishing at the most awkward moments.

Today, the head of the house has it all over the Arabian Nights. His powerful servant electricity is wired into the home and is always dependable. Day or night, he can push a button and get instant service, from air conditioning to entertainment ... a way of life that Aladdin couldn't even have imagined.

COPCO brings you electricity...the perfect servant...dependable, convenient and inexpensive. And its amazing power promises an even better life in the future.
