Frank Pixley in Oregon.

Frank M. Pixley, editor of the San Francisco "Argonaut," lately visited this state, and gives to the world his views through the columns of that excellent journal. He says:

We had no idea, till we saw it, that the Columbia river was the grandest and most picturesque of all the great rivers of the world; that it had scenery upon its banks in comparison with which the Hudson and Rhine sink into insignificance; that it and its tributaries penetrated a land which for food producing capacity has no equal on all God's five broad continents. Oregon is a wonderful state, and tried by what seems to us to be the true test of a land's real wealth and ultimate greatness, viz: its powers to produce food—it has no superior in the world. * * *

Oregon is a better state than California. It has a better and more promising future, and unless the city of San Francisco looks to itself, there will spring up somewhere upon Puget Sound, a great commercial emporium that shall challenge with us the commercial supremacy of the coast. Oregon will, in no distant time, out number us in population. Washington Territory is an empire in and of itself, and both state and territory have as yet millions of unappropriated lands. There is now a large immigration pouring into the country, and while Jim McShafter, Col. Beale, Lux & Miller, Throckmorton and other land cormorants are holding their broad acres beyond the reach of purchasers at $40 per acre, better land and nearer to market can be bought for $5, or appropriated for nothing, or secured at government price. Oregon has escaped the greedy, black, speculative spider that stretches his web over the soil to steal and hold prisoner the industrious fool who comes to plow. This is telling now in favor of our sister state. It is getting ten immigrants to our one. It is taking industrious and working men away from California.

A Gigantic Transportation Scheme.

The Portland "Bee" gives the following account of the purpose of the company which has purchased the property and rights of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company:

The intentions of Mr. Villard and the capitalists who are interested with him, are set forth in the articles of incorporation of the Oregon Railway and Transportation Company, that has been published already. These gentlemen cover with their articles all the railway systems we now have or may need to have constructed, not only for Oregon but for the territories that adjoin us. They propose to own steamboat lines on all the rivers of the Pacific northwest, and steamships to navigate all the seas north of San Francisco. This is a great scheme for any corporation to handle, and one that will require many millions of bona fide capital, and there is no reason to doubt that men are behind it who have the means to do it.

We hear the remark made that this, like many other schemes, is likely to end in talk, but we have no right to think so. These gentlemen seem to have negotiated for the purchase of the expensive business and transportation lines of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, and that is no small beginning. It is certainly a field that might invite capital, and is too inviting to be long unoccupied. Money alone builds roads and steamers, and if we want them we must welcome capital to build them. The safeguard of this vast region lies in the fact that the rivers, when rendered free for navigation, are open alike to all. Capital that does not recognize the rights of labor is unwise. The people are so nearly supreme that they need not fear any combination.

Yesterday the organization of the new corporation was perfected, the stock having been fully subscribed, by the election of H. Villard, president; J. N. Dolph, vice president; G. H. Andrews, secretary. The first enterprise attempted will probably be the construction of the railroad already talked of to connect the Columbia river, near Umatilla, with the Utah Northern road, which is a narrow-gauge.

The Rich Strike at Bodie.

The Bodie mines are developing unexpected richness. The Standard, published there, speaks of the late strike as follows:

The development on is the 433 foot level, and has been uncovered 200 feet in length and 300 feet vertically. The ledge is of average thickness, two feet filling, being a peculiar mixture of metallic gold, stone and native silver and silver in sulpherets. A portion of the ledge resembles decomposed granite carrying loose gold. Two seams traceable throughout the ledge about ten inches thick of shale, bearing coarse gold. The management will mix the rich with a lower grade of ore to prolong the production while prospecting the lower levels, confining dividends to $100,000 per month. The mill has commenced crushing. Considerable ore has already been hoisted. The strike has created great excitement. Heavier machinery is being placed in many of the mines.

