Beecher's Troubles.

The telegraph gave us a mere outline of Beecher's speech of contrition, which, with the full text that comes by mail, affords opportunity for further comment.

As to my late political course, I felt that the great party which will go down to history crowned with honor for its works would receive the last blossom of honor if it brought in a sentiment of unity and love for every part of the country.

Mr. Beecher had declared in one of his speeches, "that if all those who had violated the seventh commandment should vote for Cleveland his majority would be 200,000 in New York."

Ignorance, and not spiritualism, is the cause of crime being committed, and when one understands the true philosophy of spiritualism he will know that no one can throw off his sins on anybody else, but that each individual all over the world is responsible for all his thoughts and actions, and attract to themselves either good or bad by the course of their life.

Mean Solar Time.

On the 1st inst. the new method of computing time went into effect at the Greenwich observatory, in England. For purposes of astronomical calculations, men of science have frequently counted the day as one of 24 hours, beginning at midday, and two leading nations of the world, the Italian and the Chinese, have never divided the solar day, as we have done, into two portions, ante meridian and post meridian.

The new method of counting straight on from 1 o'clock to 2 o'clock will distress some old-fashioned people at first, but it will not be long before everybody gets accustomed to it. It will obviate many inconveniences. Everybody remembers the story of the three good fellows who shut themselves up with a demijohn of 1861 whiskey and had a glorious time for ever so long.

Under the new dispensation the workman, if it had been 7 o'clock in the evening, would have said that it was 19 o'clock. The day will begin at midnight and go straight on till the next midnight.

ure of time. Not only will the dials have to be arranged to admit of 24 figures in the circle, or six to the arc of the right angle, instead of three as now, but the wheels will have to be changed so that the hour hand shall travel just half as fast as it does in our present watches. This will be a good thing for the watchmakers, for a large proportion of the people will buy new watches instead of having the old ones altered.

What a Spiritualist Says.

SALEM, Jan. 2, 1885.—It may be thought that spiritualism was the cause of the tragedy at Chehalis, when in fact it was the lack of knowledge of what constitutes true spiritualism that caused the crime. The operation of God's laws are universal, and whether one violates them ignorantly or willfully, no matter what the individual's creed or religion may be, he brings ill to himself.

Ignorance, and not spiritualism, is the cause of crime being committed, and when one understands the true philosophy of spiritualism he will know that no one can throw off his sins on anybody else, but that each individual all over the world is responsible for all his thoughts and actions, and attract to themselves either good or bad by the course of their life.

Tragedy at a Ball.

JERSEYVILLE, Ills., Jan. 2.—Calhoun county has neither railway nor telegraph, and at this season of the year is cut off from all communication, such as is afforded by river and stage coach. A courier to-day brought news of a desperate shooting affray at a ball near Belchertown in that county, Christmas eve.

A good story from Paris of the theft of a clock is told in the Pall Mall Gazette. A lady, having paid her hotel bill, sent away her boxes on a cab and sallied forth on foot. No sooner had she departed than the landlord discovered that the clock had disappeared from the mantle-piece of the room which his late lodger had been occupying.

Evidence is every day presented that wages are controlled by the law of supply and demand. When there is no demand no combination of workmen, however strong in numbers, can prevent a reduction in the price of labor.

The truth must be told, though it may cause thousands of democratic hearts to ache. Of the 50,000 postoffices at the disposal of the administration, nearly half do not pay a salary of $50 a year.

The Hawaiian Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Carter, Hawaiian minister, in conversation with an associated press reporter to-day concerning the proposed extension of the Hawaiian treaty, said much has been written and said adverse to the treaty, based upon a misapprehension as to the facts. The commercial advantages to Americans he knew to be greater than generally understood. Of course merchants and traders of the Pacific coast were the most benefited, and statements to the effect that the Pacific coast people were not in favor of the continuance of the present trade relations with Hawaii are unfounded.

But the advantages to Americans were not all involved in the retail price of sugars. The American export trade to the islands had, under the treaty, grown from almost nothing to $4,000,000 a year. It was estimated, he said, that American ownership in Hawaiian sugar plantations amounted to $10,500,000; in oceanic mercantile marine, $3,500,000; in inter-island mercantile marine, $1,500,000; American banking capital, $3,500,000; American mortgages on foreign-owned property, $1,000,000; total $20,000,000; an investment upon which Americans made interest and profit aside from that made upon $12,250,000, the annual import and export trade.

Chestnut Horses the Most Active.

