FOR PRESIDENT JAS. A. GARFIELD.

OF ORIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT CHESTER A. ARTHUR. OF NEW YORK.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS. GEO. B. CURRY, of Grant, E. L. APPLEGATE, of Linn. C. B. WATSON, of Lake.

Hancock is Not the Man.

The Chicago Times, during the Cincinnati Convention and when it first became apperant that Hancock was the man on whom the nomination would fall, used the following language: "The Democratic party cannot stultify itself by putting any mere military man in the field. A record of loyalty during the war is, no doubt, essential, but the party cannot afford man who is nothing else than a soldier, and not a very brilliant one at that. Hancock is emphatically not the office of the Coast Mail. the man for the occasion."

This is undoubtedly a candid expression of a sensible Democrat. A military man who has had some responsibility as a commander in chief where questions of policy and statesmanship have arisen, may have some practical views of the duties of Presi1880, to the lowest responsible bidder. dent of the United States, but a soldier like Hancock who has always to the hospital, and receive so many "is nothing else, and not a very brilliant one at that," is the poorest mament; his veto power is the guardian of the Constitutional rights of the people, and a man of merely a military education, and of only a military experience, whose paramount virtue is that he occupied the position of a general in the army of the Union, and and yet maintained his allegiance to a party that was in sympathy with the rebellion, is unfitted for the duties of that position. Because he always acted under the orders of his superiors, and has thus escaped personal responsibility, very little can be 2007, 2102, 2191, 2405, 2334, 2524, 2549, said against him Not even the resaid against him. Not even the responsibility of a voting member of Congress has he ever borne. For a allowed after date. military officer, he is well enough, but as a candidate for President, he "is emphatically not the man."

A SPECIAL from Fort Stockton, Texas, says: Major R. G. Lawrence and a corps of Texas and Pacific railroad engineers, after a number of days of extreme suffering from thirst, in the white sand hills, arrived at the Pecos river without loss of life. Some stock BOOT& SHOE MAKER and wagons were abandoned at different intervals for forty miles. Those acriving first at the river went in search of others. A number of them were found crazy by thirst and had entirely stripped themselves. They were found within a hundred yards of the Pecos river, drinking the blood of animals they had slain. Some of them were almost blind. Arriving at the river they plunged in head foremost, and but for the bravery of the most experienced, a number would have perished.
