The Coast Mail.

MARSHFIELD, OREGON:

Thursday, September 3, 1885

County court will meet next Monday.

John Levar's logging camp at Sumner is again in active operation.

W. L. Thomas of Newport is again having a tough time with his ancient rheumatism, he having been idle therefrom for several weeks last past.

Miss Lillian Glass returned to the bay last Saturday, from San Francisco, by way of Portland and the valley, where she visited her relatives.

Master Bob Merchant started for Portland Monday last, by Laird's line and Roseburg, to resume his studies at the Bishop Scott grammar school.

The teachers for the public school to begin at this place next Monday are F. A. Golden, principal; Miss Lillian Glass, intermediate department, and Miss Bean primary department.

The Bayview brewery is receiving a new roof. Dull times have no terrors for Clemmensen & Evanoff, who keep the hammer and saw sounding around their premises nearly all the time, in improvements of one kind or another.

Harry Lockwood returned to the bay last Saturday, from a trip up north during which he visited Tacoma, Olympia, Seattle, Victoria and different points on the Canada Pacific railroad. Harry reports time as being better here than any place he visited while absent.

Last week fishermen in the bay took two genuine eastern sea bass, said to be the first of their species captured in these waters. They weighed about 25 pounds each and those who partook of them pronounced them unusually good eating.

Congressman Binger Hermann, who recommended the establishment of a daily mail route between Dora and Myrtle Point, has received notice from the postmaster general that the route has been established. This is as it should be, provided the new route be run in a way to give this place daily communication with Myrtle Point.

Evensen & Lackstrom have received their new furniture and have leased the room adjoining the Coos Bay market, opposite their shop, where the new furniture is on exhibition and for sale at lower rates than have ever ruled here before. The assortment is complete and persons in need of furniture should, by all means, give Evensen & Lackstrom a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. A. Egenhoff returned to Astoria the latter part of last week, to resume his place as engineer on the tug Astoria. While he was here he took the machinery out of the little steamer Lulu and stored it on shore, instead of preparing her for business, and she is now light and free from danger of sinking. In summer, the three Astoria tugs alternate in lying up a month to give the employes a vacation, and while Julius was here the Astoria was tied up.

Hon. Wm. Hall and Major A. G. Brown made many friends during their legislative terms, and their influence has procured the major the postoffice at this place, and the same influence ought to and probably will secure the custom-house for Hall, who is undoubtedly the choice of his party for the place by a large majority, but those few who run the ring oppose Hall because he is an upright man, politically and every other way, that they cannot run.

During some horse talk on the street last Sunday Lyman Noble offered to back W. H. Noble's Clamdigger mare against J. D. Garfield's Joe Woodbury for $500 a-side for a distance of half a mile, on a track to be agreed upon and the race to take place in six weeks. Garfield accepted the challenge and the men agreed to put up a forfeit next day, but whether they did or not we don't know. When the banter was made and accepted both men were a little hot in the color, and the chances are that when they cooled down they forgot all about it and the race will not be run.

Emil Erickson came near being killed at the Empire mill last Saturday by the carelessness of a fellow workman knocking the prop from beneath a log while Erickson had his head under it and was engaged in adjusting the chain by which the logs are held to be rolled over. As Erickson saw and felt the log coming upon his head, he vigorously sounded the alarm and his companion possessed sufficient presence of mind to throw his mail under the log and thus prevent it descending upon and instantly crushing Erickson's skull. Fortunately, Erickson escaped with only a few bruises about the forehead, but the call for his entire cranium was altogether too close for comfort on his part about that unhappy period in his career.

W. A. Luse receives much praise from his neighbors on South Coos river for the enterprise he has displayed in improving the Collier place since he bought it. It was always a good place, but Luse has made it better and much prettier than it was when he went there, and the slating that he has had done and the land that he has reclaimed show a progressive spirit worthy of imitation by others who have good land that needs improving in a similar way. The new barn that Luse has had built on the place since he took it presents the appearance from a distance of being the palatial residence of a nabob, and his thoroughbred stock is represented as doing remarkably well and equaling in excellence any stock in the county.

Dr. Tower and family and ye editor hereof are on the Coquille, taking in the fair at Hall's prairie.

Henry Smith of South Coos river is going to Eugene City to attend the state university there this fall and winter.