The Arabs of Salara are very particular as to the color of their horses. White is the color for princes, but does not stand heat. The black brings good fortune, but fears rocky ground. The chestnut is the most active. If one tells you that he has seen a horse fly in the air, ask of what color it was; if he replies "chestnut," believe him. In a combat against a chestnut you must have a chestnut. The bay is the hardest and most sober. If one tells you a horse has leaped to the bottom of a precipice without hurting himself, ask of what color he was, and if he replies "bay," believe him. Ben. Dyab, a renowned chief of the desert, happening one day to be pursued by Saad el Zenaty, turned to his son and asked: "What horses are in the front of the enemy?" "White horses," replied the son. "It is well; let us make for the sunny side and they will melt away like butter." Some time afterward Ben. Dyab again turned to his son and said: "What horses are in front of the enemy?" "Black horses," cried his son. "It is well. Let us make for stony ground and we shall have nothing to fear. They are the negroes of the Soudan, who cannot walk with bare feet upon the flints." He changed his course and the black horses were speedily distanced. A third time Ben. Dyab asked: "And now what horses are in front of the enemy?" "Dark chestnuts and dark bays." "In that case," said Ben. Dyab, "strike out, my children, strike out, and give your horses the heel, for these might perchance overtake us had we not given barley to ours all the summer through."

Some Useful Hints for Smokers.

If all pipes were equally durable, they might be classed, according to their merits, as follows: First, soft earthen pipe; second, meerschaum; third, hard earthen pipe, white or colored; fourth, wooden pipe; fifth, porcelain pipe; sixth, metallic pipe. The white earthen pipe, porous and permeable to liquids, is put first because it is a good absorber of nicotine; the metallic pipe is put last because it allows all the noxious products formed during the combustion of tobacco to reach the mouth of the smoker. The meerschaum, which immediately follows the clay pipe, deserves its place only on one condition, that is, if not too old. If it is seasoned it is as bad as a wooden or porcelain pipe. The seasoning, of which pipes have hung, may be full of charms to the amateur; to the hygienist it simply indicates that the pipe has had its day, and is now saturated with tobacco juice, and it must be replaced by another one, or be passed through the fire to purify it, as is done in the coffee houses of Holland. Every old pipe, browned with long use, leaves on the lips and tongue an acrid and strong smelling liquid which irritates the tissues and corrodes the mucous secretions. When it has reached this condition the finest meerschaum is no better than the meanest scorch throat. Independently of the substance, the form of the pipe has an influence on the proportion of noxious ingredients which tobacco smoke contains. Turkish and Indian pipes, in which tobacco is burned slowly, discharging its smoke through a liquid, arrest a large proportion of the poisonous ingredients. The bowl of the German pipe retains the greater part of the oily products; the Dutch and English clay pipes retain less. The metallic pipes of Tibet, becoming heated, carry to the mouth not only brown liquids saturated with nicotine, but also a smoke hot enough to burn the tongue.

A Mourful Combination for Sunday.

A woman is far more sensitive than a man. She has finer feelings and a more delicate mind. There are a very few men who realize this, and in consequence women is made to endure much unnecessary suffering. One of our merchants was going to church with his wife on Sunday morning, when she suddenly stopped and put her hand to her head. "What is the matter?" he asked, startled by the look on her face. "Oh, I have got on my brown hat." "Eh?" ejaculated the astonished man. She burst into tears. "What, Martha, what is the matter with you?" he demanded. "Don't you see what is the matter?" she returned in a sobbing voice. "I've got on my brown hat with my striped silk. Oh, what will people say?"

Whom the Governor Receives.

A Gentleman who has business with the governor of Arkansas enters the state house, and is met by the negro porter. "I wish to see the governor." "Yes sah; business particular?" "Well, that's neither here nor there. I wish to see him." "In co'se, sah! in co'se. Does yer want ter see him bad? Hol' on, sah. Er yer wants ter comperment his 'ministration he ain't 'gaged, but ef yer wants ter git er pardon fer er evil pusion, he is. Now, which is it, sah?" "I have come to tell him that the people of the Bear Wallow district have indorsed him for the United States senate."

She Wanted the Best.

Clerk—"This silk is worth $3 a yard and is very narrow measure. Here is some nice summer silk at fifty cents a yard." Kitchen lady—"An' is it in style?" "The very height of style. Only yesterday I sold a pattern from this to Mrs. Blank, whom you know is a leader of fashion." "Oh, I know that there woman very well. I lives at her house." "Shall I cut you off some?" "No, indeed, I wouldn't like to be mistaken for her. Give me the $3 stuff."

The Innocence of Childhood

"Ain't you almost boiled?" inquired a kid of a gentleman calling on her father and mother. "No, little one, I can't say that I am. On the contrary, I feel quite comfortable." "That's funny. I should think you would be."
