IN mentioning Geo. Barrett in our last issue as being charged with stealing money from a saloon, we were in error and did the young man an injustice.

Coos Bay at a Discount.

The Crescent City Courier has received Mr. Siglin's recent effusions, and draws the following conclusions: "Coos Bay must be a nice place to emigrate to. If we are to judge the condition of things from the showing made by the newspapers of that section, it is not likely that those in search of homes will be attracted very strongly in that direction.

Then follows an extract from the News in which it is stated that the laborer is "not permitted to handle his own wages." "No money is put in circulation." "Should a laborer demand coin, he would soon find himself discharged and a Chinaman in his place," and other statements of a similar character.

It would seem that he has made a mistake and estimated the voter of Coos county as an ignorant rabble who can be imposed upon by any kind of sham issues. In this he does them injustice; the laboring men in this county are intelligent and they will not be caught by anything that does not bear the brand of truth.

Joint Representative.

Mr. Solomon Fitzhugh, who was nominated by the Democrats of Curry county for Joint Representative from Coos and Curry declined to be a candidate, and the Central Committee filled the vacancy by nominating Dr. F. O. Von der Green.

Mr. Von der Green is a good citizen, and though formerly a Catholic Priest, has been for some years past engaged in the practice of medicine in Curry county. There are a number of families who depend on him for medical treatment and for this and other reasons, his opponent Mr. Scott, will be called to fill the office.

THE schooner Premier sailed on Tuesday with a full cargo of coal and lumber, and some passengers.

ROBT. LOWE, who has been absent from the county for some time past in search of better health, returned last Tuesday.

SEVERAL of the crabs last made are only twenty feet in width, that width being thought sufficient on account of the favorable condition of the bottom.

A KANSAS paper says: On Thursday last, two farm houses were so completely swept away by a Kansas zephyr that in an hour's search not a fragment of them was discovered.

Reply to the "Big Sea Lion."

UCA CREEK, April 20th 1880. Eds. COAST MAIL.—I much regret to ask space in your widely circulated paper to answer a communication which appeared in the Coos Bay News of April 14th, signed "J. H."

In answer to said communication, I will simply refer him and all others interested in my official acts while in San Francisco to the article copied from the S. F. Alta in the COAST MAIL during last October.

Now, as to my official acts while in Curry county, they are a matter of record and I cheerfully refer one and all to said records for proof as to my acts as an officer.

This mass of corruption calls me the "Enchra Creek Bull, and tough at that." If I accept the title, I claim to be classed among thorough bred, and not among "scrubs" of the grade of the big Sea Lion.

I would like to ask this overgrown and infamous falsifier if he has any recollection of what took place when a certain young woman of Curry county was arrested for the murder of her infant child. I would ask the shapeless brute if he did not pretend to be a lawyer about that time. "Ah yes," and you went to the room where this poor woman was in custody so frequently that your visits attracted attention. You were watched, and at the last meeting you requested the key of the Deputy Sheriff, "so as to be sure the prisoner did not escape." (How thoughtful!) The door was locked; then this noble elephant seated himself beside his intended victim and began conversing about her case.

He laid his lecherous paws upon her person, and told her about her "beautiful form." About this time a keen sound was overhead; it was the muscular hand of the insulted woman coming in contact with the proboles of her persecutor. The next moment the unwieldy mountain of sin moved out of the door. Another evidence of the superiority of thorough-breds over scrubs. The deputy sheriff entered the room and found the unfortunate woman in tears, and upon inquiry received a similar version to the above.

This was the woman that he says I selected my brother-in-law to take charge of, and the statement is false. The party was in the custody of the sheriff, and deputies, who presented the bill for the same which was allowed. The cowardly puppy accuses me of slandering him; but such a thing cannot be done.

And now, let me say to the elephantine bulk a word of advice. Drink less gin; play less cards; pay your honest debts, and above all pay me the amount of a note I hold against you; move to some remote part of the world where you are not known, and go to work, seek salvation, lead the life of a Christian, and there is some hope for you.