Don't fall to see that varied assortment of shoulder braces just received at the Blanco Drug Store.

Among the freight carried away by the Coos Bay this last trip were 40,000 feet of lumber, 65 cords of fire and match-wood and 229 sacks of shittim bark.

Monday morning the Myrtle went to the Isthmus loaded with passengers and freight for the fair at Hall's prairie, which is well attended by residents of this place and vicinity.

The dance given last Saturday night by the brass band, was a success in every particular. An unusually large crowd was in attendance, including a delegation from Empire and the brass band of that place.

Mrs. Palmer of Scottsburg arrived on the bay last week, on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Capt. Hill of North Bend. Mrs. Hill left by the last Arago, on a visit to San Francisco, and yesterday Mrs. Palmer returned to Scottsburg.

Next Saturday the C. A. Winchester property in this place, the house and lot adjoining Dr. Tower's residence, will be sold at administrator's sale at the court house door at Empire. It is desirable property and will no doubt bring a fair price.

The tug Fearless, Capt. Hill, left the bay on the 26th ult., for San Francisco, to receive new boilers and undergo an overhauling and such repairs and improvements as she may need, which will probably detain her at that place for five or six weeks.

A letter from Mrs. Chas. Thornquist of East Oakland, Cal., brings the welcome news to her relatives and friends here that Albert Kourikoske, her cousin and also a cousin of the late Charley Forslund, was recently killed in southern California by being run over by the railway cars. Kourikoske was a young man, on his way from the old country to visit relatives and friends on this coast.

Just as we go to press the rumor comes that Jim Aiken's Sammy Tiden won the stallion race at the fair. There were three entries, but of what horses we could not learn. The distance run was one mile, and it is said Sammy was fifty feet or more behind the leading horse when the quarter pole was reached, but came out on the finish ahead by several lengths.

Huden & Young are the agents for the celebrated Oregon Grape Root Bitters and Frederickburg Beer, and a large supply of both was received by them on the last steamer.

Last Friday afternoon C. H. Merchant met with a severe accident at Dean & Co's mill No. 2, at Aaronville. He was standing near where a man named Jas. McIntosh was using a maul in driving stakes or something of that kind, when the maul, weighing 30 or 40 pounds, flew from the handle and struck him on the left temple, knocking him insensible for a time. He was picked up cared for and made as comfortable as possible at the mill until the Myrtle reached there on her way to this place, when he was brought down, in a dazed condition, conveyed to his residence and Dr. Tower called to attend him. The doctor found Mr. Merchant suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, but no fracture of the skull. Next day he was better, and by Monday he was able to sit up some. He is now steadily improving and after a few days of rest he will be able to again attend to business.

Of late the dense fogs prevailing at the bar have been very annoying and troublesome to the steamer captains, to say nothing of the delay caused to schooners. This last trip of the Arcata she was detained outside 38 hours, awaiting an opportunity to come in. The last trip but one of the Arago, she was also detained about as long before she could come in. Capt. Holt's description of the fog on that occasion verifies the oft-repeated assertion that it sometimes gets so thick that it can be chopped up in chunks. While feeling around with his vessel and waiting and watching for a chance to slip in whenever the fog might lift for a few minutes, the captain says his steamer left astern a perfect arch of tunnel in the fog that could be seen for a distance of a half-mile or more. Holt says he has often heard of fog so thick that it could be cut, but that that was his first experience in cutting it.

The removal of Thos. Hirst from the postoffice in this place cannot be justly based on "offensive partisanship," for he has taken about as small a part in politics as any man could be expected to take who has any politics at all; and as to discharging the duties of the office satisfactorily, we have never heard a word of complaint against Hirst. But we are not finding any fault with the change nor the new appointee. We simply want the matter to go upon record right. Hirst is a good man, who votes the republican ticket. Brown is a good man, who votes the democratic ticket. The difference in the tickets they vote is the difference in the men, and the only credit this reform administration is entitled to for making the change is that of reforming a republican out and reforming a democrat in. We have a curiosity to behold the color of the hair on the republican scalp that Cleveland does not lift and carry in his belt before his term expires.

At the sheriff's sale last Saturday at Empire the Goheen property was bought in by Fred Jarvis for $850.

Wild ducks are already making their appearance on the bay and its tributaries but are too wild to hunt successfully.

Second hand school books in good order for sale at Sengstacken Drug Store at half price.