D. P. Thompson is the Republican candidate for Mayor of Portland, and Judge Strong has been nominated by the Democrats. Thompson is popular and the Democratic candidate is "Strong" so we may look for a lively contest.

The Panama Ship Canal.

The project of cutting a ship canal across the isthmus of Panama, is one in which the commercial interests of the civilized world are involved, and it is properly in the control of an international association. Though it has been some years since the importance and feasability of the scheme was recognized, and the first steps taken toward an organization to carry it out, it is now, for the first time, assuming a practical form, with a probability of being commenced at no distant day. A London dispatch of the 14th, says:

In the final sitting of the international congress to-day, De Lesseps said in order to prove the reality of interest taken in the construction of the Panama ship canal, and to prevent undue advantage being taken by possible furnishers of capital, it had been considered desirable to call for the first subscription of two million francs in shares of five thousand francs each, and although the decision had only been taken three days ago, he had just received from his son in Paris information that the whole sum had been subscribed, although not a single advertisement had been published. It would now be possible for him, he said, to obtain concession and commence the undertaking.

More Competition in Steamboat Lines.

Late dispatches announce the creation of a new steamboat company, to operate in the San Francisco and Portland trade. It is said that articles of incorporation will be filed in a few days, of a steamship company with $6,000,000 capital, to run a line of steamers between San Francisco, Astoria and Portland, and also a line to San Diego and other southern ports. The steamers Rio Grande and Saratoga are reported as having been purchased by agents of stockholders at present in New York, and they will be immediately sent out to run in this line. Four smaller steamers will be built to run on the southern route. The Rio Grande is a steamer of 2,536 tons register. The Saratoga is 2,466. The former is at present employed in the New York and Galveston trade, and the latter between New York and Havana.

Immigration.

The immigration to the West was never greater than at the present. A very large proportion of the foreign immigrants that arrive in the country, pass to the region west of the Missouri, and there is much moving from the older settled states to the virgin fields of the Territories. In Dakota a Register of the land office reports, that he received applications for 122,000 acres in one week. During the same week a Registrar in the land office of Minnesota, received applications for 500,000 acres. Reports are published from ninety-six western land offices, all of which represent the demand for public lands as greater than it ever was at any time before.

Keep Sober.

There has been a great many accidents to fishing boats and fishermen reported on the Columbia lately, many of them resulting in the death of one or more persons. A correspondent of the Oregonian makes the following suggestions as to the cause of these accidents, and the proper remedy:

It is sadly to be feared that many of these men take whisky out with them, and drink at least enough to make them very drowsy if not drunk. It would be a good plan for owners of boats to employ an inspector. Sober men would not object to it, and those who did object should be deemed guilty, and not worthy to be trusted with a valuable boat and net.

Strange Accident.

An Astorian dispatch of the 8th inst says, that the bodies of John Burke and his daughter Emma were brought to that place and taken in charge by the Hibernian Society. Both were found dead on Burke's farm on Clatsop plains, at 3 P. M. yesterday, evidently killed by the falling of a tree, as both were dreadfully mangled. No one saw the accident. Burke's ax was at the foot of the tree, and as both were found near the top, it is supposed he saw the girl's danger and ran to save her, and so perished with her. Burke served 17 years in the U. S. Army, and was honorably discharged ten years ago at Fort Stevens, near which his farm is situated.

Walking Contest.

In July next, two six days contests, one for female and the other for male contestants, will take place in San Francisco. Each six will contest for a gold, diamond and silver belt, and $1,000, which will constitute the first prize, $750 the second, $500 the third, and $250 the fourth. The first contest for men will take place on the 10th of July, and the second for women, on the 17th of the same month. The rule will be "go as you please," the one making the greatest number of miles in the six days to receive the first prize.

A Paradise, Nevada, paper says a few days ago, the north and northwest of this valley, millions of crickets were coming in to destroy and devour what grain and grass our farmers expected to harvest this dry season. To stand them off nearly all the hogs in the valley have been got together and are being herded to meet them. The hogs are getting the best of the fight, and are fattening in their onward march.