My friend, farewell. Don't be offended at anything I have said, and when you have finished reading this don't kick the children out of the window, but be calm and reflect that it is for the public good. I have done with you for the present, and when we meet again let us congratulate each other that we "still live" and have plenty to eat, even if you don't pay a cent for it.

The "Chronicle."

A neat little book has just been received by us descriptive of the origin and progress of the San Francisco Chronicle. The first issue of the paper was in January 1845, its size was 9 by 14 inches, and it was edited, set up and printed by Chas. De Young, whose tragic death is mentioned in another column of this paper. The Chronicle succeeded beyond even the hopes of its proprietor and it now has an immense circulation. The De Young brothers have grown rich from the profits of the paper. Last fall the office was moved into a new building erected at a cost of $265,000. In the basement a beautiful sixty-horse power engine drives the presses, capable of printing and folding 66,000 papers an hour, or over 1,000 per minute.

What effect the death of Charles De Young will have on its future remains to be seen.

Death of W. B. Carter.

W. B. Carter, State Printer, and editor and proprietor of the "Corvallis Gazette," died at his home in Corvallis last Monday of neuralgia of the heart.

Mr. Carter came to Oregon in 1852; in 1864 purchased the "Corvallis Gazette" of which he has since been editor and proprietor. He was elected State Printer in 1878, and his death creates a vacancy in that office which will be filled at the coming election, his term being less than half expired. The deceased has been a leading advocate of the cause of temperance and a man who enjoyed the esteem and confidence of all his acquaintances including his bitterest political opponents. He leaves a wife and children, who with his many friends throughout the State will deeply feel the blow that has befallen them.

Chas. DeYoung Murdered.

A San Francisco dispatch of the 23d, brings the following particulars of the killing of DeYoung by Kalloch: "Just before 8 o'clock this evening Charles DeYoung entered the business office of the Chronicle on the ground floor on the corner of Bush and Kearney streets, and stood talking with some gentlemen, leaning against a counter. Directly the door opened and I. M. Kalloch entered, and drawing a pistol without, as far as can be learned, speaking a word, began firing at DeYoung. The latter ran through a gate in the counter to a desk inside, Kalloch firing at him as he ran. On reaching the desk DeYoung turned to face his opponent with a pistol in his hand, when Kalloch, leaning over the counter, fired again, the ball striking DeYoung in the mouth. Kalloch then started for the door. DeYoung raised his pistol as if to fire, but apparently his strength failed him for the pistol was not discharged, and sinking backward he fell on the floor. Bystanders ran to his assistance, but the ball had evidently pierced the base of the brain, and in a few moments he expired. As Kalloch ran out of the door he was seized by a citizen, and at the same moment an officer came up and took him into custody and conducted him to the city prison, where he was locked up.

News of the murder flew through the city like the wind, and in a few moments the streets in the vicinity of the Chronicle office were crowded with people eager to learn the particulars of the affair. Policemen were at once stationed at the doors of the office to keep out the inquisitive crowd, and only a few personal friends and reporters were admitted. In the rear of the office, M. H. DeYoung, brother of the deceased, reclined on a lounge surrounded by friends, evidently overcome by the tragedy, but with dry eyes and calm though strained voice. He was not present at the time of the shooting, having left home after dinner a few moments later than Charles. Deceased lay on his back on the floor, his face and breast dabbled in blood, his eyes closed and his face bearing the calm expression noticeable in the case of those dying from shot wounds. Only one wound was found on his person, although at least four shots were fired by Kalloch, two having pierced the glass doors and partition of the office. A third lodged in a window casing.

Young Kalloch on being arrested was, as the arresting officer remarked, the coolest man he ever saw. He still carried the smoking pistol in his hand, which he surrendered to the officer. On his way to the station-house he observed strict reticence, and on being shown to his cell, positively refused to have any intercourse whatever with representatives of the press.

