

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

SUICIDE OF CAPT. HAGTHROP.—Captain Hagthrop, of the schooner Clara Light, a vessel which has been running regularly to this port for some years past, committed suicide on board his vessel in San Francisco on the 19th instant, by taking laudanum. The cause of this act is supposed to have been financial embarrassment. He was unmarried.

EASTPORT MINE.—J. L. Poole, owner of the Eastport mine, arrived on the "Gussie Telfair" last Saturday, accompanied by a superintendent, blacksmith, and engineer for the mine. Preparations are being made to resume the shipment of coal, and we shall probably see that mine in full blast again in a short time.

SICKNESS AT COQUILLE.—The diphtheria still rages at Coquille City. A daughter of J. P. Messer, a young lady of nineteen or twenty years of age, died last Sunday, and Dr. Angel's youngest child, a little girl, fell a victim on Monday. John Nasburg's little daughter is also supposed to be past all hope of recovery.

CITIZENSHIP.—During the past week the following named gentlemen were duly admitted to citizenship in the Circuit Court for this county, E. A. Anderson, O. C. Evanson, Olen Nelson, James Galaway, W. P. Fox, Wm. Ross, Thomas H. Green and Daniel J. Taylor.

PROGRESS OF CIVILIZATION.—An Indian bearing the distinguished name of Robert Burns, came down from the Alsea reservation this week and filed in the Clerk's office his sworn declaration renouncing his tribal relation. He proposes to have a homestead on the public land.

GOING TO THE COLUMBIA.—The tug Fearless went to the Columbia river Tuesday, taking John Kruse and a few mechanics who are to undertake the repairs of the schooner Enterprise. It is supposed they will be absent about a month.

GOING TO ROSEBURG.—Fred Jarvis, mail carrier at this end of the route between here and Roseburg, went to Roseburg Thursday on business relating to the carrying of the mail.

DOUGLAS COUNTY HAS A Medical Society.

THE fruit prospect is said to be generally good.

J. F. MOORE, from the Coquille, was on the Bay Monday.

HORACE MAYNARD is to succeed Key as Postmaster General.

THE schooner Norway, for North Bend, arrived last Sunday.

THE schooners Truckee and Emma Ulter arrived on Monday.

DR. L. L. ROWLAND, now in Rome, will be at home by the Fourth of July.

EX-GOVERNOR FOOT, superintendent of the mint at New Orleans, is dead.

THIRTY-TWO fish per day is the average catch for each boat on the Columbia at the present.

GOV. TILAYER has appointed W. P. Keady, of Corvallis, to fill the office of State Printer till it is filled by election—a form and nothing more.

THE inspectors of hulls and boilers are expected on the Bay. Steamers are again suffering loss by their non arrival.

HOLVERSTOTT and Fershbaker are the men who should be our County Commissioners for the next two years; they are "honest and capable."

THE schooner Enterprise, that John Kruse has gone north to repair, lies waterlogged at Flavel's wharf in Astoria.

THE mail between here and Roseburg will be carried on short time after next Monday, going through in one day.

THE schooner Mary Swan arrived in this port last Sunday, this being her first trip here, and will take a cargo from Lobree's mill.

It is said that Tom Merry will make the most of the short period before election in canvassing for votes for State Printer.

ATTORNEYS W. E. WILLIAMS and A. F. CAMPBELL, of Roseburg, are attending the Circuit Court. Mr. Campbell will go to Curry county.

HUME & Co. are catching about 1000 salmon daily in Rogue river, and it requires all the force that can be mustered in Ellensburg to take care of these fish.

MR. FOLEY, representative of the Portland Standard, has been on the Bay during the week in the interest of that journal. The Standard is a live paper and should receive a liberal support among its political friends.

WE are in receipt of the Port Orford Post, which is issued instead of the Curry county Post, the prospectus of which was issued by J. H. Upton and son some time since. It is a handsome appearing and lively little sheet; in fact, we are inclined to think it is the best paper ever published in Curry county. Success!

CHIVALRY ON THE WAR PATH.

The Democratic Would-be-Sheriff Commits the crime of Assault and Battery.

