Mrs. Astor's Misadventure

A Washington correspondent says, Mrs. Astor, on reaching her hotel last night, found that the room had been given to someone else, and that the Astor family occupied the house from the house down to the basement.

The hotel in question was the Astor Hotel, on the corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-second Street, and the Astor family occupied the entire building.

The Astor family is said to have been taken aback by the news, and were somewhat troubled by the situation.

The hotel was said to have been booked in advance, and the Astor family had been given a written confirmation of the reservation.

The Astor family was said to be very disappointed by the situation, and were considering their legal options.