The steamer Comet went on the beach below Empire yesterday afternoon for the purpose of being generally overhauled. She will resume her regular route in a day or two.

The Knights of Pythias will give a ball at this place on Saturday evening, September 26, it being the ninth anniversary of Myrtle Lodge No. 3. We are informed that the Knights intend making this the affair of the season, and preparations are being made for a large crowd.

A rod and gun club was organized in town last Saturday night under the name of the Coos Bay Rod & Gun Club. Dr. C. W. Tower was elected president, Major Tower vice president, Dr. C. B. Golden treasurer, and Chas. E. Stokes secretary. The object of the club is the enforcement of the game laws, and the punishment of those who violate them, and other measures calculated to advance such objects as usually come within the purview of a rod and gun club. Already 41 names appear on the roll of membership.

A man named Victor Anderson had the misfortune to have his leg broken by falling through a bridge on the trail between here and Empire. The trail is an abandoned county road, and its many bridges are unsafe, and it is surprising that some one has not been hurt before. Anderson was brought to this place Monday, and taken charge of by Dr. McCormac. Anderson is a sailor and a new-comer on the bay, and of late has been employed in the saw mill at Empire.

Tuesday evening Capt. H. W. Dunham tumbled from an embankment about 15 feet high near his house. Dunham has been making an excavation in the hill back of his dwelling, and using the earth to fill up a bulk-head near the street. The work has been progressing finely and had risen to a height of about 15 feet, when yesterday afternoon during a heavy fog, Dunham, wheel-barrow and all went over the embankment. The wheel-barrow was uninjured, and Dunham escaped with a few slight bruises which will disable him for a day or two only. We hope soon to hear his melodious whistle about town.

The following is the panel of jurors drawn for the September term of circuit court, to convene at Empire on the 21st inst.: G F Blood, Jas L Ferrey, Robt Rooke, W F Elrod, Chas Johnson, S D Butler, Aaron Cory, Chas Hilborn, and J D Bonebrake, of Marshfield; J H Hunt, Noah Leneve, J T Moulton, C Andrews, John Donaldson and P E Draine, of Coquille City; J C Brown, C E G Deitz, Daniel Giles and W L Dixon, of Myrtle Point; W M Foster and S B Sherwood, of Sumner; Edward Fahy Jr, Randolph; Matt Stora, Wm McKnight and A M Colver, Coos river; S B Franklin, Fishtrap; H H Brownson, Angora; J J Clinkinbeard, Daniels Creek; Henry J Schreiner, Hall's prairie; J W Clinton, Noaway, and S Danielson, of Parkersburg.

The shittim bark industry is one that has grown to some prominence in this section and every steamer takes out a considerable amount of bark. It is found in larger quantities here than any other place in the world, and its medicinal properties have made it a valuable bark, and under its Latin name of cascara sagrada it enters largely into the composition of medicines. Every industry develops its king, and John Dully is without doubt the shittim king of this county. Dully during the past year shipped over six thousand five hundred dollars worth of this bark, and thus gave employment to many men who otherwise would have remained idle. There are numerous resources lying undeveloped in this country which can be made as successful as this shittim bark business, and which only want some live, energetic man to push them.

Fine selection of Jewelry and fancy goods just received at Sengstacken Drug Store.

Major A. G. Brown has received notice of his appointment as postmaster at this place, to succeed Thos. Hirst. The major is a fine old southern gentleman, who has secured the position without the active endorsement of the ring-leaders of his party, and, as among the democrats, no one could have been chosen for the place who would have suited us better than the major, who will discharge the duties of the office honestly, impartially and to the best of his ability, which is unquestioned. Major Brown is an old settler on the coast, having reached California about 30 years ago, and he is well and favorably known there, as well as in this state and Idaho territory, and his host of friends, irrespective of party, will be pleased to hear that he holds a commission containing Cleveland's autograph. In the palmy days of mining in California the major operated at Inskip, Butte county. Afterwards he went to Idaho City, I. T., where he was the first recorder and auditor of the county. Later he was recorder and auditor of Alturas county, the same territory, after which he came to southern Oregon, where he has been repeatedly honored with responsible positions in Douglas and Coos counties. The major took up his residence here in 1874. It is probable that he will enter upon his duties as postmaster at the beginning of the new quarter the 1st of next month.