Last Thursday an engagement occurred in the Blanco Hotel between Col. Lane and J. A. Yoakum, the particulars of which, so far as we have been able to gather them, are as follows:

It appears that J. A. Yoakum, of Coos river, who is a conscientious Democrat, and one of the many who do not think Lane a proper person to fill the office of Sheriff of this county, had stated some facts that were not calculated to improve Lane's chances of success. He had, we understand, stated that Lane had expressed a desire to be excused from associating with the workmen at Sumner. He had also called attention to some grossly unequal assessments that have been made by Lane, as Assessor. Lane called Yoakum into the hotel and asked what lies he had been telling about him. Yoakum told him he had told no lies but had told the truth, which he could prove. Lane again accused Yoakum of lying, and Yoakum returned the compliment in the strongest terms known to the English language. At this stage of the game Lane struck Yoakum with his cane and Yoakum caught the blow on his arm, and the cane was broken. Lane took hold of his pistol but could not get it out, and Yoakum was commencing to administer corporal punishment upon the Colonel with great vigor, when Marshal Rhodes interfered and put a stop to the fight. It is possible that if Rhodes had not been present there would not have been enough left of Lane in a few minutes to be voted for.

Enthusiastic.

It appears that when Mr. Upton arrived at Port Orford on his way to Ellensburg with his printing outfit, he was taken with the breakwater fever. It will be inferred from the following letter, which was written by a lady of Port Orford to her father in Roseburg, that he has set his "Pooh" at the former place:

PORT ORFORD, May 13, 1880.

DEAR FATHER & MOTHER.—Go fire the cannon, go ring the bells, shout till every hill gives back the sound, Port Orford got the breakwater, nor only the breakwater, but the navy yard will be here also. The news was received publicly here last night, and the flags were raised and anvils fired till nearly dark. Perhaps you don't think Port Orford is coming out. There is a printing press being set up in our woods, next week the first paper will be published in Port Orford, called the Port Orford Post. The man, his family and press arrived in town last night, on his way to Rogue river to publish a paper at that place, but the news of the breakwater located him here. I think they are a very nice family, two sons. He is known in the valley and his name is Upton. Look out for the paper.

The Coos Bay Road Land—A manly letter from J. C. Haynes.

EDITOR COAST MAIL.—

I want to say to the voters of Coos and Curry counties that I am in favor of the Legislature of this State taking steps to compel the Coos Bay Wagon Road Company, or the owners of the Coos Bay Wagon Road land whoever they may be, to build and keep up such a road as the law calls for. I am further in favor of the Legislature taking immediate steps to compel the owners of that land to sell it to actual settlers at the price required by the grant.

I wish to say that if I am elected to the office of State Senator I will force the owners of that land to sell it to settlers if there is power to do it, and I have been informed by good lawyers that Legislature has authority to do that.

Respectfully,
J. C. HAYNES

WHEN the people of Oregon forget the gigantic steal by the last Democratic State Printer and are ready to condole his shameless official peculation, they will probably elect Mr. Merry or some other good Democrat to that office.

E. N. DUPREY Esq., of San Francisco, is in attendance at the Circuit Court this week, as counsel in the equity case involving the settlement of the partnership estate of Flanagan & Mann.

THE indictment against G. W. Thomas considered by the Grand Jury, for the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, was returned "not a true bill," and the defendant was discharged and his bondsmen were released.

E. B. WATSON Esq., of Jacksonville, one of the candidates for a seat on the Supreme bench, has been on the Bay visiting friends during the present week. He sustains a high reputation for ability in the line of his profession and should and will receive a large vote, in the coming election.

A Reply to "Miner."

We detect a sneaking coward who can fight only in ambush, but when he uses nothing but mud, which daubs only his own filthy paws, we have nothing to fear.

"Miner" must feel himself of some consequence to think that we should drop everything and tend immediately to his case. Who is this "Miner" that on the same day the MAIL is issued dates his reply from Randolph? The worn out saws with which he compiles his communications, his bombastic platitudes, and that profound syllogism, gave him entirely away.