In the absence of any explanations from the assassin of the causes of the act, it is generally understood to be attributable to a pamphlet which has been recently circulated about the city attacking Mayor Kalloch, the father of DeYoung's slayer. During his recent visit east it is believed that the deceased devoted a great deal of attention to gathering up matter in regard to the past life of Mayor Kalloch, for the presumed purpose of either using it at the expected trial of the deceased on a charge of shooting Kalloch last August, or of making it subservient journalistic purposes. The pamphlet above referred to was a document of some sixty pages, and recounted the details of the Kalloch scandal in Boston and other matter of a scandalous nature. The pamphlet was anonymous, but young Kalloch evidently considered that deceased was responsible for its publication, and acted accordingly.

Further inquiry shows that young Kalloch fired five shots at DeYoung, of which only one, the fourth, took effect. Otherwise the original report of the affair seems to be substantially correct. It is evident that the deed was deliberate. Officer Noyes states that a few moments before DeYoung entered the office he saw Kalloch walk along Kearny street and peering through a window of the Chronicle counting room. He was evidently waiting for the arrival of his victim.

At about quarter past 9 the coroner's assistants took the body from where it had been lying on the floor awaiting his examination and removed it to a wagon for conveyance to the morgue. The crowd in the mean time had increased to a thousand, blocking up both Kearney and Bush streets. It was composed of all classes, evidently including a great many of sand lot proclivities, and as the body was brought out, cheers, howls and ejaculations of exultation and derision arose. The coroner's wagon, escorted by a squad of police, drove at once to the morgue, followed by a hooting, whistling and yelling mob. The demonstration was confined merely to words, no action of a violent nature occurring. On arriving at the morgue a crowd gathered there, for a while continuing its demonstrations, but soon dispersed and the officers retired.

The conduct of the mob called forth many expressions of indignation and disgust from the more respectable bystanders, but there was nothing whatever tending towards any breach of peace. A great concourse still lingered in the vicinity of the Chronicle office discussing the affair, but an alarm of fire several blocks distant drew many of them away at about ten o'clock.

The pamphlet previously referred to proves upon examination to be simply a full report of the trial of I. S. Kalloch in the case of the Boston scandal, with a brief preface to the effect that it was published with no malicious motives, but simply to give a plain, unvarnished report of the trial. It bore the imprint of "Eberly & Co., Boston, 1857," but was evidently a false publication. It seems to be admitted that the document was issued with a view of influencing public opinion in connection with the approaching trial of De Young, and it may perhaps have been further intended to have had some bearing on more immediate issues.

It will be remembered that the Chronicle "rattled" its office about ten days ago. The Typographical Union and the Amalgamated Trades Union took up the fight for the discharged printers, and have placarded the city with appeals to the public to withdraw patronage from the paper, and have published advertisements to the same effect in interior journals. A mass meeting was advertised for tomorrow evening to denounce the course of the Chronicle, which was to have been addressed by Mayor Kalloch, among others, and it is possible that the pamphlet was designed to have effect on this present quarrel, as well as on the coming trial of De Young.

When the coroner's wagon bearing the body of DeYoung turned from Kearney street into Market, the crowd made a sort of rush that had the appearance of being directed at the wagon. It might have been merely the natural surge of the concourse following the wagon on meeting the crowd gathered on Market, but the police viewing it as an attempt at violence, used their clubs freely, beating back the crowd and inflicting severe punishment on the most forward. Aside from this incident there has been no signs of violence and no occasion for the service of the police except in keeping back the press. Large throngs still linger around the Chronicle office, and at the main and branch offices of the Call and at the morgue, quietly discussing the affair and waiting with the usual morbid interest to hear any further particulars obtainable.

It is as yet too early to gauge the general expression of public opinion of the tragedy, but so far as could be learned from talk heard upon the street this evening, its tenor seemed to be that the death of DeYoung at the hands of the son, was the legitimate outgrowth of the recent attack of the deceased upon the father.

According to the latest reports from Skaget the snow is still very deep on Ruby and other creeks where mining claims have principally been located. It is consequently impossible to accomplish anything in the diggings at present. Some twenty miners arrived here on the Chehalis on Monday evening from the head of navigation. They report the river rising rapidly, the water at present being so high as to admit of steamers going up as far as the mouth of Sauk river. Mr. McCausland, who has a trading post near the portage, brought down $200 in gold dust taken out near the mouth of Ruby creek. One favorable indication is that all that have visited the mines so far (including several hundred men, many of whom are old miners), are sufficiently satisfied with prospects to return as soon as the season opens, without exception so far as observed.

