

The Coast Mail.

MARSHFIELD, OREGON.
Thursday, June 19, 1884

Mrs. F. J. Lewis is teaching the public school at Willoughby.

The McMillan Bros. have a love story that is too funny for anything. Get one and read it.

Wm. Palmer of South Coast river is preparing to do some logging this season for the new mill at Empire.

Drs. Holcomb and Smith are both on the Coquille. Dr. Smith expects to be at Myrtle Point to-morrow.

Johnny Kruse killed two coons at North Bend last week that measured four feet from the tip of the nose to the end of the tail.

It is said that a sea lion weighing 3700 pounds was lately killed at the mouth of the Coquille river. It yielded 30 gallons of oil.

Capt. Bruce is again in charge of the tug Escort, during Capt. Magee's absence with the new boat to take the raft to San Francisco.

The ladies' sewing society will meet at the residence of Mrs. W. A. Willard on Thursday, June 26, at 2 p. m. Mrs. E. O. Smith, Secretary.

In our advertising columns appears an official notice of the celebration that the Masons propose to have at this place on St. John's day—next Tuesday.

F. Mark returned from San Francisco last week, bringing with him his daughter Jennie, who will spend her school vacation at home. They came back by way of Portland.

Two Indian women from Lake Superior are in town, selling ornamental bead-work on cloth. It is a novelty here that meets with successful sales, and the women are doing a rushing business.

The news from California is unfavorable for the hay crop, but ranchers here say the prospect for a good hay crop this season are now better than they have before been at this time for several years.

Sclander & Hongell have leased the south half of the lower story of O'Connell's new building, into which they will move their boot and shoe store, with a new stock of goods, soon after the 4th of July.

J. E. Hale and wife, former residents of this place, returned to the bay this week, on a visit only, we believe. They came from California overland, in their own conveyance, and are traveling for their health.

Small fruits of all kinds are now quite plentiful in this market. This week strawberries are selling at 75 cents per gallon, and raspberries, currants and gooseberries at 50 cents. Nice cherries from Coos river sell at 10 cents per pound.

The tug Escort No. 2, intended to leave the bay yesterday for San Francisco with the Pacific Coast Lumber company's raft of piles, but the bar was too rough. She may get away to-day. The piles are made up into five bunches. Capt. Magee is in command of the tug.

John Carlin, W. J. Rogers, R. L. Simpson and E. H. Claypool have issued a call to all men who have been engaged in any of the Indian wars of the Pacific coast to meet at McMinnville, this state, next Saturday, to form an organization of Indian war veterans.

The Marshfield brass band has made an engagement to play at Coquille City on the 4th of July. This the boys did before they knew that they could be wanted at home, and as they are in need of funds with which to pay for their instruments, of course they were right in accepting the offer to go abroad.

F. A. Golden of New Orleans, and son of Dr. C. B. Golden of this place, arrived by last steamer, to visit his father. He is a traveling correspondent of the Times-Democrat and contemplates an extended trip through this state and California, for purposes of observation and in the interest of his paper.

The launching of the new tug at North Bend has been somewhat delayed by some miscalculation or misunderstanding in making the rudder braces that were sent up from San Francisco. They were not what was wanted, and the launch will not take place until after another arrival of the steamer with other braces.

McMillan Bros., the photographers, are doing a lively business in this place, at their tent, on the hill, west of the Bayview brewery. The dispatch with which they take pictures is something wonderful and well worth a visit to see. They keep up with the times and have all the improved facilities for doing work in their line.

Rev. Mr. Hoyka of Astoria, a Lutheran minister, preached in the Finn and Swedish languages at the Academy last Sunday evening, and again last night. The reverend gentleman is quite a favorite with his countrymen, who turned out in full force to hear him. He will remain here until next Sunday, when he will go to Empire to return home via Drains.

The Empire City drug store wants its patrons to know that the brand of uncolored Japan tea which it is now importing under the name of "Sunbeam Tea" has been cured by the new scientific method called the Perfection Process; which does away with twisting and hand rolling the leaves. "Sunbeam Tea" also cannot be procured except in the Perfection Tea Can.

