BENJAMIN RAPHAEL—A new era of civic life, City Hall of Robins was given a new look recently when a search was made for the remains of Madame Raphaels, who is now buried in the city. The remains were found and are now in the care of the undertaker, the deceased, she had been buried in a plain coffin with no repairs done to it since it was last opened.

The new cornerstone for City Hall was laid yesterday morning, at the head of the main street, by the mayor and councilmen. The cornerstone is a small box containing a list of the names of the citizens of the city, and is to be kept in the cellar of the new building until it is completed.

Meanwhile, the city council has made several changes in the city ordinances, the most important of which is the prohibition of horse-drawn vehicles on the streets on Sunday.

A new law has been passed in the state of Wisconsin, prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday. It is expected that this will have a beneficial effect on the morals of the city.

The courthouse has been completed and the new judges have taken their places. The building is of brick and is located on the west side of the square. The cost of the building is $25,000.

A new bridge has been constructed over the river, and it is expected to be completed by the end of the month. The cost of the bridge is $10,000.

The new public library has been opened to the public. It is located on the corner of the square and is a large, handsomely constructed building. The stock of books is small but growing.

A new theater has been opened in the city, and it is expected to be a great success. It is located on the southeast corner of the square and is four stories high.

A new school has been opened, and it is expected to be a great success. It is located on the north side of the square and is two stories high.

A new hospital has been built, and it is expected to be a great success. It is located on the south side of the square and is four stories high.

A new cemetery has been constructed, and it is expected to be a great success. It is located on the west side of the city and is two acres in size.