Within less than a mile of Marshfield there exists in a squalid hut a creature still showing marks of one time having the semblance of a human being. With a sole purpose in view, and instigated by all the cardinal qualities which nature bountifully bestowed, requisite for such a character, his life-long efforts have been to attain the lowest depths of degradation. It was a hey-day in his existence when he was supplied with a junk of bacon, a sack of flour and a demi-gallon of whiskey and located on a "sheep-ranch," whereby he defrauded the Government out of a quarter section of coal land for $1 25 per acre. To consummate his purpose he has been guilty of performing manual labor, and after grudgingly squandering as little of his earnings as possible, for bread, the principle portion he economically invested in gin, always taking a long horn for a short bit, and never missing an opportunity to "ring in." He is the "early bird that goes forth in quest of the worm"—of the still. When his supply is cut off and he is forced to intervals of comparative sobriety, he brings out his machine and grinds off a string of "Sparks," which the News with less discrimination than liberality, publishes, and gives him temporary relief by a donation of four bits.

To see this "Miner," fatigued by a morning's "prospecting," lay his helpless, filthy, lousey carcass in the gutter, there to fry under the burning rays of the sun, with a swarm of blue bottle flies buzzing about his nasty, bloated face, utilizing his slimy mouth for an incubator, is a sublime spectacle. [We notice the thing not from malice, but to show the character of this champion of honor and purity.] We have no spite against "Miner," and do not wish to say anything to provoke his ire. He has the advantage of us. We are big, and awkward, have held office, and were not educated at Billings-gate; have no gifts and acquirements for ribaldry, besides the English vocabulary does not contain words to do the subject justice.

We have heard of those "contemptible school land transactions, notably the Mr. Master's case, and say that they are a batch of lies made and circulated as a "legitimate means to defeat a Republican nominee."

A Mistake.

The small-souled politician, who, over the signature of "I X Pect," in the last issue of the News foolishly insinuates that the MAIL "condemns" the Coquille region by "impeaching," or is opposed to the appropriation for the improvement of that harbor, does himself and us an injustice. There has never a syllable appeared in the columns of the MAIL that was anything else than favorable to that improvement, and we have always given the proposed work our earnest support, as all our readers will admit. There is no business in Coos county that would be more favorably affected by the development of the Coquille country than ours, and we are highly pleased to see that there is a prospect of $10,000 being appropriated to commence work at the mouth of the river. But we do not think it was at all necessary for Whiteaker to stop the work on Coos Bay, which is already in progress, in order to get that pitiful sum for the Coquille; he could have secured both. Nothing but his negligence or inefficiency could have caused Congress to neglect to make an appropriation to carry on the work already commenced, and which being suspended may suffer great damage.

THE Oregonian says it is estimated that immigration from Coos county since the past election has depleted the population by 1100 voters. They must have got that from the Coos Bay News.

ALEX STAUFF has been argued by his friends in various parts of the county to go out among the people before election. In reply to these importunities he says he would be pleased to do this, but the pressure of business will prevent; and he hopes to merit and receive the support of the people, not by solicitation, but by diligent attention to business. This is the kind of a man who should be elected.

THE facts narrated in another column, as to a fight between Lane and Yoakum, are certainly a very unfavorable comment on the merits of the candidate for Sheriff. He cannot whip nor bulldoze the voters of this county into voting for him, nor can he shut the mouth of the many who criticize his merits and qualifications for that office.

Yeoman's "Defense."

In the last issue of the News Rev. Mr. Yeoman, who has been accused of making improper advances to a married lady in this place, comes out in a letter admitting the facts to be substantially as have been alleged, but pleading infatuation as his excuse. He sums up his defense in the following language:

To the charge of improper advances and proposals, the accused pleads not guilty—to that of gross indiscretion, per se, he knows, and pleads that he is guilty. With this he rests his case, feeling in the chambers of his soul that God's verdict is a verdict of guilty upon confession rendered and yet a verdict subjoined with pardon.

He says he is not guilty of "improper advances," yet admits that he, a married man, proposed marriage to another man's wife, and warmly pressed his suit. We know not where he acquired his ideas of propriety; for in any civilized community such a proposition is an insult and its acceptance a crime.

