SATURDAY, JULY 24, 1880

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

BEHEALED.—Last Saturday, Dr. Steele was informed by telegraph of the death of his child, in San Francisco. Mrs. Steele was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, in the city, when the child was taken off by disease induced by tooth-cutting. The remains of the little one were brought here by the Telfair, and were taken to Coquille City for interment. Mrs. Steele was so prostrated by her great bereavement and by watching during the sickness, as to be unable to return for the present. Only a few months since, they buried their little son Carl, and this loss of their last remaining child falls heavily upon them.

THE LAST OF SIX.—J. P. Messer and wife, of Coquille City, whose family a few months since consisted of six children, some of them grown, lost five in rapid succession by diphtheria. Their little son, Willie, six years of age, was sent away beyond the reach of the fatal contagion, and remained till the parents supposed all danger was passed; he was brought home and in a few days was taken with the same disease that had carried off others of the family, and on the 14th instant he died, leaving the parents sorrow-stricken and childless.

LAND SALE.—Jas. Aiken has sold to Hon. J. N. Dolph, of Portland, one undivided twelfth of the large tract of land lying in township 27, S. of R. 13, and 27 S. of R. 14 west in this county, nearly 8,000 acres, for the consideration of eight hundred and twenty-five dollars. This tract of land has resources of great value, but it is as yet wholly undeveloped. We are pleased to see such men as Dolph investing in property in this county.

POSTPONED.—The cases now pending in the U. S. Circuit Court, in which H. H. Luse is plaintiff and the residents on this townsite are defendants, will not be taken up till October or November. Judge Deady is about to go to Alaska, and will not do any business during August and September. Though the defendants hoped that these cases would be disposed of in August, there is nothing to be lost by this delay.

THE CROPS.—C. Landrith, correspondent of the Department of Agriculture for this (the Coos Bay) portion of Coos county, has sent on his report for July. The amount of corn is 57 acres, condition good; wheat 142 acres, good; oats 103 acres, good; potatoes 190 acres, good; clover 100 acres, good; timothy 175 acres, excellent; pasture 3,122 acres, good; apples, poor.

LARGE FRUIT.—We were this week shown a bush of the "cherry currant" from Capt. Campbell's farm, on Coos river, that in size of the fruit as well as the quantity, surpassed anything of the kind we have ever seen. This sample demonstrates beyond question the superiority of this variety over the common or Dutch currant.

CAUTION.—The greatest care should be used to avoid letting fire get out in the woods where it is liable to do damage to property. The rubbish and fallen timber is becoming dry enough to make a very hot fire in many localities, and there is necessity for the exercise of the greatest possible caution.

ERROR.—A typographical error in last week's issue of this paper, stated that license was granted in the County Court to B. B. Jones to sell liquors. The party to whom the license was granted was B. D. Jones, who has been for some years established in this line of business.

FARM IMPROVEMENT.—Donald McIntosh is improving his farm at the mouth of Coos river by diking in another large tract of marsh. He has been for some years past cultivating with good success a tract of land that he reclaimed of the same kind.

ARRIVED.—The Gussie Telfair arrived last Tuesday at 5 p. m., bringing as passengers Wm. B. Keger and wife, Mrs. B. B. Jones and daughters, Miss Thomas, Mrs. Wheeler, D. McLean, E. Greenberg, I. L. Cox, and a Chinaman to Port Orford.

HOME AGAIN.—Mrs. B. B. Jones who has been for some months past visiting relations in California, accompanied by her two daughters, returned by the Telfair this week; she was welcomed back by many friends in this county.

CALCULATING from the official exhibit, the total receipts of the county during the past fiscal year are $26,575 37, while the expenditures are $24,303 58, showing an apparent reduction of the indebtedness $2,271 79.

Anything wanted in the line of dress for either man or woman can be found at their store, of the best quality and in the latest styles. They buy for cash and sell at the lowest living prices.

We call attention to the advertisement of D. Morse, Jr., of Empire City, appearing in another column of this paper. Mr. Morse's card embraces a greater variety, probably, than is to be found elsewhere on the Bay. Besides his stock of general merchandise, he has an almost endless variety of toys and fancy goods. If you want anything out of the usual line of merchandise, or otherwise, call at his place.

The South American War—Proposed Consolidation of the States.

Advices from Panama, by way of New York say: The most important news from the South is the announcement that Peru and Bolivia are about to enter into a confederation and become one country, under one flag and one Government, and to be known as the United States of Peru and Bolivia. The preliminary basis has already been drawn up and signed in Lima.

The Chilians have sacked Arica, after the capture committing great outrages. Officers professed to be unable to control their men.