At Lando & Son's store is an excellent crayon portrait of the senior member of the firm, executed by his son Solomon, a young man 19 years of age, who is a student of the art school at San Francisco. The young gentleman has a natural taste for portrait painting, and the specimen of his work on exhibition at his father's place shows that he is destined to become an artist of celebrity.

Among the horses entered for the race at the Empire beach at a o'clock next Saturday are Garfield's Joe, W. H. Noble's colt, S. H. Hazard's colt and Gallie's filly. Other horses from down the coast may put in an appearance. The entrance fee is $25 and the race is open till Saturday morning to all comers from Coos and Curry counties, without regard to age, size, color or previous service.

Rev. A. R. Bickenbach met with good success in the organization of a Sunday school at the Academy last Sunday. About 75 scholars put in an appearance and eight classes were formed. It is expected that the number of scholars and classes will be increased next Sunday. The ladies' missionary society of this place have purchased and presented to the school 50 volumes that will be appreciated by the children.

Last Friday John Bear came out second best in a rough-and-tumble engagement he had with one of his yardling bulls that he was endeavoring to corral, at the Abrahamson ranch on W/Manch slough. John got the calf cornered, when it went for him red-eyed and he went to grass to save himself. The animal endeavored to gore Bear while he was down, but fortunately the only injuries inflicted were severe bruises at the left breast and arm. The calf is still at large, intact. John says the next time he goes for that calf it will be with a good gun.

The Fourth in Marshfield.

At a meeting of citizens at Norman's hall last night it was resolved to celebrate the 4th of July in this place. Nothing very grand is contemplated, but the magnitude of the celebration will depend upon the sentiment of the people and their liberality in putting up the necessary coin for it. The feeling at the meeting last night was in favor of an oration and a basket picnic at the grove. Hon. C. B. Watson will be invited to deliver the oration. A committee appointed to wait upon our citizens will begin the work to-day and after the sense of the people has been tested a programme for the celebration will be adopted.

Arrivals and Departures.

The steamer Arcata arrived last Friday, with the following list of passengers: S. R. Davis, H. Clemens, Mr. Hennessy, Capt. D. R. Dale, Mrs. Forbes, H. Pien, Mrs. E. A. Blackman, Mrs. Gammon, Miss Gammon, Mrs. Anderson and two children, Mrs. Erlanson and child, Capt. Thos. Harkins and steward, and one in the steerage.

The steamer sailed for San Francisco Monday, with the following named passengers: Henry Wade, D. McKay, John Norman and wife, Mrs. R. L. Agers, Thos. Johnson, David Morse Jr., R. Robinson, Henry Sengstacken, J. S. Green, wife and daughter, and two children.

Suicide at Empire.

Last Saturday morning Henry Kroger, better known as "Old Sigel," was found dead in his cabin just below Empire, having hung himself by the neck from one of the beams. Kroger had been on the bay a good many years; was temperate in habits, and was considered eccentric. He was a German by birth, and the story goes that he fled his native land on account of having killed a man in a duel. It is said he was a graduate of a noted German college, and also that he served in the German army. He fought on the union side during the late rebellion, and afterwards was in the regular army and held a non-commissioned officer. At one time he was stationed at Fort Klamath, from which place he was a deserter. Very little is known in regard to him. Several years ago, during a severe illness, he lost his power of speech, which never fully returned to him, and he could speak but few words up to the time of his death. No cause is assigned for his suicide.

Another New Steamer for Coos Bay.

A contract has been closed between the Newport coal company and the Union iron works of San Francisco for the construction of a steel steamer for the Coos bay trade. Her dimensions are to be as follows: Length, 307 feet; beam, 30 feet; hold, 16 feet. She is intended to carry 1000 tons of coal on 12 1/2 feet of water. Her engines will be compound, with 24 and 48-inch cylinders of 38-inch stroke. She will have a speed of 12 knots an hour, and cabin accommodations, with all the modern improvements, for 34 passengers. This is a new departure in ship building on this coast. The extensive plant of the Union iron works recently erected at the Potrero, which comprises machine and boiler shops, a hydraulic dock and an iron ship-building yard, enables them to build or repair ships with equal facility with any dock yard in the world. The Newport company's steamer will be the first iron sea-going vessel built on the Pacific coast. For the foregoing information, we are indebted to Capt. Holt and Capt. Marshall of the steamer Arcata, and therefore it is reliable.

