J'ville Grade School Building Ready November 1

By Mrs. Carl Hoskins

JACKSONVILLE — Construction of the new grade school in Jacksonville will be finished shortly after November 1, according to Clyde Sutherland, superintendent. The new structure, located about two blocks from the old school, will house the first four grades with about 132 students. Future additions will allow other grades to be moved when completed. The exterior painting has been completed and the first two coats applied on the interior. Asphalt tile will be laid on the concrete floor shortly.

W. R. L. Nostrand, route 2, Jacksonville, has filed the assumed business name of Applegate Farm in the county clerk's office.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hudson, Alhambra, Calif., were guests last week of friends in Jacksonville and Medford. Mrs. Hudson is the former Miss Adarel Elmer of Jacksonville. Last Wednesday evening they were entertained at a dinner at Mon Desir Dining Inn. Attending that event were Judge and Mrs. H. K. Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wendt, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Niedermeyer, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wells, Mrs. Lulu Saulsberry, the Misses Claire, Martha and Mary Hanley, and the honored guests. Later they were also entertained at the homes of the Misses Hanley, and Lulu Saulsberry and were honored at a meeting of Adarel chapter, OES. They left at the end of the week for an extended trip to Portland, Seattle and cities in Canada.

Preceding their visit by a few days, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hudson, Temple City, Calif., visited in both Jacksonville and Medford. Hudson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hudson and is a member of the Los Angeles Times Staff.

Chinchilla Ranchers Hold Session Sunday

The quarterly meeting of the Southern Oregon Chinchilla Ranchers club was held Sunday, October 17, in Medford with about 30 ranchers, several from this area, attending.

Membership includes ranchers from southern Oregon and northern California. The club is a branch of National Chinchilla Breeders of America.

Several animals were brought to this meeting and members divided into groups to judge and criticize. In the near future, the group will meet to see a color film on pelting and to see an actual demonstration of the pelting method.

J R. Chenault, Orchard Home Drive, is president of the local group. Meetings are held quarterly. Anyone interested in chinchillas is invited to attend.

Interstate Compact Aids Local Student

Richard L. Parsley, Central Point, is one of ten Oregon students studying in the professional school of another state and supported in party by tuition payments from the State of Oregon, according to Chancellor Charles D. Byrne of the Oregon System of High Education.

Parsley, and the other nine Oregon students, are enrolled in the college of veterinary medicine of Colorado A&M.

The purpose of the Western Interstate Compact for Higher Education is to make it possible for states which do not have all the professional schools to enroll their students in states which have such schools.

"7" WON'T WORK
here's why
★ Interferes with Oregon's program to conserve and maintain the salmon resource.
★ Would idle more than 1800 fishermen and $11,680,000 equipment.
★ Closes every Oregon coastal port south of Astoria to commercial salmon fishermen.
★ Grabs for a few a resource that belongs to all the people of Oregon.