A Lima correspondent of the Panama Star and Herald says: In less than three hours from the firing of the first shot the Chilean flag waved triumphantly over Arica. Fortunately the foreign man-of-war had taken on board hundreds of women and children of different nationalities, otherwise the horrors would have increased a thousand fold. The victorious soldiers were let loose on the city. Wine stores were broken in and in the afternoon Arica was in flames. Later advices confirm the report that Chilean soldiers were permitted to sack the city, the result being, according to an eye witness, that there is not a single house left standing in a complete condition. The excuse given by the Chilean officers for the outrage, was that they could not control their men.

A Desperate Struggle.

The Times has a special detailing exciting events in Carroll county, Ark., by which a thievish tramp and two citizens lost their lives. J. W. Myers, a farmer living in that county, found upon returning to his home from the fields that it had been plundered during his absence. He immediately gave chase, and ran the thief down in Scott county, Mo., where he was stopping over night at the house of Mr. Kimberlin. He soon had him covered with a rifle, and the tramp said that he would surrender, but five seconds later he drew a pistol while his captor was off his guard and shot him through the heart. The tramp then escaped back into Arkansas, where a sheriff and eight men finally ran him down at the house of an old man supposed to be his father. They surrounded the house and when he appeared in the door opened fire simultaneously, causing dust to fly from his clothes, but not fatally wounding him. He returned the fire with a pistol in either hand, and while they were reloading took to the fields. A posse followed him, and firing another volley brought him to the ground apparently dead, but when one of the party, Mr. Jones, went up to take a look at him, the fellow pointed a pistol at his head and fired. Mr. Jones falling back dead. The desperado soon after expired. He is believed to have been concerned in many dark deeds of late in this section.

Reckless Robbery in Umatilla.

On Sunday, the 11th inst., when Joe Looney, the driver of the stage running between the towns of Pendleton and Umatilla, in Umatilla county, arrived at the latter place and delivered Wells Fargo's treasure box to the agent at that place, the startling discovery was made that, although the box was properly locked, the money, gold dust and other valuables, together with the way bills, known to have been in the box when the stage left Pendleton, had mysteriously disappeared.

One H. C. Paige, formerly agent for Wells Fargo & Co., at Baker City, was a passenger, and as he had insisted on "taking a nap" in the "boon" where the treasure was kept, suspicion centered on him. After his arrival in Portland, various circumstances strengthened this suspicion, and he has been arrested and lodged in jail. There is little room for doubt as to his guilt, although he had heretofore sustained a fair character.

The Agricultural College.

The State Agricultural College at Corvallis is now free from debt, and the grounds and buildings have recently received substantial improvement. A wing two stories high, 70x24 feet, has been added to the building. The general principles of agriculture are taught in the Chemical Department. The following special studies are taught: Composition and analysis of soils, manures, modes of draining, etc., method of preparing farm buildings, stock raising, fruit culture, and as soon as possible the special geology of Oregon. The next scholastic year begins on the first of September and ends on the first of June.

Each State Senator has the appointment of two students to scholarships that entitle them to free tuition, and we believe the scholarships from this district are vacant.

I HAVE known General Garfield ever since 1858. I have known him intimately. I have talked with him confidentially. I have more of his letters than any one else has, if I except his wife and I am not sure that I need except her. If Gen. Garfield is not a man of the most absolute integrity, I have no reason to suppose that any such man exists.—(President Hinsdale of Hiram College.

Generous English.

A California paper brings up an interesting reminiscence showing with what generosity the American people respond to the voice of humanity, when a great calamity has brought want and destitution upon thousands. It says:

Immediately upon the nomination of William H. English by the Cincinnati Convention, the public were made aware of the fact that he was the possessor of a but only less capacious than that of the great defrauded, Samuel J. These stories of Mr. English's wealth all emanated from Democratic sources, and the Democracy generally throughout the country were felicitating themselves that a campaign of extraordinary lavishness of expenditure would be set on foot. But suddenly there came a hoarse whisper, as if from the very center of an empty barrel, that English was rich but close. To corroborate this, stories of his meanness were told. Chief among them was the fact that when the great fire nearly swept Chicago out of existence, English, although everybody else contributed liberally, would only give a single dollar. This story was denounced as a Republican lie, but the evidence was so conclusive that English's friends were compelled to admit the corn. If any further testimony were needed the following, resuscitated from the Russian River of October 19, 1871, would settle the matter:

A PUBLIC-SPIRITED HEATHEN.

W. H. English, the wealthiest man of Indianapolis, Ind., worth at least $1,000,000, opened his heart and subscribed the sum of one dollar, and that in cash, for the sufferers by the great fire in Chicago.—Telegram to California Press.

To W. H. English, the Millionaire of Indianapolis: Your magnanimous donation of one dollar to the sufferers by the Chicago fire (among the greatest calamities of modern times) is looked upon with wonder by the generous citizens of the Pacific coast. We feel that you have seriously cramped your financial operations by this excessive liberality, and resolved that you shall not suffer, either in mind, body or estate, by the gushing sentimentality which prompted such munificence.