The colored people of Portland have held a meeting in honor of the memory of the noted friend of their race, Wm. Lloyd Garrison. Long years ago a reward of $5,000 was offered at Atlanta Georgia for Garrison's head, but since his death, in the same city they thank God that he was made the "Moses" to deliver the black men from bondage. How things have changed!

The Reward of Energy and Perseverance

The following sketch of a Wisconsin pioneer female lawyer, is from the New York Times:

Lavina Goodsel, who has attracted a good deal of attention in Wisconsin, by drawing up a bill to the state legislature providing that no person should be refused admittance to the bar on account of sex, and securing its passage, seems to be possessed of unusual energy and of decided talent for law. Some time ago she was employed here on a fashion journal, but conceiving that she could do something better, she resigned her position and went to Janesville, where her aged parents resided and needed her assistance. Arrived there she determined she would not settle down to washing dishes and making gowns, as most women do. She had long had a fancy for law, and had convinced herself that she possessed a business head. Therefore, she began to study law, and kept at it for three years, applied for admission to the Circuit court, passed a brilliant examination and was admitted. She gained her first cases, and one of them having been carried to the Supreme Court, her right to plead there was denied on account of her sex. She reviewed the Supreme Judges decision in a legal journal and got the better of him in argument, and then went to work upon the legislature, with the result already known. Some of the ablest lawyers in the state admire her acumen and learning, and declare her to be a born barrister. She is represented as entirely feminine, notwithstanding her profession, and one of the best of women in all the duties of life.

Coal Near Astoria.

The Astorian discourses as follows, on the subject of coal generally, and the newly discovered Astoria coal in particular:

Prior to the opening of the Mount Diablo coal mines, it is said Mr. Cornwall consulted one of the most prominent geologists of California in regard to the deposit. He was told most emphatically that there was no coal there. But whether it was or was not coal, Mr. Cornwall determined to mine it as long as it would pay, and thus a mine was then opened which has continued to be the best paying mine on the Pacific coast.

The geologist after all was right, in one sense. There have not yet been found any true coal measures on the California, Oregon or Washington coast, such as they have in England and Pennsylvania. Yet an abundance of lignite has been found here, which sells as well as the imported coal, and for some purposes answers better.

The coals of the Nehalem, which will be tapped by the Astoria and Winnemucca railroad, we are assured are much better than any other coals of this period yet discovered on this coast. They will be better for steam than either Seattle, Puyallup or Coos Bay, and better than either also for household purposes. They contain very little sulpher and will not clinker in the furnace.

Astoria can well afford to give a good subsidy to any railroad company that will bring us those coals, but she cannot hope to get it in the next decade, without helping the Astoria and Winnemucca railroad to bring them along.

General News.

Astoria has ordered a new steam fire engine.

Many emigrants from California are arriving in Washington territory.

The seventh annual re-union of the Oregon Pioneer Association, was held at the fair grounds at Salem Tuesday and Wednesday June 17th and 18th. There was a grand parade, speaking and ball.

Intelligence from Santiago de Chili, capital of the republic, dated the 7th of June, says that Bolivia has authorized privateers sailing under her flag to seize Chilian merchandise, even in neutral ships.

The entire faculty of Willamette University except Prof. Collier have resigned. The reason is said to be the strict sectarian rule which the managers desire to extend over the institution.

A new steamer called the Western Slope has commenced navigation to the boundary line on the Stickeen river. A town will be built at the head of navigation, and a port of entry proclaimed by Canada.

A Lady in Yreka who intended to plant some castor beans, found they tasted good, and eat two or three, from the effect of which she had a narrow escape from death, as three of them are considered dangerous.

A Paris dispatch gives currency to the rumor that Gen. Garibaldi is dead; but Menotti Garibaldi, at Rome, telegraphs contradiction to the report, and says his father has completely recovered from his recent indisposition.
