ITALIAN GIRLS—The girls of Italy do many things our young ladies would not think of doing, and they leave learned certain accomplishments which only the poorest American fair ones pass by. The Italian bride makes her own outfit, and, as the tresseau consists of six dozen of everything, being intended to last twenty-five years, and all must be embroidered and frilled, the task is not an easy one. But they take their time to it, occupying two years in getting it in shape, and all the while the work goes on the lovers are courting. The husband gives the dresses, shawls, everything, in fact, but the underclothing. Italian girls do not learn to sing, draw, and play the piano. These are left to people who earn their living by them. But they are taught to sew, cook and iron.—Farney's Progress.

A HUNTER with a dog and gun was roving over the farm of Mary Jane Pratt, of Iroquois county, Ill., and she ordered him off the premises. "Oh, you ain't in any danger; I ain't hunting for old maids," was his reply. Returning to the house, she brought out a gun and blazed away, killing the hunter's dog. He threw up his hands and yelled, "Do you mean to murder me?" "Oh, you ain't in any danger, I ain't hunting for fools," she replied, but she brought the gun again to her shoulder. Her husband appeared and prevented further bloodshed.

GEN. WASHINGTON is said to have stopped his horse, as he was once riding along a country road, to administer this rebuke to a profane ploughman: "My friend, I am older than you have had many times been placed in positions of difficulty and danger, and have had many things to perplex and annoy me, but I have always found that it did no good to get angry; and that neither broken ploughs nor anything else can be mended or made better by the use of profane language."

A NASHVILLE (Tenn.) letter quotes an ex-confederate officer as saying of General Grant that he was not only the greatest general of the age, but has the most common sense, and quoting Grant's remark to Lee at the time of the surrender, "that the boys should keep their horses, as they would need them to do their spring plowing," showing that he had a heart in him big enough to take in the whole country.

The Poultry Yard says:—"To utilize the feathers of ducks, chickens and turkeys, generally thrown aside refuse, trim the plum from the stump, enclose them in a tight bag, rub the whole as if washing clothes, and you will secure a perfectly uniform and light down, excellent for quilting covers and not a few other purposes."

An exchange says: The Anti-Tilden organs are making a savage fight against Uncle Sammy, and declare that his nomination would be defeat. And Tilden declares that any body else's nomination would be defeat. They are both right.

An exchange says: In 1860, Wm. Hume was murdered in Mono county by his partner, who concealed Hume's head to prevent identification. The head has lately been found, and it is said to be petrified, so that the features are well preserved.

GOVERNOR FENNER, absenting himself from church on fast day, he was told by Dr. Wayland that he did not obey his own proclamation. "Yes I do," he replied, "I tell the people to meet at their usual places of worship. Mine is at home."

A SPLENDID residence in Lima, has by unanimous vote of the Peruvian Chamber of Deputies, been made over to the widow and children of the late Admiral Grau who commanded the Huascar in the battle of Oct. 8th.

THE steamship Great Eastern is fitted up, with new boilers and machinery, at a cost of $100,000 to carry cattle between London and Texas. She is capable of holding 2000 head of cattle, and 39,000 head of sheep.