A DISPATCH from San Francisco of April 23d says: That the danger of an outbreak at Colton, among the Shimechevas grows more serious. They are gathering in force through the mountains and especially at the springs along the west side of the Colorado river. Mail riders report seeing their signal fires through the mountains and along the river. A large stock dealer with his men has been run off his ranch, his houses burned and stock driven off. The agent and employes at the reservation have gone to Ehrenberg for protection, having been warned by the Mohaves that the Shimechevas intend to cross the river, kill the settlers and pillage the settlements. It is reported about 200 renegade Putes will join the Shimechevas in making war on the whites. Two companies of cavalry have landed at Ehrenberg ready to march at a moment's notice.

THE late storm in San Francisco has done some damage in bursting sewers and washing away earth on steep hillsides. Early this morning a heavy stone retaining a wall about thirty feet high in the rear of Robert Sherwood's lot on California street, between Taylor and Jones, fell, covering gardens in the rear of residences on Pine street, smashing hot houses and outbuildings, and in one or two instances injuring the rear of dwellings. No one injured.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AN amendment is to be offered to the Indian appropriation bill transferring the Indian bureau to the war department.

"Don't be afraid to praise your hired girl when she deserves it," remarks an exchange; but the minute the husband tries that on she has to look for another situation.

A man undertook to stone the Gray Invincibles, a colored company, at the corner of Market and Forty-first streets, Philadelphia, on the 19th, but the company, with bayonets fixed, soon dispersed the crowd.

BEX HILL has published a long letter in a Georgia paper in relation to the scandal, saying Jesse Raymond was hired by the Republicans to pursue him, and if she killed him she would be acquitted and provided for at the rate of one hundred dollars a month.

FOR the expenses of the Chinese commission $24,000 will be appropriated, and Swift, of California, will be telegraphed for to come to Washington and talk it over; Secretary Evarts thinks the new minister, Angell, should stop a while at San Francisco and study the situation there before going to China.

By special telegram from Pendleton, dated April 29th, we learn that a most horrible murder has been committed near Pendleton. The dispatch says: The bodies of William Hisham and his wife were found this morning in a tent near the Indian agency, their heads split open with an ax. No clue of the murder has been obtained.

THE heavy and continuous rains throughout California have caused a flood, and the rivers, with their beds filled with mining sediment, are sure to rise out of their banks, and a repetition of last year's damages is probable. Railway and telegraphic communication is stopped. C. J. Smith a Stockton merchant and C. E. Welden a San Francisco solicitor, have been drowned.

LAST Monday says the Walla Walla Watchman, Sam Rice, while out hunting stock, found the dead body of Ed. Rorke, a boy a little over fifteen years of age, and the oldest son of Mr. Pat Rorke. It seems he was on the night watch, herding stock, about 100 miles northwest of here at a place called Crab Tree Bluffs. He was riding along the edge of a high bluff, when his mule slipped, and both fell off and down a height of eighty feet. We don't think the poor boy knew what hurt him, for he evidently fell on his head and died instantly.

THE Union Greenback party of Polk county met in convention at Dallas on the 17th inst., and after passing a series of resolutions favoring soft money, woman's rights and kindred measures, nominated McM. Dodson for Senator, and E. C. Keyt, T. H. Lucas and Thomas Stakely for Representatives. The following central committee was appointed; I. Van Horn, T. L. Butler, D. W. Sears, J. Stump, Paul Hilterbrand, L. Bently and J. J. Bell.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

YAZOO CITY, Miss., April 29.—Capt. A. H. Manquing had his five year old child a dose of morphine today, mistaking it for quinine. The child died in four hours.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—John Petrie, a farm hand, aged 50 years, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head this morning in Baltimore county. He was married on Tuesday last.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—On Wednesday a gentleman living in York, Livingston county, who had been ill for some time, suddenly appeared to die, and was duly laid out. While the watchers were performing their customary duties, the supposed dead suddenly revived much to the surprise of his friends.