Ninety-nine good and responsible men of California have promptly determined to donate to you one cent each in currency, to partially reimburse you for your extravagant outlay. This will reduce your subscription to a single cent, and it is to be hoped that, with this relief, the financial shock with which your system was threatened, will be averted.

Should further assistance be required from you we will try and make up that last odd cent.

With such sentiments as you deserve, I am, sir,

ONE OF THE NINETY-NINE.

The above we clip from the Sacramento Bee. The following note will explain itself; the act of the Celestial completes the job of remunerating the Indianapolis capitalist—a work so appropriately commenced by the Capital City.

WASH HOUSE SANG LEE, 140 Broadway, Cal., Oct. 15, 1874.

To Miss W. H. English, Muchee Monoc Man, Indianapolis: Your barter came bigge, on fire. Seeagoo, and you give lots monnee to poor Melican man; so much monnee he can't use poor. Melican man, Sacramento, send you little monnee, but no so muchee you give poor Melican man at Seacoo. Chinaman monnee so good Melican monnee; so me sendee you more monnee, makee you all right. Be no more poor. Melican man keepee monnee, no spen up; Chinaman spen up monnee, no keep up—makee free—helpee poor Melican man.

In muchee love, me one your "elder brethren."

SANG LEE.

This Chinaman accompanied his letter with a donation of a Chinese coin called "Tang" worth a fraction of a cent.

Chicago ought to feel grateful, and will probably show her appreciation of this magnanimity in her vote next November.

Man Killed for a Deer.

The Independent gives an account of the accidental killing of Mr. Richard Low, in Camas Valley, recently, by Russell Liggett. Mr. Liggett describes the accident as follows: We separated, agreeing to meet at a little gulch at the lower side of the prairie. I got there first, and he was not there. I whistled for him and got no answer. I whistled the second time and got no answer. As I whistled the last time I saw a deer run into a patch of brush. I saw an object in the brush, I supposed was the deer. I raised my gun and fired, and when I went to the spot I found I had shot Mr. Low.

Mr. Low came from Crescent city, and had lived eighteen months in Camas Valley. He had no relatives in this State, and was buried in Camas Valley.

GRANT endorses Garfield fully to an interviewer at Denver; says he has nothing against Hancock. Garfield is his man.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Thomas Tighe, a workman on the new county building, yesterday afternoon fell from the top story to the basement, a distance of 90 feet, and was instantly killed. It is supposed that he was affected by the extreme heat and lost his balance.

KENOSHA, Wis., July 13.—Chancey Schenker, a half crazy pauper in the poor house near this city, assaulted Waller last night with a knife, inflicting fatal wounds. They were both over 70 years of age, and had various disputes. There was a terrible struggle between them in the dark attic where they met. Waller had one eye cut out entirely and 28 gashes in his body.

VIRGINIA, July 15.—Private information has reached here of the assassination of Chas. McLaughlin, near Maracata, Esmeralda county, on the night of the 11th instant. He had been to Bellevue and was returning, and was shot dead from his horse at about 11 p. m. No arrests have been made, but it is surmised that a man named Braply may have had a hand in the assassination. McLaughlin was formerly a resident here, and was a large owner in the Black Hawk mine, and was concerned in trouble there formerly, in which two Braplys were killed. Hence the suspicion.

GLEN HOUSE, N. H., July 13.—A terrible accident, caused by a drunken driver, occurred on the carriage road from Glen House to the summit of Mt. Washington this afternoon about a mile below the Halfway House. One of the six horse mountain wagons, containing a party of nine persons, the last load of excursionists from Michigan, to make the descent of the mountain, was tipped over. One lady, Mrs. Ira Christer, Allegan, Michigan, was killed, and five others, all Michigan people, injured. The driver is probably fatally hurt. His mistake was in driving recklessly round a curve.

MEMPHIS, July 14.—About two months ago Rufus Armstead was assassinated near Horn Lake, Mississippi, by Ed. Nelms, a negro, because Armstead's brother, when Deputy Sheriff of De Sota county, Mississippi, acting officially, killed Nelms' brother, who was a criminal. The assassination has created great indignation. Nelms, the murderer, was pursued to Tunica county bottoms. His mother, with his brother Prentis Nelms and Tom Konkey, accomplices, have been arrested. Last Saturday morning while Tom Konkey and Prentis Nelms were being conveyed to Hernando, a body of masked men stopped the officers having the prisoners in charge, and took possession of the two men. The officers returned to Austin for assistance, and on returning found the two prisoners dead, with their throats cut from ear to ear, and their bowels protruding from the numberless wounds inflicted with knives, and a rope around each of their necks. An indignation meeting was held at Austin, Monday, at which resolutions condemning the act were passed, and Commissioners White and Black appointed to ferret out the murderers.