Allen Arrington returned this week from an extended trip to the head waters of Coos river whether he had retreated for the benefit of his health. He looks much better than when he went up, and we hope he will soon be robust again.

Charley Stokes does the biz. at Norton's store during N's absence to the fair, Bob Hutchesson Jr. officiates at Snyder's, and Cox's stand is presided over by Lloyd, who does the tonsororial in place of his senior.

Rumor says Clark Miller of Coquille City has fallen heir to $20,000. If this is true Miller has our congratulations upon his good luck, and if it is false he can have the use of our columns to burn up the man who's trying to injure his credit by such reports.

Many of our business men, including Norton, the Variety man, Snyder and Buckley the hotel men, Cox the barber, and others, have stands at the Coquille fair, whither with their wares they this week repaired to beard the verdant Coquiller on his native heath and buckle on to the nimble six-pence as it issues from its lair thirsting for ice-cream, soda-water, et cetera.

The Union club lately organized here, is now in a flourishing condition. They last week added a billiard table to their other attractions, and the club room is a pleasant, quiet place in which members can while away an idle hour in a social game of chess, billiards or cards. The membership is rapidly increasing. The report that this club was organized to keep married men away from home at night and for the manufacture of family jars, is without foundation.

The steamers Arago and Coos Bay left Empire about the same time on the 23d ult. and arrived at San Francisco on the morning of the 25th—the Arago about an hour ahead. They left San Francisco on their return at about the same time, Thursday and would have reached here close together had not the Coos Bay stopped at Port Orford. The Arago arrived Saturday and the Coos Bay on Sunday.

J. E. Hagenbuch of the Blanco Drug Store has received the agency of the famous "Tausill's Punch" Havana filled 5 cent cigar; this cigar, though never sold on Coos Bay before is meeting with a tremendous success. This is no blow nor bluster as our essay writer has it, but strictly solid facts. Give them a trial and convince yourself.

For the genuine Henry Clay and Punch Cigars go to Sengstacken's Drug Store.

A. G. Brown has been appointed postmaster in place of Thos. Hirst, removed. To Thomas:

Dear sir, we write to let you know, Pursuant to our grand design. We have at length determined to Give you permission to resign Your present office in the state One hour and one-half from this date; Not that you ever cheated, lied, Or, at any rate, did many wicked things beside, But on a late occasion you have voted so As none but a corrupt and vicious man could do.

To the victors belong the spoils.

Arrivals by the Coos Bay, August 30: Mrs Markley, Mrs Levi, A A Pompe, John Adams and Frank Adams.

Arrivals by the Arago, August 29: Mrs B Holm and child and B L Clarkans three children.

Arrivals by the Arcata August 28: J A Steinberger, Mrs Miller and child, G Schumaker, F C Anderson, C O Halsey, A Goodridge, Melander, G E Channing, M Feldman, Wm Preston, S Grandel, and Hans Kosmussen.

Departures by the Arcata, August 29: Mrs Dr Angel and family and G E Channing.

A man named Walker started from Luse's ranch on Coos river to town with a boat load of apples the other day, and on reaching the mouth of the river found the fog so thick that he couldn't cut his way backward or forward and so lying up for the night on the mudflat. He arrived in town about six o'clock the next morning. This is but one of the many capers of the fog, which one man who lost his way on account thereof says was so thick that it was as buoyant as water, and that instead of having been stuck on the mud as he supposed, he had but run up on a fog-bank when the tide went out and left him. When the sun came out hot it limbered up the fog some, and his boat dropped down into the water, which was his first intimation of the state of affairs.

It is something not generally known that Coos bay furnishes nearly all the wood from which the whole Pacific Coast is supplied with matches. We annually ship thousands of cords of match wood to San Francisco, some of which returns to us in the shape of matches, and the balance supplies the demand of the entire coast. There are but three large match factories on the coast and all these get their supply of wood principally from us. This country can supply match wood enough to furnish the whole world matches until some inventor strikes a better light, and then ten chances out of eleven but what we can find something here that will supply that too. The resources of this section are inexhaustible. We have vast forests of dead timber that make the finest quality of match wood, and if some enterprising male match-maker would start a factory here we would not be surprised to hear of the discovery of some unperpetrated bed of sulphur and all other ingredients necessary for the successful operation of the match-making business on a large scale.