Launch of the New Steamer.

Last Saturday evening witnessed the successful launching of the new steamer that Capt. Reed has had on the ways at this place for the past few months. She rides the water gracefully, and all parties interested in her express themselves as highly pleased with her appearance.

The owners of the new vessel changed their minds in regard to her name, and at the time she glided into the water Capt. Reed's little girl Gussie broke the customary bottle of wine and christened the new steamer "Coos Bay," instead of "Marshfield," as it was intended to call her.

Tuesday morning the Coos Bay was towed to North Bend, where her two masts were put in place. She was taken there for the purpose because of the stationaries facilities there for doing the work. In the evening she was brought back to this place, where Capt. Reed and his men are at work on her cabins, while Capt. Harkins and his crew are doing the rigging.

As the machinery for the new steamer is to be put in at San Francisco by the Fulton iron works, Capt. Reed and some of his men will go below with the steamer to complete his part in building her after the machinery has been put in.

Instead of taking down a cargo of coal, as he at one time intended to do, Capt. Harkins now intends to load with match wood, and for that purpose will take his vessel to Empire in a few days. It is probable that she will leave the bay for San Francisco the latter part of next week. Capt. Harkins expects to have her ready to start from San Francisco on her regular coasting trade by the 10th of August next. G. A. Harrington, who was boatwain of the Tagama when she was wrecked near Gardiner some 18 months ago, has been engaged as mate of the Coos Bay. Joe Shingle will be one of the able seamen to take her below.

The dimensions of the Coos Bay are: Length over all, 144 feet; keel, 134 feet; beam, 26 feet; hold, 8 feet; between decks, 6 feet.

On the 9th inst. Henry Hiden was at North Cove, W. T., from which place he wrote back that he had thus far had a very pleasant trip, barring a little adventure here and some other bad luck with a crazy man named Whitlock, soon after the steamer Montano left Oysterville to cross the bay. Whitlock was walking about the deck of the boat with a pair of pipe tongues in his hands, when a man named Slack came along and stopped to talk with him. Whitlock struck Slack over the eye with the tongues, knocked him down and then attempted to throw him overboard, which he doubtless would have succeeded in had not Hiden jumped upon his back and pinioned his arms. This scene created an intense excitement aboard the little steamer, which put about for Oysterville, where Whitlock was turned over to the sheriff. Slack was not badly hurt, but he had a narrow escape from being thrown overboard and probably drowned.

Some of the moneyed men of Roseburg recently sent out a surveying party under J. M. Arrington to collect data for them along the route of the proposed railroad between Coos bay and Roseburg. The surveyors finished their field work last week and this week they returned to Roseburg. W. H. Pichford, an old-time type, was one of the party, and made a flying trip to the bay before going back home. Bill's robust appearance indicates high living and good health at Roseburg. Long may they prevail and may his head never grow less.

Mrs. T. J. Lynch has received a letter announcing the death of Mrs. Katie Swan at San Francisco on the 21st inst. Mrs. Swan was Mrs. Lynch's cousin and was formerly a resident of this place.

On gloomy days when there is no sunshine, a cup of the Empire City drug store "Sunbeam Tea" invigorates and stimulates the over-taxed system.

C. W. Olive, deputy grand master, has organized Beulah chapter, No. 6, order of the Eastern Star, at Coquille City. The following named officers were installed for the ensuing year: Mrs. McDonald, W. M.; Wm. Morris, W. P.; Mrs. B. F. Collier, A. M.; Mrs. Carothers, secretary; Mrs. Morris, treasurer; Mrs. Skelly, C.; Mrs. Yager, A. C.; Mrs. Aiken, A.; Mrs. Olive, R.; Mrs. Tension, E.; Mrs. Roy, M.; Mrs. Willard, E.; Miss M. Robinson, warden; P. Robinson, sentinel.

Elsewhere we give space to a couple of clippings from San Francisco papers that were sent to John Kenyon to put our unwary citizens on their guard and good behavior when they visit the metropolis of the Pacific. The Pacific Coast Detective agency referred to is the one under which R. V. Pierce was acting when he got the detective cage a short time before he left this place in such an unceremonious manner.