He avows his purpose to continue in the ministry, and speaks of the suggestions of the MAIL as being "premature." Perhaps those suggestions were premature; but upon mature reflection, and after giving full force to all arguments that can be advanced in his defense, we are more firmly convinced that they were correct. Should he go to some other part of the country where his "indiscretions" are not known, he might still be useful in the ministry, but to remain here and insist upon discharging the duties of that sacred office would be doing himself an injustice, and humiliating this people and doing the cause to which he claims to be an advocate an almost irreparable injury.

Money.

A correspondent of the Springfield Republican says: Money is a matter of no moment at all to me since I went to the bond vault in the treasury building and held in my hand $1,800,000. I was informed that the room contained fourteen hundred millions, and that the whole would make seven hundred cart-loads of gold coin. I walked out meekly, feeling that money was an incubance and a clog, but came to when I soon after disbursed two one-dollar bills and became—in feeling at least—a mendicant upon the spot. The gold-vault which I had the privilege of going in to soon after—and it is a privilege seldom granted—took me into the Arabian Nights at once. I felt like Ali Baba, and looked round to find Cassim's quartered body. I found $3000 in gold extremely heavy and $1000 in silver not to be gotten off the floor, and although a free-born American citizen and gold lay heaped on all sides, they positively let me go without offering me as much as one gold piece.

The Next Census.

The federal census to be taken next month, it is thought, will show a total population of 47,000,000, an increase of about seven and one-half millions over that of 1870. The coming census will doubtless show marked changes in the drift of emigration and in the center of population. The "star of empire" will be found to have moved westward in a surprising manner.

The ratio of representation under the last census was 131,000. If it should be found that the total population has increased to 46,000,000, the ratio will be advanced to 157,000. Under this change the Bulletin estimates that the States that are likely to lose seats in Congress are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont and Virginia. Of the seats in Congress which they will lose it is pretty certain that two will fall to the share of California.

ATLANTA, May 20.—Senator John B. Gordon has sent in his resignation to the Governor as United States Senator, to take effect immediately. The Governor has accepted his resignation and will appoint a successor at once.

Senator Gordon assigns as a reason weariness with public affairs and pressure of private business.

CINCINNATI, May 20.—Mrs. Bateman living six miles up the river, deliberately shot Mrs. Slings with a double-barrelled shotgun this forenoon, because the other refused to desist from cutting grass along the roadside. Two men witnessed the deed. There is intense excitement and threats of lynching.

FAMINE.—Rev. B. Larabee, a well-known American missionary at Oro Omiah, North Persia, where the famine chiefly prevails, writes: Grain is selling at eleven times the ordinary rates. Rye has risen enormously and the people are living largely on scanty roots. Robberies are becoming alarmingly frequent. Reports from Kurdistan, received from helpers among the mountain Nestoragus are equally distressing. From this city (Oro Omiah) to the Tigris the famine is alike severe. May the Lord have mercy upon the land.

3,280 head of cattle were shipped from New York to Europe on the 19th, and they are still going at an unprecedented rate.

Mr. Haynes' Letter.

We call attention to the letter of J. C. Haynes in another column, making a manly declaration of what he proposes to do with regard to compelling the owners of the Coos Bay Road land to sell the same to the settlers as by law required. It is true that one of the conditions of the original grant of this land to the State, was that the same should be sold to actual settlers at a price not exceeding $2 20 per acre. This is a plain practical proposition, and as the land was turned over to this company by act of the Legislature, on the terms of the original grant, it is probably within the power of the Legislature to compel the owners under that law to comply with it or declare a forfeiture of the grant. There is no clap-trap about this movement. Mr. Haynes is interested in having a good road there, and every voter who desires to see some action taken on this subject should vote for him. Every man who thinks those lands should be sold to actual settlers, according to the terms on which they received the title thereto, should support Mr. Haynes.

Tilden after Another Oregon Vote.

