And now East Marshfield comes to the front with a big blaze. The brush cut upon the townsite was fired at an early hour yesterday morning, and burned out in good style. The improvements on the townsite make it show up in good shape what it is, one of the most beautiful town sites in Southern Oregon. The church is well along toward completion and will be an imposing structure, standing on its splendid location.

Last Saturday evening a young man named James Waverly was found dead in his bed, at the residence of M. Kerrigan, where he had a room. He came to this place about five or six weeks ago and worked for a few weeks as a waiter in the Blanco Hotel. Coroner Butler took charge of the remains and buried in a jury, who brought in a verdict that he came to his death from some unknown cause. The funeral took place on Monday.

Mrs. Emma Kronenberg, wife of F. W. Kronenberg, died at Coquille City on Monday, July 21st, aged 26 years. Deceased was born in Washington territory, and was taken when a child to California where she spent her early life. She came to this county about ten years ago, and was married to her beloved husband last October. Mrs. Kronenberg was a genuine and true woman, dearly beloved by her best friends and respected by all. The funeral services were conducted on Tuesday at Coquille City by Rev. F. E. Scofield, and were attended by a large audience.

It is gratifying to believe that the prominent persons interested in the progress of the Roseburg railroad do not sympathize with the senseless gable of those who are inclined to call every other enterprise dishonest and a fraud. Capt. Symonds, the Glasgow Company and Judge Holcomb have all invested large sums of money here; their transactions have had a material effect on values, and the Roseburg people or Marshfield people who would attempt to organize a fight on them are far from being far-sighted business men. They have brought the bulk of all the money here which has come in on the boom and the people who are disposed to get in and fight capital coming here are not the representatives of progressive sentiment and are not the right kind of people to build up a country.

A. Giroud, our meat man, has had trouble with his partner, and they have agreed to disagree.

W. H. Getty is putting up a reservoir with a wind mill attached, for the purpose of furnishing his stable with water.

T. Neuhaus has opened a shoemaker shop here. He is a fine workman and will do well, as a shop was badly needed.

L. Harlocker will move with his family to Coquille City, the latter part of this week, where they will hereafter reside.

Dr. J. G. Cook has erected a noble little barn, bought himself a fine horse and buggy, and comes out in fine style. The Dr. doesn't believe in being left.

It is reported that Mrs. Tenbroek has purchased the Methodist church property, consisting of two lots, the parsonage and church. Consideration, $1000.

Fred Jarvis with his wife and two daughters were passengers on the outgoing Ajax. They went below for the purpose of placing the two girls in school.

OBSERVED.

Porter.
Mr. Greenwald makes his headquarters at the mill.

These are beautiful days we are having; the mill running full time and everybody happy.

The steamer Maggie Ross left San Francisco Saturday, for Porter, with passengers and freight.

Geo. Sauters has become a rancher, and taken a claim just across the bay, where he will build a cage and team—

There has been quite an advance in real estate since the boom struck the bay. Property on Porter Ave. is worth one hundred dollars per foot.

The steamer Milton is kept busy carrying freight to the camps and railroad. She is a fine boat and doing a good business, and is a success in every way.

Manager Hinckman, John A. Gray and Otto Greenwald made a flying trip to Coquille City on Saturday in the interest of the California Lumber Co.

E. Rupp caught his fingers between two logs on Monday, and one finger was so badly damaged that amputation became necessary, which was performed by Dr. Spoonole.

The C. H. Merchant has chartered the Cal. Lumber Co. for a cargo to San Francisco. The Bay City mill having closed down for repairs, she did not have a cargo ready.

The new boat is progressing rapidly; the frame is nearly up, and a large gang of men is kept busy getting out material. The boat will be one of the nicest and fastest on the bay.

There is quite a number of ladies and gentlemen of San Francisco, transacting here now, among them Mr. Otto Greenwald, the secretary of the California Lumber Co. Porter is becoming quite a fashionable resort.

The mill stopped Friday for necessary repairs. While stopped, C. R. Sauters, the foreman, put a big gang of men digging a well. Charlie says he is going to put her down 740 feet. Stay with her, Charlie, and you will get there.

The locomotive for the Cal. Lumber Co's railroad, on Coos river, was shipped on the Maggie Ross last week, and is looked for daily at Porter. The heavy timbers put in on the floating wharf are to let the machine down easy, onto a scow.

There is talk of a motor line from Marshfield to Porter. We have a good trail; don't know if the boys would ride if they had a chance, it is such a nice little walk.

Board Resolutions.
Office of Coquille Board of Trade.
Coquille, Coos Co., Oregon.
July 16th, 1890.

Resolved, by the Coquille Board of Trade, that we believe the work on the Middle Fork wagon road is not progressing as rapidly as it should; that the road should have been open for travel long before the present time; that we have been reliably informed that the crew of men working on said road is not supplied with proper appliances for promoting the work at hand; that Coos county is losing a large number of immigrants by the reason of this delay, wherefore we petition and demand that a crew of men, sufficiently large and supplied with proper appliances be put upon this work to complete it forthwith, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the county judge, to each of the county commissioners and be published in our local papers.

A. W. McArthur,
Pres. of Coquille Board of Trade.

Coquille Herald: The steamer Geo. H. Chance from Portland, came into the river Thursday last and took a cargo of white cedar and departed Sunday morning. It is hoped we will yet get up a good trade with Oregon's metropolis.

