Ole Bonemann Bull, the well-known violinist, whose death has been announced, was born in Bergen, seventy years ago last February. He was passionately fond of music in his earliest years, but his father sternly forbade him to follow his inclinations.

The newspaper greets the eye of the youthful intellect at earliest dawn and goes with the boy and the man, and the old man, daily through all the years down to the grave. It is growing faster than anything else on earth.

SANDSTONE, marble and granite have their essential differences in crystallization. No architect ever built more regularly than did nature when constructing ever the smallest crystal.

Tattooed by Savages. The family of Alonzo Hewitt, an American sailor, lives in East New York, and he is now at home for a few days respite from the arduous duties of "a life on the ocean wave."

In 1865 Mr. Hewitt belonged to the crew of the ship Angitia, which went ashore during a severe gale on the Patagonian coast. The vessel was manned by thirteen men, all of whom were captured by the savages and taken into the interior.

"What caused the Patagonians to mark you in this manner?" asked the reporter. "I presume the chief who held me captive wanted to disgrace me for the amusement of himself and his associates," was the reply.

The tattooed man brushed his locks of shaggy hair back from his forehead, and disclosed a blue and yellowish representation of a bird. Although the bird had outstretched wings, and beak and claws like an eagle, it is far from being a good representation of the glorious American bird of freedom.

peck. Rolling up his sleeves and bringing his arms, Mr. Hewitt exhibited to the reporter, pictorial representations of more than a dozen different kinds of animals. Some of them resembled goats, others sheep and foxes. There were animals with horns and others without horns.

Five years ago, Mr. P. T. Barnum, hearing of Mr. Hewitt, and thinking that he would prove valuable as a curiosity for public exhibition, offered him a liberal salary to appear in the "Greatest Show on Earth."

A Miner's Daring. There are no braver men in the world than can be found among the mines of the Comstock. Accustomed to face dangers every day of their lives, they never shrink from the call of duty.

Secretary Schure last Summer made personal inspection of the Northern Pacific Railroad from St. Paul to its western terminus at Bismarck. He is satisfied that the road when completed will be the most important in the United States.

A profound sensation has been created in Russia by the second announcement of an Odessa newspaper, the Nesnik, that one of the local firms of merchants has purchased, in addition to previous purchases, 100,000 bushels of American wheat.

"Pearls of Thought." A German author has made a collection of mixed metaphors, which he calls pearls of thought. Some of them are worth quoting, if only as a warning to high-flown orators not to allow their magniloquence to fly away with them altogether.

Damage Suit. An Indianapolis dispatch says: Col. W. W. Dudley, United States Marshal brought suit for damages yesterday against the Indianapolis Sentinel for $5,000, his attorneys being Harrison, Hines & Miller.

Riot in China. A serious riot took place in Canton on the 15th of September between two rival factions of the low order of natives. The immediate cause of the outbreak was a fire in a shed near the Roman Catholic cathedral.

Military Telegraph Line. The signal service has just completed a trans-continental military telegraph line from Bismarck, Dakota, to Dayton, Washington Territory. It crosses the Rocky mountains by the Sohon pass over the Mullen road.

Seed Corn. The method of selecting and saving seed corn, practiced by a New York farmer is, when husking, to select from stalks having two or more ears, the finest and best ears—those having a small cob, well tipped out, rows regular and straight, bright and clear seed, and with no strange kernels.

Escape of Beasts. At Little Rock, Ark., on the 16, ult., a severe storm of wind, rain and hail prevailed, doing a good deal of damage to window glass.

What a Goat Can Do. Maybe there is never any excitement at West End, but you can't make the people who saw a colored gentleman try to lend a goat through that district the other day, believe it. At first the goat didn't want to go, and the colored gentleman, who was about ten feet ahead of the animal, pulled vigorously on the rope.

The Pronunciation of U. Ninety-nine out of every hundred Northerners will say inistoot instead of institute—dooty for duty, a perfect rhythm of the word beauty.

Two Patriarchal Apple Trees. In Skowhegan, Me., are two russet apple trees; the oldest was planted in 1762. The tree is seven feet from the ground to the branches, five in number, all of which are very large and average 35 feet in length, covering a space of ground 63 feet in diameter.

Editorial Tribulation. The Port Orford Post says: We went out surveying last week, leaving a number of captions written on a slip, indicative of the subjects we desired our sub to write up. Among the list of headings we had prepared was "Ship Building."

Hate Makes the Solid South. R. J. Ingersol. But I am asked, "Are you forever going to preach the doctrine of hate?" I say I never did preach it. I will be friends with the South the moment they are the friends of liberty, the moment they are friends of justice, the moment they treat my friends well.

The Feeling in Eastern Cities. A Washington dispatch says among business men and real estate owners generally the result is more satisfactory than otherwise, the election of Hancock implying a complete change among Government officials would have upset things here.