For pure Wines and Cigars, for medicinal use go to Sengstacken's Drug Store.

A Successful Institute.

The teachers' institute held at Coquille City last week was a great success and a marked improvement on the one held at this place last year.

M. C. Miller was chosen president; D. L. Rood, vice president, and F. A. Golden and W. A. Welch reporting secretaries.

The teachers present were Prof. E. B. McElroy, Dr. J. T. McCormac, D. L. Rood, F. A. Golden, M. C. Miller, W. A. Welch, K. H. Hansen, Chas. Vandenberg, G. A. Edmunds, W. H. Bunch, Frank Bunch, H. Betty, Jacob Barklow, A. J. Sherwood, W. J. Volkmar, C. Wilkins, Geo. Johnson, L. A. Roberts, Mark Morris, Bonham, L. L. Harmon, Frank Lowe, Robt. W. Bullard, Jas. Barklow, Mrs. D. L. Rood, Miss Bean, Mrs. Etta Pendergrass, Miss Moore, Miss Annie Webber, Miss Emma Chlemens, Miss Clotilda Volkmar, Miss Sadie Hall, Miss Betty, Miss Winnie Fetter, Miss Emma Stann, Miss Florence Smith, Miss Charlotte Vandenberg, Miss Lucinda McCloskey, Miss Alice Bunch, Miss Wilkins, Miss Ads and Miss Leona Lamb, Miss Edith Morris, Miss Florence Lowe and Miss Hoffman.

The following resolutions were adopted:

RESOLVED—That a vote of thanks be tendered Prof. E. B. McElroy for his presence and in the masterly way in which he has assisted us.

RESOLVED—That a vote of thanks be tendered Supt. McCormac for the able way in which he has conducted the institute.

RESOLVED—That a vote of thanks be tendered those who have furnished the music.

RESOLVED—That a vote of thanks be tendered those who have given us the use of the school building and Odd Fellows' hall.

RESOLVED—That a vote of thanks be extended to the citizens of Coquille City who have so generously exhausted their hospitality.

RESOLVED—That a vote of thanks be tendered the citizens who have given us encouragement by their presence.

RESOLVED—That a vote of thanks be tendered the stage and slough boats lines that have so generously reduced fares for our accommodation.

RESOLVED—That a vote of thanks be tendered Hon. John A. Gray for his able and eloquent lecture.

There was a large attendance of school officers and parents and the attendance of teachers was the largest that has ever been at an institute in this county. The published programme was carried out and good work was accomplished generally.

A detailed report of the proceedings of the teachers institute will appear next week. The report contains the subjects discussed during the conventions, and will furnish some valuable hints to teachers who were unable to attend.

Jos. Bowen, the oldest Master Mason in the United States, died at Philadelphia a few days ago aged 94 years. He was installed 60 years ago.

There was a whole sermon on practical morality in the reply of a New York policeman to an English spectator of the Grant funeral procession: "Crowds are better behaved in this country than in mine," said the Englishman. "They're better fed," said the officer.

The expulsion of Poles from Austria has commenced. There is no discrimination made. All classes are served alike. The rich have to go as well as the poor. The Poles are very indignant, but the orders are imperative, and all will be expelled from the country. A few have expressed a determination to come to the United States.

Wm. McCormick, now at the Columbia cascades, has perfected the working model of a tug boat that he claims will navigate the swiftest waters and render unnecessary the construction of locks at the cascades, over which he claims he can pass 40 boats up and 40 boats down every 24 hours. McCormick, like nearly all other inventors, is poor and without even the means to charter a steamer to give a practical test of the merits of his new tug boat. He estimates that $75,000 would put his scheme in successful operation.

From a private letter from Eureka, Cal., the editor of the Gold Beach Gazette obtains the following: "This is the hardest year ever known in Humboldt county by the 'oldest inhabitant.' There are hundreds of men here that cannot get work, and many of them have families to support. Men are working in the woods for from $15 to $30 per month, and some are working for their board. All the old loggers that could left here when wages went down. The great California redwood company raised the 4-1 with the whole lumbering business last season in this county. Business men here say times will look up next spring, but nothing will be done this year. Only four logging camps are running on the bay now, and there is talk of shutting one of them down this week. Merchants and hotel keepers are looking very blue. The largest saloon in Eureka closed out last week."
