Why Sugar Is So Cheap.

Why Sugar Is So Cheap. "Philadelphia Record.] Something has knocked the price of sugar to a lower peg than it has ever been known to go before the war. The best sugar can be bought at retail at a little over 8 cetts, and granulated star retail at a little over 8 cetts, and granulated star star wholesale. The brown sugars and the lowest grades of white sugar can be bought and the lowest grades of white sugar are cheap in proportion. Speculators are at their wits ends to know whether to take the bear or built end of the market, but many operators do not hesitate to say that prices have not reached bot-tom yet, and one broker declared that he ex-pected to buy granulated sugar at less than 6 ents before the end of the year. This fall in price has certainly not been caused by any fall-ing off in demand. The market never was so active and the consumption is enormous. In less than s year it has increased one-fourth, and the United States are using over s5 per cent, more sugar than they did last summe. At the same time the stock of raw sugar is greater than the way we may an end the year at the store of the store the store of the pranking off in demand. Milk in Hot Weather.

Milk in Hot Weather. Roberts, the Hartford scaler, gives an expla-tations of the taint of milk which is often noticed due being taken from the ice. "Most people out milk on top of the ice. The cold current de-cends and comes up on the other side, after be-ing more or less heated. On the second trip he sir loaded with the scents of the different ar-icles goes directly into the milk and stays there, semanase the impurities will be attracted by mois-ure. Now place the milk under the ice and out will see that odors of the different foods will be left on the ice, and the milk will be as pure rom had ameli or taste as when put there. I ave placed a glass of water on ice in one side d a refrigerater and a box of strawberries in the other. In three hours the water was colored one the impurities of the berries. This is clearly good illustration of my point on milk. Milk is one of the grantest absorbing liquids; it hould never be left in the sick-room or wherever areas areas on water left in your sleeping-room oer night; that comes from the impurities of array blace a glass of water in my poon blaces retiring." We ordinarily hear at this season many com-plaints against that nozious pest, the Canada thistle. Unfortunate it is that no good use can be found for the thistle, for then insect ene-mies would hop on it in swarms and devour it from the face of the earth.

In finishing cutlery the English manufactur-ers use almost exclusively the shank bones of cattle, the best qualities of which are so good as to be mistaken for ivory by the inexperienced eye. The United States sends to Great Britain annually about $300,000 worth of bones, horns and hoofs.

It would be chemper, no doubt, to offer a prize to the first whaler who finds and brings home a chip from the north pole than fit out coatly government expeditions. To the icy soli-tudes of the north the hardy scamea make many trips, of which nothing is heard through the trump of fame.

Chinese and Japanese goods have so de-lined in price in this country that manufacturclined in price in this country that manufactur-ers at home are putting in cheaper materials. Glove boxes that about the time of the Philadel-phia centennial sold as high as $250, can now be bought anywhere for 15 cents. It is only ma-terial which makes these things cost; labor counts for little or nothing in China or Japan.

A Philadelphia dealer says the reason of the carpet trade being in a so much better condi-tion than many other industries is that there are no commission men, the goods being sold di-rectly to the dealers by the manufacturer.