W. A. Border of Myrtle Point was 51 years old on the 3d inst., on which occasion a few of his intimate friends presented him with an elegant gold watch and chain. Carl Volkmar made the presentation speech, after which nice cakes were cut and good champagne flowed freely in the parlors of the Myrtle Point hotel.

Geo. Davis has taken the contract to move the Centennial hotel from Uter City to Empire. He receives $500 for the work and agrees to have the house on Mrs. Jackson's lot at Empire and give her possession of it on or before the 5th of August next; but he expects to complete the job in less than 30 days.

The old boiler from the wreck of the Gunite Telfair is to be sent to San Francisco. Geo. Davis has taken the contract to bring the boiler from Empire to North Bend, where it will be put aboard the Laura-Madsen, which vessel is now on her way up.

The officers of Gen. Lytle post, No. 26, G. A. R., were installed at Coquille City last Friday evening by W. A. Bantz, chief mustering officer of the department of Oregon. Charles S. True is post commander and H. J. Tolias is adjutant.

Baker post No. 8, G. A. R., have received an invitation to participate in the celebration at Coquille City on the 4th of July. The matter of its acceptance or declination will probably be settled at the next meeting of the post.

The schooner Emma Uter brought up nearly 100 tons of freight and no ballast this morning. Among her freight was 40 tons of hay of different parties and a large lot of new and elegant furniture for F. Mark.

The great army reunion and military tournament to be held at McMinnville on the 13th, 16th and 17th of July next promises to be one of the grandest events of the season.

On the same plan as that held at Portland last year. Parts from all parts of the state will be in attendance, several pieces of artillery will be brought up, and the governor and staff will be present. Several companies of infantry and cavalry will be organized and fully equipped for the occasion in various parts of the county and state.

A PRIVATE DETECTIVE.

Is It an Attempt at Blackmail?

[San Francisco Report, June 9.]

This morning H. D. Whitmore, in the employ of Private Detective H. J. Lucas, was arrested at the office of the latter, at 215 Kearny street, and charged with false imprisonment and carrying a concealed weapon. The facts of the case, ascertained by a Daily Report representative, are as follows: Some time ago a young man named George E. Price arrived in this city from Portland, Oregon, where he had been involved in an affair with a woman. This information coming to Lucas, he employed Whitmore to dog Price, and on Saturday Price was caught on that occasion through some technicality. Lucas will probably be arrested for complicity in this affair.

The Notorious Albert J. Lucas Arrested for Personating an Officer.

[San Francisco Post, June 9.]

Albert J. Lucas is the head of the so called "Pacific Coast Detective agency," 215 Kearny street. Through this individual's peculiar mode of operating and the questionable character of the "detective" work that he engages in, he has frequently been behind fastidiously bars and bolts. Some time ago he served a term in the Alameda county jail for personating a United States officer, and a few months ago he and his "pal," C. J. Walker, were arrested for obtaining money by blackmail. This man Lucas, who Walker pleaded guilty and is doing time, while Lucas escaped conviction. His latest exploit, in which he has involved an unsuspecting and unsophisticated stranger, secured his arrest to-day, resulting in an offer and false imprisonment. This morning Counselor Clarke was visited by Robert Ash, the attorney who complained that Lucas had under close surveillance George E. Price, a young man who, it is claimed, had seduced a girl in Portland. Ash did not know by what authority Lucas detained Price, but he did know that Price had informed him that Lucas offered to let him go and settle the matter on payment of $500. Price had not been in the city long, and he gave me a bill to collect on Saturday, on the city front, where Price had been working in a lumber office. Officer Cummings was dispatched to Lucas's office, but that worthy was not in. Two young men were there, however. One of them was Price, while the other was H. D. Whitmore, his keeper, and one of Lucas' "detectives." Both were taken to the Central station, and Whitmore was booked for personating an officer and false imprisonment. When asked by what authority he held Price in custody, Whitmore, with the proud consciousness of authority, displayed a badge emblazoned, "Pacific Coast Detective." When informed that the badge was about as lawful as a tin star, Whitmore looked dazed. His story, if true, did not try to be but a blind tool of the great fraud. Said he to the Post reporter: "I came from Chicago only a week ago. I had been in the commission business there. While in search of employment I saw Lucas' sign and applied to him for work. He gave me a bill to collect on a dry goods clerk on account of a forged check. I visited several places to find this party, but as no one seemed to know anything about him I brought the bill back. Last Saturday afternoon Lucas introduced me to Price and told me I was to 'tail him,' which expression he explained meant to follow him. Lucas said he had a warrant for Price's arrest; but that he expected to 'settle the case.' I went with Price to the theater that evening, and several other places. He did not try to get away, and we soon became good friends. He told me all about the trouble. We roomed together, and I took no precautions to guard him, for he told me he would not run away. Whitmore confessed that he had never heard of Lucas before, and consequently did not know what bad company he was in. 'Well,' he continued, 'I remained a detective to him, you are fortunate in being arrested, for if you had not parted company with that man you might have brought up in San Quentin.'