THE Telegram learns that Oregon, "the land of big apples and pretty girls," hath attractions for that old veteran in politics and love, viz. Samuel J. Tilden. This time he appears in the double role of Democratic candidate for the Presidency and Independent candidate for matrimony. A Portland belle, whose name is withheld for the present, went East about two years ago to finish her education at Vassar. Visiting friends at New York City, she met and captivated the rich old bachelor. His prospective mother-in-law who was interviewed said to the reporter: "The night before she left the engagement was made, and you may announce to the Portland public that the wedding will take place inside of two months in Trinity. Mr. Tilden will arrive in San Francisco in time to catch the Columbia, and will remain here a month, perhaps."

The young lady is described as, very beautiful, intelligent and accomplished, and in due time her name will be announced. Says the Telegram further: "In the meantime, there can be little doubt but this is another attempt of that old sly fox S. J. T. to steal the vote of Oregon, and it will probably be successful."

COQUILLE CITY ITEMS.

Our town has been again thrown into a state of gloom by the death of Miss Lou Annie Messer, who departed this life Sunday eve, after an illness of four days. She died of congestion of the lungs, and expressed herself as being satisfied to make the change. She had her friends good bye, and sent messages to absent ones. Miss Messer was an estimable young lady, loved and respected by all who knew her. Her death is a terrible blow to her desolate parents, two more of whose children are very ill with putrid sore throat.

Monday morning Dr. Angel lost his little daughter Edith, who died of putrid sore throat; three more of his children are sick, and one dangerously so.

Little Rosa Nasburg, daughter of John Nasburg, is not expected to live. The Little Annie failed to make her regular trip Friday, and also to-day, Wednesday. Capt. Graves is now in command.

The schooner Free Trade is still at the wharf at Bandon. Cause, rough sea.

Mr. Bunch has the mud-sills of his mill in place.

Railroad Accident.

A local train on the South Pacific Coast Railway met with a fearful accident on the 23d of May, while going at a high rate of speed on a down grade. It was loaded with passengers to the Independent Rifle picnic at Big Trees. There were three open cars, carrying about 125 persons. Just as a curve in the road was reached the first car jumped the track to the left, and the second to the right, the third staid on the track, passing over and mangle many persons who had been thrown from the first two cars. Those on the third car escaped uninjured, and immediately went to the assistance of the wounded, the dying and the dead. Thirteen are reported killed and others mortally wounded, and 40 more or less injured. A number of San Francisco people were on the train at the time of the accident.

BENNETT is rich enough to give $100,000 without ever knowing it, as the saying is. His income is now more than $300,000 a year, the Herald alone paying more than half a million. There is probably no such newspaper property in the world except the London Times. The Herald employs no advertising agents, pays no commissions on advertising, has no bills to collect, and never puts a line of advertising into its sheets which has not been paid for in advance at the rate of five cents a word, or in case of long advertisements at $100 a column. Whether you buy a column of space in the Herald for one day or for one year it is $100 a day.

IT would seem that Colonel Lane's object in seeking the office of Sheriff is to get in a situation so that he will not be compelled to associate with laboring men.

Severely Injured.

Last evening, shortly before 7 o'clock, says the "Standard," the residents on the western line of Jefferson street were startled by the spectacle of a team of spirited horses attached to a buggy, dashing madly down the street, perfectly uncontrollable, to the terror of the occupants of the buggy, Mr. Frank Carson and his sister Ella, who is engaged in teaching school at Forest Grove, from which place they were returning. While coming down the canyon grade, the team of horses, belonging to Goddard's livery stable in this city, became frightened and started on a keen run down Jefferson street until reaching Fourth, when turning the corner, Mr. Carson and his sister were precipitated to the ground and both sustained severe injuries. Mr. Carson was picked up unconscious. Miss Carson was badly cut about the head, but though severely, is not dangerously hurt. The injuries of Mr. Carson, are more severe. Both were removed to the residence of J. C. Carson, corner of Third and Jefferson streets and Dr. Watkins summoned to attend them. After the occupants of the buggy had been thrown out, the team continued its headlong career, colliding with a lamp post at the corner of Fourth and Yamhill streets and demolishing it, and were finally brought to a standstill by running on the sidewalk of Thompson, DeHart & Co., corner of Yamhill and First streets, where both horses fell and were secured. The buggy escaped with nothing more than a sprung axle, but both the horses were badly cut about the legs, caused by their fall on a lot of iron. At a late hour last night Mr. and Miss Carson were both resting easily, and it is hoped that they will soon be entirely recovered from the result of the accident.