Burning Oil.

The oil regions of Pennsylvania have been lately visited by several storms, accompanied by lightning that set fire to the oil tanks. A Bradford dispatch of the 16th says:

Solid shot were fired into the second burning tank at Custer City at 1 o'clock this morning to draw off the oil and thereby prevent an overflow. However the work was commenced too late, and the oil boiled over furiously and set fire to a side tank which is now a sea of fire. There are three other tanks in the immediate vicinity.

Another thunder storm passed over the city this morning, and considerable damage was done by lightning. A rig near the center of the city was struck and burned two oil tanks—one of 1200 barrels and another of 600. Great excitement prevails. People are out in force fighting fires. The damage will be very great.

Almost another Deadly Affray.

A Charleston dispatch of the 17th, says: Colonel Cash, surviving principal in the recent duel, was before Judge Meiver in the State Supreme Court at Cheraw, last evening on a writ of habeas corpus, and was admitted to bail in $3,000. Considerable excitement was occasioned in Cheraw, previous to hearing of the application, by an attack made by a son of Colonel Cash upon Mr. Pegues, editor of the Cheraw Sun, who had denounced the duel in his paper. Young Cash and his father had both drawn their pistols, the latter avowing his intention to see a fair fight, and Pegues was only saved by being thrust by his friends into an open doorway, where he was locked up. No arrests.

SOME of the Democratic brethren have been trying to get up a Hancock "boom" in this county, but it doesn't seem to take very well. They have organized a club or two, but the exercises were not calculated to impress a bystander with the idea of either usefulness or pleasure.

As 8 is to 7 so is the strength of Garfield to that of Hancock.

THE Chilians captured Arica in a three hours fight, and the city was then sacked and almost destroyed by the soldiers over whom the officers say they had no control. Fortunately foreign men of war in the harbor had taken many families on board.

A WHIRLWIND swept over the southeastern portion of Hanover, N. H., on the 16th, lifting a couple of residences and some barns from their foundations and completely wrecking them. Roofs were torn off, chimneys leveled, trees uprooted and fences prostrated. Two men were severely injured.

JUDGE STEPHEN T. LOGAN died at Springfield on the 17th, in his 81st year. He has resided there since the year 1832, and was one of the most prominent lawyers of Illinois in early days, being once a partner of Abraham Lincoln. He served four terms in the State Legislature; was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1847, and was twice elected judge, resigning each time.

SENATOR HOAR says: "I was one of the committee who investigated the Credit Mobilier, and wrote the greater part of the report of the committee known as the Wilson committee. There was nothing in the transaction which in the least gave me reason to distrust General Garfield's absolute integrity. I expressed my opinion of the absolute honor and integrity of General Garfield in this matter years ago. No man, Democrat or Republican, who ever served with Garfield does, I think, doubt that he is absolutely incorruptible. He has been for years on the committees of appropriation and ways and means, controlling the expenditure of millions upon millions, and policies that make and unmake great business interests."

SAYS the New York Times: "The situation in all important respects may be regarded as simply this: The two parties go before the country on what they have done or failed to do, with the assurance on the part of the Republicans that all the best tendencies of the party will be promoted by the election of its candidate, and with the probability on the Democratic side that the tendencies of that party toward error in doctrine and in practice will find no restraint from its candidate."

THE Republicans are going to carry Connecticut next Fall, and the next Legislature will elect a Republican Senator.

In 1876 General Hancock was considerably exercised over the election of President, openly expressing his belief that Mr. Tilden had been elected. Further, according to a story by General "Baldy" Smith, General Hancock informed General Sherman that regardless of anything Mr. Ferry, who was then acting as Vice President, might do in declaring the election, if Congress declared that Mr. Tilden was elected, he believed the latter had the right to take the oath of office wherever he might be; and that after midnight of March 3d should Mr. Tilden issue any order as President of the United States he (Hancock) should obey him. General Hancock is located on Governor's Island in New York Bay, and is in close proximity to Mr. Tilden who will, no doubt be glad to aid the General in return for his willingness to acknowledge his (Tilden's) authority in 1876.

A PROMINENT Republican from Virginia says that in several congressional districts of that State the feeling between sections of the Democracy is such that the members of either declare that should any attempts be made by their leaders looking toward a compromise they will support the Republican ticket. The Republican campaign will be formally opened in South Carolina on the 27th inst. The first mass meeting is to be held at Blackville, Barnwell county. Other meetings are announced at Columbia, July 31st, and Florence, August 3d.

THE Chicago Tribune says: Crop reports received by telegram and published in our columns are conflicting in character, and vary according to the different localities from which they proceeded. In general, however, the showing is not so favorable for the wheat harvest as a few days ago.