California Crops Damaged by Rain.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—The heavy rains of the past few days have wrought all but disaster to the growing crops, just now approaching harvest. Thousands of tons of hay have been ruined, as it lay out in the fields, and the half-price wheat has been prostrated. The damage already is reckoned at millions of dollars, and as the barometer is still low, it is feared that the heavy rains will continue. Reports being received to-night show that the late rains have done enormous damage to the crops. At Hanford the rainfall to-day was one and a quarter inches. Hundreds of tons of hay lying in the fields will be a total loss, while thousands of acres of grain are laid flat on the ground. A dispatch from Salinas says: "The rains have been the heaviest ever experienced in the valley in the month of June. Thousands of tons of hay are lying in the fields, a heavy mass, rotted and unfit for any use. All the heavy barley is down, most of it beyond recovery. Wheat is in the same state. The loss to farmers in this section from these rains will be not less than half a million dollars." News from Livermore is that all the hay, fully 5000 tons, may be put down, and a total loss. The grain crop has been benefited.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—At Grass valley it is still raining; the hay crop is seriously damaged. At Rio Vista nearly an inch of rain has fallen during the last 24 hours; the hay and grain crops are damaged to a considerable extent. At Marysville it is still raining, but crops so far have not seriously suffered. At Butte City last night's rain did much damage, and fears are now entertained that the down grain will not mature. At Santa Barbara the loss of hay and grain from the rains will probably reach a quarter of a million dollars. Regarding the year's grain crop, it is estimated that the rains of this week have already reduced it 10 per cent. Should the rains be followed by hot winds, the reduction would be largely increased.

The rainfall at this point during the last 24 hours was .48 of an inch; total for the month, 2.38. The signal service bureau reports that the greatest rainfall in San Francisco for June, in any year excepting the present one since 1880 is 2.07. At Sacramento, which is a better point of indication for the whole state, the greatest rainfall in June during the same period of 34 years is 2.10. The rainfall therefore during the 13 days of June in this year has been more than double that of the entire month of June in any preceding year.

Edwin F. Smith, secretary of the state board of agriculture, in a communication addressed to-day to the associated press, says: "The quality of hay saved, without reference to the quantity, will be reduced at least 60 per cent. The ultimate loss to the wheat and barley crops cannot yet be determined. What is wanted, he says, 'is cool, clear weather; then a few days of wind; but should the present wet weather continue much longer the loss would be almost incalculable.'

Petaluma reports that a heavy rain is falling this evening, and that it is raining. It is feared the rainfall has been the heaviest ever known there at this season; the hay crop is wrecked, but later sown grain is doing well. At Colusa the prospects were for more rain. Whitmore says the bulk of the hay crop was secured before the rains set in; the damage to the wheat crop so far is not great. At Arbutus the damage to crops is great. Chico says two inches of rain has fallen during the last 48 hours, and no sign yet of it stopping; the hay and wheat crops are badly damaged; it is impossible yet to state to what extent. At Salinas it rained more or less during the day, with prospects for a continuance; farmers are discouraged. At Fresno it has rained all day, but the wind is blowing from the southwest. Hollister says the chances are that the storm is not yet over. The damage in that section is great.