Arctic Expedition.

THE Revenue Cutter Corwin, a new staunch vessel of 250 tons displacement, and built in Oregon, is now receiving stores and will sail for Behring's strait on the 15th of this month in search of the Vigilance and Mount Wollaston. The Corwin will proceed under sail and steam to Oonalaska, where she will coal and proceed through Norton's sound to St. Michaels, where taking in as much coal as she can carry, she will sail out into the Arctic ocean, coasting along the northern shore of Alaska, frequently landing to make inquiries of the Esquimaux, for tidings of the whalers who may have sought refuge there.

Captain Hooper will then, as the ice disappears and circumstances permit, sail northward, and go as far as possible along the coast of Wrangel Land, and when he is stopped by ice, will use dog sledges, which he will procure at St. Michaels. Captain E. B. Hall will accompany the expedition as ice pilot, as he is an old whaler who has been as far north as latitude 74 degrees, and is familiar with the language spoken by the natives, with whom it will be necessary to communicate. The distance from San Francisco to Oonalaska is 2,400 miles, and St. Michaels is 700 miles from there, or 180 miles from East Cape. Capt. Hooper feels enthusiastic in regard to his voyage, and his officers have been selected for their peculiar fitness for such service. The roster is as follows: Captain C. L. Hooper; First Lieutenant, John Bran; Second Lieutenant, W. H. Hand; Navigating Officer and Third Lieutenant, O. D. Myrick; Chief Engineer, James T. Wayson; First Assistant, C. A. Lewis; Second Assistant, Mr. Owens. There are also a sergeant and crew of thirty picked men. The crew have been selected, and only await orders to sail out of the Golden Gate. "If the ice is not out of Behring's straits when the Corwin arrives there, she will be on hand to go through as soon as the ice moves. Her voyage will probably occupy about four months, and will be fraught with much interest, not only to those who have friends on the ice, but to our entire people.

At a meeting of the House Pacific Railroad Committee a letter making charges of corruption and bribery against a Pacific Railroad Company, written by J. A. Geroge, a contractor, was submitted. The letter charged that $50,000 in money and $10,000 worth of land grant bonds were paid to a U. S. Senator, and that $1,000,000 worth of lands were distributed among members of the House. The writer says that he can produce evidence and furnish witnesses to sustain these charges, and asks for investigation. No action has been taken in regard to the letter, the committee desiring first to ascertain as to the responsibility of the writer and whether he is not merely engaged in a stock jobbing affair.

SUICIDE.—A lady 51 years of age, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramsden, of Salem, committed suicide by hanging herself, at her residence on the night of the 20th; has been an invalid for many years and had often expressed a desire to rid herself of the pains and trials incidental to this life.

DESPAIRING of being elected on his merit, Mr. Siglin and his friends are now holding forth the idea that he should be elected because he is a lawyer, and "can draw up a bill." This is probably the first time a candidate has ever relied upon so flimsy a claim for support. The best legislators that our State has or ever has had, have been men like Haynes, who are honest, and know the wants of their constituents, without the trickery that sometimes characterizes the attorney. It will be an evil day for the people when they place the legislative power solely in the hands of the lawyers because they can "draw up a bill."

BORN.

On Kentuck slough, May 5th, 1880, to the wife of W. S. Wheeler, a daughter.

DIED.

At the residence of Josiah Bonebrake, on Frank Ross slough, May 23, 1880, Mrs. Catherine Ross, aged 83 years. Deceased was a lady highly esteemed by all her acquaintances. She leaves a son, B. F. Ross Esq., and four married daughters, all of whom are among our most respectable citizens. She has been very feeble for some years past, and Death came as a messenger to call her from the scene of her well finished labors here to the Reward of the Just.