James Laird, of Bona, informs us that the Coos Bay wagon road will be opened and stages running over it by August 1. This will beat the Middle Coquille road for all the last week was—Complete by July 15th at the furthest.

Mr. Douglas Tillan and Miss Rhoda Russell were married at Randolph July 15th.

Rev. C. P. Bailey will be here next Friday evening to begin a series of meetings which will be held in the M. E. church. It is needless to ask you to come out, for all will be anxious to hear Bro. B.

The following paragraphs contain fuller extracts published from the report of Capt. Symonds in regard to the work on the Coquille:

"At the time the work of improvement was begun the entrance to the Coquille river was considered very dangerous. It was by a long, tortuous and narrow channel skirting the south headland studded with rocks from beyond the bay on the outside to a distance of one-half mile on the inside. The depth at low water over the bar was only about three feet, and the position of the bar channel was constantly shifting. The channel sometimes at long intervals apart, broke through the north spit and ran directly out to sea just south of Rockliffe rock, but did not remain long in this position. The entrance at such times was comparatively safe, and the channel was at its very best. The mean rise of tide was four and one-tenth feet.

The results of the work already done at the mouth of the Coquille are in the highest degree satisfactory, there being now a straight channel. This result is better than that which the board of engineers hoped to obtain by the completed work. From the outer end of the jolly a deposit of sand tail's out, forming a well defined, low sand jetty or training wall in direct prolongation of the jetty, and on the north side sand has been deposited parallel with the jetty and nearly up to low water, at a distance of about 800 feet from it, forming also a low sand training wall, which altogether direct the ebbing and flooding tides and river waters in a straight and deep channel out over the bar to sea. This result has been hastened very materially by the removal of the mid-channel rock just inside the entrance, which has so long been a terror to mariners, and the cause of many accidents. The rock was drilled and prepared for blasting, but the appropriations became exhausted before this was done. Recognizing the importance of its removal, and the fact that the best time of the year to do it, was during the low tides of June, the citizens on the river contributed the necessary labor, powder and other material for its removal, this office supplying only the blasting machine, and the skilled supervisor, and on June 5th, the blast took place successfully, and the rock was entirely demolished and disappeared.

The snagging and bar scraping done on the river between Coquille City and Myrtle Point, was productive of great good to the navigation of the river. The freshets of the last winter and spring (unprecedented in volume) have, however, again deposited many snags in the river which should be removed.

The following information is obtained from statements furnished by the Coquille Mill and Log Company, Parkersburg, Coos county, Oregon, applicable to the year ending June 30, 1890. The following is a list of business on the Coquille river as far as we can ascertain:

Average Tonnage.
Eight schooners.....375
Three tugboats.....50
Three rowers.....20
Vessels arrived.....53
Vessels cleared.....52
Vessels built.....2
Exports—Lumber.....10,900
Imports—Lumber.....19,500
Imports—Gen'l Merchandise.....3500 tons

Total.....3500 tons
The draught of vessels trading to Coquille is, when loaded, from seven to nine feet.

On the river the steamer Antelope plied between Bandon and Coquille City, twenty-three miles, round trip each day.

Steamer Little Annie, between Bandon and Coquille City, averages two trips a week, mostly freight.

Steamer Gores, Coquille City to Myrtle Point, fourteen miles, round trip each day.

The Katie Cook was used for bar work.

Average passengers each day, twenty. End of year, steamer Little Annie struck on rock, near Bandon, sunk, and total wreck.

Schooner Parkersburg lost wind while sailing in; went on beach, but was gotten off with very little expense.

Fine work and promptness will be their motto.

The following letter has been received by Mr. Hermann:

HON. BRODER HERMANN, M. C.
Washington, D. C.

Sir: Referring to your letter of July 1st, 1890, the board has the honor to inform you that the matter of the establishment of state lights, for aiding the navigation of Coos bay, Oregon, has been referred to the Inspector and Engineer of the light house district for investigation, report and recommendation, and that when the report of these officers has been received, you will be further advised on the subject. Respectfully yours, Geo. W. Corcoran, Commander Asst. Naval Secretary.

The second annual convention of the sheriffs of Oregon, in session in Salem, is attended by fifteen sheriffs, and the proceedings are quite interesting to the officers. The main object of the meeting regards the establishment by the superintendent of the penitentiary of a rogues' gallery, and the publication of a pamphlet for the sheriffs for describing criminals.

Senator Dolph has tried to have called up and passed a bill allowing the people of Albany, Oregon, to construct a bridge. He explained that it had been long on the calendar and it was necessary, as the people were anxious to begin work, but democratic objection prevented it.

Aberdeen is the largest town on Gray's harbor. Six years ago its site was a wilderness; now it is a thriving town of 2000 people, and has electric lights, water works, eight miles of graded streets, ten miles of sidewalks, two banks, four churches, and a monthly pay roll of $35,000. When the railroads are completed this fall the town will forge ahead.

Mr. Charles B. Trescott, who has had a force of from eight to a dozen men fishing for sturgeon near the lower Cascades since the middle of April, and who has bought all the sturgeon caught by the wheels at the Cascades during the season, and has had the whole, comprising many tons, stowed away in the cold storage warehouse and frozen, has shipped the first carload for this season East. The New York market from the Delaware, and the season is now about over there, and as owing to the mild winter there was but little ice put up and it is very dear. None of this Delaware fish has been frozen and now the Columbia fish is wanted in that market. Mr. Trescott has had some boats built and will put a lot of men at work fishing at Astoria, and will also buy the sturgeon caught by outside fishermen.
